EDEN CALLS ON LEAGUE TO BAR TRADE WITH ITALY

DECISION EXPECTED BY FRIDAY AT LATEST

Rumania and Greece Offer Plans to Offset Losses Which Small States Will Suffer if Economic Boycott Is Voted.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—Anthony Eden of Great Britain energetically backed before a meeting of the Economic Sanctions Committee of the League of Nations today a proposal that League states buy nothing from Italy, but no decision was taken by the committee.

Two proposals for aiding those states likely to suffer from repercussion of the economic sanctions were laid before the League subcommittee for mutual assistance. Nicolas Titulescu, Rumanian Foreign Minister, expressed agreement that Eden's "buy nothing boycott" should be put into effect, but pointed out something concrete should be done to offset the trade losses to small states, which are likely to lose their Italian market if the plan goes through. He suggested a "clearing house" arrangement by which the trade which they would lose through operation of the embargo could be allocated among various League states according to the size of their losses.

Second Proposal by Greece.

Demitrioff Maximos of Greece also advocated Eden's plan, but he held that some form of financial "leveling out" of sacrifices should be adopted. He suggested a tax of 2 per cent on all imports of League states to create an equalization fund to be administered by a League agency for the benefit of the victims of the sanctions' repercussions.

Yugoslavia's delegate said his country stood to lose heavily through sanctions since 20 per cent of its exports normally go there.

The proposal, originally advanced by the British for a boycott by League nations of purchases from Italy, was also supported warmly by the Netherlands and Belgium. Rumania, Sweden, Russia and Turkey also favored it. Switzerland, however, advanced some questions.

Eden, British Minister for League Affairs, emerged from the session in high spirits, and sources close to him said no real opposition had developed to this additional form of pressure against Italy.

Peace Talk Gets Attention.

League delegates considered an offensive for peace which Premier Pierre Laval was reported to be conducting at Paris. Reliable sources said Laval contemplated suggestion of an East African peace plan under which the Ethiopian Province of Tigre, now occupied by Italian troops, would go to Italy, which also would gain a mandate over outlying Ethiopian regions.

League sources generally, however, believed that any such program would be opposed by Great Britain and many other Powers, especially Russia.

League officials also anticipated inflexible opposition from Ethiopia to any cession of territory to Italy, whether in the form of a protectorate or otherwise.

Session on 'Buy-Nothing" Plan.

In the session of the Economic Sanctions Committee, some delegates asked for statistical information concerning Italy's exports so that they could visualize better the exact effect of a "buy-nothing-from-Italy" program. Some said privately afterward that they feared if this form of boycott were carried out, Italy would tend to buy nothing from the boycotters and make its purchases entirely from neutral countries.

Eden, however, urged adoption of the plan "because of the ease and swiftness" with which it could be put into operation. He pointed out that the Governments of the world—under the whip of world depression—already had developed to a high pitch of efficiency their control of imports, and that it would be only necessary therefore to issue instructions to customs officials. Eden also emphasized that League states purchase 70 per cent of all Italy's exports.

The Economic Sanctions Committee will resume its discussion of the

TWO FORCES OF ETHIOPIANS INVADE ITALIAN SOMALILAND

4000 Tribesmen Under Dutch Veteran of Boer War Reported to Have Made 45-Mile Advance.

By the Associated Press.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, 5:50 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 15 (delayed in transmission). — Two strong Ethiopian raiding parties entered Italian Somaliland today and claimed marked successes, while an African army of 100,000 warriors advanced toward the left flank of Italy's Southern army.

One of the raiding bands, 4000 men under the leadership of Col. Siwiank, a Hollander, who participated in the Boer War, reported a penetration of 45 miles into Italy's colony.

Col. Siwiank said his force captured the town of Lugh, after going over the frontier at the town of Dolo. Italians said they had taken Dolo 10 days ago. Lugh is strategically situated on an important main road from the coast.

Col. Siwiank owns a large estate in Italian Somaliland, and has long been an opponent of Italian rule.

An even larger band of Ethiopians was making its way over the frontier between Teolo and the Webbe Shibeli River. They were said to have occupied Oddur, 65 miles in the interior of Italian Somaliland. (Oddur is about 200 miles east of Dolo and about 140 miles northeast of Lugh.)

Reports received here indicated that Somali tribes, who hold old grievances against the Italians, were joining the invaders. They were said to have been angered by reports Ethiopian non-combatants had been killed in Italian air raids.

Ethiopians assert they have retaken wells at Udi, despite the fact they were defended by Italian tanks. Three tanks were disabled, it was announced.

FRANCE, BRITAIN QUERYING U. S. ON WILLINGNESS TO CUT IMPORTS FROM ITALY

PARIS, Oct. 16.

OFFICIALS disclosed today that France and Great Britain are sending queries to Washington on whether the United States is willing to restrict its imports from Italy in case the League of Nations applies such a sanction against Premier Mussolini's government.

Formal presentation of the request for information is being referred, pending League action on Britain's suggestion of a boycott against Italian goods.

It also was stated that a similar question was being asked of other powers, including Germany, Japan and Brazil, which are not members of the League. The exploration is being conducted through the ambassadors of those nations.

The attitudes of the non-member countries is sought because of the fact that Yugoslavia, Austria, Spain and certain other countries including the Scandinavian, are regarded as opposed to the plan for a restriction on purchases from Italy.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN BARN ONE OF BREMER KIDNAPERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — The Justice Department said today that another member of the Karpis-Barker kidnaping gang had been found—dead.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, handed out this statement to newspaper men: "We have established to our satisfaction that the body found in the burned barn at Ontarioville, Ill., in January was that of William J. Harrison, member of the Karpis-Barker gang and identified as one of the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul."

He declined to elaborate immediately. Bremer was kidnaped at St. Paul on Jan. 17, 1934.

Statement Adopted at Convention Approves League Sanctions.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—The American Federation of Labor declared Italy an "outlaw nation" today and urged the countries of the world to deny her financial and commercial assistance in the Ethiopian conflict.

"The territory of a peaceful nation has been invaded," a statement adopted by the Federation convention said, "in order to carry out a policy of Fascist conquest. Our country was a leader in the movement which resulted in the Kellogg peace pact. The attack now being made on Ethiopia is in violation of the Kellogg pact."

The statement "emphatically approved" the neutrality policy of President Roosevelt and Congress and declared Italy "an outlaw nation, which all civilized countries should refuse to assist commercially, financially or in any other manner."

Suggestions from the floor that the United States should adopt a stronger policy to bar shipment of materials to Italy and that the Federation consider indorsement of the work of the committee for Ethiopian independence were rejected.

The convention approved the action of the League of Nations against Italy.

"Labor is always the major sufferer in every war," the statement said, "this being true of victor and vanquished alike. The dictator's (Mussolini's) determination to secure his objective through the use of armed force was taken with the knowledge that his act might precipitate another general war."

The pronouncement was prepared by the Resolutions' Committee, reporting on sections of the executive council's report.

CLEVELAND MILLIONAIRE LOSES CONTEMPT SENTENCE APPEAL

K. V. Painter, Who Refused to Answer Questions in Bank Case, Denied Review.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16.—The Ohio Supreme Court refused today to review the contempt of court sentence of Kenyon V. Painter, Cleveland millionaire, who refused to answer questions regarding his assets and liabilities in connection with money owed to the closed Cleveland Union Trust Co. Painter was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $500. The refusal to review upheld the sentence and fine.

Painter was the principal witness in a common pleas court case involving execution of a judgment of $3,158,855.67 obtained against him by the superintendent of banks as liquidator for the Union Trust. After all of Painter's security, there still remained a deficit of approximately $2,300,000. Henry H. Pleasant was appointed referee by the Court to conduct the inquiry. Painter refused to answer questions, and was "evasive," the Court was told. Then the referee reported to the common pleas judge that Painter refused to answer questions, or would ask the attorneys questions rather than give answers.

He was sentenced to jail on four contempt charges. Three were suspended and Painter given further opportunity to answer. When he again refused, the suspended sentences were revoked.

British Cruiser Runs Aground.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 16.—The British battle cruiser Renown went aground in the Admiralty harbor today while en route to its berth after exercises in the Mediterranean with other ships of the British fleet stationed here. The Renown was refloated with the aid of tugs.

TWO MEN FIGHT POLICE, ESCAPE IN AUTO CHASE

28 HOLES OR DENTS IN PAIR'S MACHINE

Two men who sped away, when detectives sought to question them at 3:30 o'clock this morning at Compton and Chouteau avenues, led the officers on a reckless chase which lasted an hour. Finally the men escaped on foot through the fields back of the City Sanitarium.

Intermittently during the chase shots were fired from the police car, or that of the fugitives. The detectives fired until their ammunition was exhausted, 21 revolver shots and four blasts from a whippet gun. Ten or 12 revolver shots were fired by the fugitives.

Fugitives' Auto Wrecked.

The chase ended when the automobile of the fugitives skidded on a dirt road on the sanitarium grounds, crashed into a ditch and lost its left rear wheel. Under the cloud of dust raised by the skidding car the fugitives made their getaway.

The automobile, an Essex sedan, was found to have 28 holes or dents in it, caused by the detectives' bullets or slugs from the whippet gun. One bullet hole in the rear of the car was on a line with the driver's seat. Police recalled that at one point in the chase the driver slumped behind the wheel. They thought he might have been wounded.

In the car were two slot machines, a radio and a cigarette vending machine, taken, police thought, in a burglary.

The cigarette machine, radio and one of the slot machines were identified later by Charles J. Burkert as having been stolen early today in a burglary at his tavern, 8612 St. Charles road, Overland. Police refused to restore the slot machine to him, on the ground it was a gambling device subject to seizure when found within the city limits.

Start of the Chase.

Detectives Arthur Sept, William Dunman and George Parker were cruising in the vicinity of Compton and Chouteau avenues when they saw the Essex approaching over the viaduct, and noticed that the back seat was loaded with something which proved later to be the slot machines, radio and cigarette machine.

As the automobile of the detectives, with Parker at the wheel, drew near the other car, it sped east in Chouteau avenue. At Eighteenth street it turned north, swung into an alley, and cut back over Twenty-first street to Chouteau avenue, where it turned west.

The chase led out Chouteau to Manchester avenue, and then south through the section known as the "Hill." Several times the automobile of the fugitives, closely followed by the police car, dodged in and out of filling stations.

Bumping over the rough stretch of Arsenal street west of Kingshighway, torn up because of work being done on the street car tracks, the cars turned into the Sanitarium grounds, and sped over the private roads there. On the dirt road leading from the Isolation Hospital to the pump house, at a point near Brannon avenue and Connecticut street, the car of the fugitives was wrecked.

The detectives, leaping from their automobile, waited a moment for the dust to settle before approaching the wrecked car. When the air had cleared, they could find no trace of the fugitives.

NEWSPAPER GUILD VOTES TO REMAIN OUT OF A. F. L.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — The American Newspaper Guild's referendum, conducted last month, failed by 35 votes to show a two-thirds majority in favor of Guild affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

Under the terms of the referendum, a two-thirds majority was required to authorize the national officers to take steps to affiliate the Guild with the A. F. of L. The vote for affiliation was 65.4 per cent, or 1.2 per cent less than the 66.6 per cent requirement.

The total vote cast and counted is given as 2814. Of these, 1841 were for affiliation, 973 against.

WESTERN ELECTRIC HEAD TESTIFIES

Says Employes Got Money's Worth When They Bought Graybar Company, a Subsidiary.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—William Fox, motion picture magnate, was arrested today in Atlantic City, N. J., on a Federal warrant issued at the request of the Congressional Committee on Patents, David G. Berger, counsel to the committee, announced. Fox will appear before the committee here later today.

According to Berger, Fox ignored a subpena for his appearance, causing the issuance of the warrant.

The committee is holding hearings on proposed changes in patent laws and expects to look particularly into patent poolings and cross licensing in the movie, telephone, electrical and radio industries, Berger said. The hearings are expected to last two weeks.

The committee is made up of Representatives William I. Sirovich of New York, Charles Kramer of California, Thomas O'Malley of Wisconsin, Mathew A. Dunn of Pennsylvania, Randolph Perkins of New Jersey, R. T. Buckler of Minnesota, Thomas A. Amlie of Wisconsin and William D. McFarlane of Texas.

Sale of Graybar Electric Co.

Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric, the first witness to appear, was asked to explain the sale of his subsidiary, the Graybar Electric Co., to the company employes.

He testified that Western Electric received $3,000,000 from the 2500 employes and took $5,000,000 in nonvoting stock.

"How much water was there in the pail when you sold the company to the employes?" Congressman Kramer asked.

"I personally fixed the figure," Bloom said, "and the company was worth what the employes paid for it. I think, in fact, the assets exceeded what they paid for it."

Gerard Swope Testifies.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., defending the pooling of patents before the committee yesterday, citing as an example the pooling of communication patents after the World War, when the Radio Corporation of America was formed.

"It was the only way that we could develop the art of radio transmission to its present height," he told the House committee, which is investigating proposed patent legislation.

Swope, like Dr. Frank Baldwin Jewett, president of the Bell Laboratories, who preceded him on the stand, said he could foresee little danger of adverse effects arising from the proposal to force all companies to register cross-licensing agreements with the Federal Trade Commission.

Releasing of Patents.

He was asked by Representative Dunn of Pennsylvania about reports that General Electric and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. had "kept patents suppressed" because they feared that releasing them would make existing equipment obsolete.

"I have heard that mentioned a good many times," Swope said, "but in all my experience I have never known of such a case. That is fatuous. If you don't put things on the market yourself, somebody else will. Just from a selfish purpose we would bring things out. The danger is bringing them out too soon."

Answering a question by Dunn as to the effect of Japanese incandescent lamps on General Electric business, Swope said that his concern could not meet Japanese labor costs.

"The only way we can pay high wages is to increase our management ingenuity," he said.

"That means that Congress should not interfere with business?" asked Representative Randolph Perkins, of New Jersey.

"I should say that may be true."

Unemployment in Industry.

After Swope had declared that General Electric was employing 50,000 men against a normal of 100,000, Dunn asked him what was the cause of unemployment.

"Too much production—no, not enough consumption. I believe mechanization of industry is going to

The Mother of the Baby

—Posed in the Lobby of the Court of Appeals.

ANNA WARE.

GIRL IS POSITIVE SHE WAS WOMAN IN JONES' AUTO

Unmarried Mother, in Direct Testimony, Declares That Jones, When Asked, Did Not Deny Muenches Got Her Baby.

TESTIFIES TO TALK WITH HIM ABOUT IT

Says Lawyer Told Her She Might Recover Infant and Suggested That People Who Had It Might Give Her Money.

On cross-examination today in St. Louis Court of Appeals, Anna Ware, unmarried mother, testified that the woman with whom she went riding prior to the birth of her baby last August, and whom she again identified as Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, asked if she had reddish hair.

She declared she was positive that the woman, whom she supposed to be the prospective foster-mother of her baby, was Mrs. Muench, red-haired star of the bizarre baby case drama. Mrs. Muench is one of six respondents sued by Anna Ware in a habeas corpus action for custody of the child, alleged by her to be in possession of Dr. Ludwig O. Muench and his wife at their home at 4736 Westminster place.

Auto Ride With Jones and Woman.

Going over her testimony given under direct examination, Anna related that Attorney Wilfred Jones, friend and off-the-record adviser of the Muenches, invited her to go riding one night, and took her out in his automobile with the woman whom she identified as Mrs. Muench. It was during this ride, she testified, before Special Commissioner Rush H. Limbaugh, that the question about the color of her hair was asked.

Describing her baby, the witness said that it had dark eyes, but whether blue or not she was unable to say. She said its skin was reddish, that its face was larger in the upper half than the lower half, and that its ears were wrinkled and close to its head. She was told it weighed eight and one-half pounds.

She described Francis A. Giordon of Newtown, Pa., whom she named as the father of her child. Giordon is a son-in-law of Mrs. Rebecca Winner, a midwife, at whose home at 6015 Maple avenue, Anna Ware's baby was born on Aug. 17.

Conversations With Jones.

After she had resumed the witness stand this morning at the opening of the second day of the hearing, the petitioner was questioned for half an hour by her lawyer, Harry C. Barker. During this examiantion she told how she had questioned Wilfred Jones about getting back the baby after it was taken from her, following its birth.

The conversations with Jones about getting the baby back occurred, she testified, on the day she left Mrs. Winner's home, about nine days after the birth of her baby. The child had been taken from her the night of Aug. 17, less than 18 hours after it was born, under an arrangement made by Jones.

Anna Ware, clad in blue and speaking in a subdued voice, testified this morning that she asked Jones if she might get her baby back if she should raise the money spent for her care and other expenses by the persons who were to adopt it.

Jones, she continued, said that that might be possible, and added that the expenses were between $275 and $300. He suggested, she said, that she might also get some money from the people who had the baby.

"He didn't explain that," she said, "and I don't know what he meant."

Asked if there was any discussion about taking the fingerprints of her baby, she said that before it was born Mrs. Winner said it might be possible to record fingerprints if the baby were taken to a hospital,

FEDERAL DEFICIT GOING UP $9,500,000 A DAY

It Has Passed Billion-Dollar Mark for the Present Fiscal Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — The Treasury deficit has passed the billion-dollar mark for the present fiscal year. The Treasury statement put the deficit at $1,007,457,156 through Oct. 14. This compared with a deficit of $687,211,671 on the comparable date of last year.

At the present rate, the Government is operating at a $9,500,000 loss each day. At this rate, the deficit on June 30 next, would be $3,477,000,000, compared with a $3,281,000,000 revised estimate made public recently. Last January's annual budget message forecast a deficit of $4,528,000,000.

ROOSEVELT INSPECTS CANAL, TO REVIEW TROOPS AT FORT

By the Associated Press.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, Panama Canal Zone, Oct. 16.—President Roosevelt inspected the canal today.

He invited the President Harmodio Arias of Panama and Senora de Arias for a visit aboard the U. S. S. Houston before starting a motor trip to Madden Dam.

The President also arranged for a luncheon at Fort Clayton, where he was to review the troops before reboarding the Houston in the middle of the canal to continue the trip to the Atlantic.

The President is expected to take a couple of days on the way home to visit the West Indies for fishing.

WAGES FOR DILIGENT STUDY

NYA Can't Find Work for 11,000 New York High School Students.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Officials of the National Youth Administration said today they had given up hope of finding work for 11,000 New York high school students who are to get $3 to $6 a month from the Federal Government.

Needy students originally were to be required to perform "socially desirable work" but this qualification has been dropped and they are required only to be diligent in their studies. No trouble has been found in placing college students who draw $15 to $40 a month.

GERMAN WAR ACADEMY REOPENED BY HITLER

High Army Officers Attend Ceremony—Operation Outlawed by Versailles Treaty.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Germany's War Academy was reopened today in the presence of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, on the 125th anniversary of the founding of the original academy. The Versailles treaty forbade operation of the Academy.

Present with Hitler were Herman Goering, infantry General in the Reichswehr, and August von Mackensen, Field Marshal, as well as other high army officers.

The Academy's commander, Gen Curt Liebman, praised Hitler for the freedom assured the Academy to continue its work.

Gen. Werner von Blomberg defined the Academy's work. Its purpose, he said, is "to enliven the army's spirit, to more closely unite the army and the nation and to point the course is its essential task as the fundamental basis of the institution." He exhorted the Academy and the general staff to "never forget the great experience of the World War."

SCRAP IRON CARGO FOR ITALY

Freighter With 10,000 Tons to Leave Jersey City Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—An Italian freighter will leave here tomorrow with a cargo of 10,000 tons of scrap and cast iron to be used, the ship's captain says, for plating Italian ships and for welding purposes.

The cargo is being loaded on the San Julian, owned by the Cantieri Metallurgici Della Venezia Giulia Co. of Italy, Capt. Peter Straulino said the cargo was not subject to President Roosevelt's neutrality proclamation as the iron "would not be used for armaments or munitions." He said it was not of suitable quality for such a purpose.

MORE MONTANA EARTH SHOCKS

50 in Four Days at Helena; Many Families Leave Homes.

By the Associated Press.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 16.—More than 50 earth tremors have shaken this city in four days. Many families left their homes to stay with friends in other cities until the shocks have ceased.

Two fairly heavy tremors late yesterday added to the $50,000 property damage resulting from the first earthquake, widening cracks already opened and resulting in new damage of a minor nature.

ITALIAN ARMY BEGINS ADVANCE TOWARD MAKALE

CHIEF OF STAFF GOING TO ADUWA

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ADUWA, Ethiopia, 4:30 p. m., Oct. 14 (delayed).—Rapid construction of a road to the present front lines has permitted the Italian northern armies to start an advance toward the more important objective of Makale.

Gen. Emilio de Bono, Commander-in-Chief of the Fascist forces in East Africa, left for field headquarters after receiving complete submission of the civil and religious authorities of Aksum, ancient capital and sacred city of Ethiopia.

Officers expected Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Chief of the General Staff, to come here shortly for a week, with the field headquarters to be moved closer to the front lines. The Marshal will go to Italian Somaliland to survey the situation.

The new road over the mountains from Italy's colony of Eritrea to Aduwa, one of the first objectives achieved in the campaign of occupation, has just been completed.

It permits trucks to get through to the present front with food supplies. Col. Ernesto Riccardi, head of the Engineers' Corps which carried the road to completion, is being called the "Hannibal of Eritrea."

Makale Governor Joins Italians.

No special resistance is expected in the drive on Makale, 60 miles southeast of Aduwa and a strategic caravan center on the route into the interior, because Degiac Haile Selassie Gugsa, Governor of Makale, has come over to the Italian side.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, made a scouting flight up to and 50 miles beyond Makale, and saw only scattered, small groups of Ethiopians who quickly fled to cover.

Many Ethiopians who surrendered to Italy in this region, however, were still entirely Negus man (supporters of Emperor Haile Selassie) and felt that Italian occupation was an example of "law by force."

Interview With Ethiopian.

This morning, the correspondent met one of the chief men of this town and the conversation with him gave evidence of the attitude of a part of the population of Aduwa.

"How do the people feel about the Italian occupation?" he was asked.

"They can't do anything but accept it," he replied. "It is law by force."

"Why didn't Ras Seyoum (Ethiopian commander in the north and Governor of Aduwa and the province of Tigre) put up a bigger fight?"

"Because he realized it was useless. The Italians had overwhelming numbers and materials."

The chieftain thereupon pointed to the mountains beyond Aduwa and said with pride: "But he's there with a huge army now. He is very strong."

"How far do your people think the Italian army will advance?" "They may not even reach Makale."

"Are you looking for a big battle sometime soon?" "Yes. A large part of the population is still in the hill villages. This street which was once a river of people is now deserted."

2000 Natives Work on Road.

Italian civil administrators of Aduwa, however, insisted that virtually all the native population had returned here. Near Aduwa, 2000 men were working on the new road.

The first heavy artillery batteries moved over the mountains toward Aduwa—heavy pieces which could have destroyed this city, had they been brought into line. Their use was not necessary, however, in the easy taking of this early objective.

Aduwa is booming under Italian domination. Prices are soaring to a point where the Aduwans are quickly becoming millionaires in their own estimation.

They now charge ten lire (about 80 cents) for a bottle of beer—four times the cost of beer in Rome. However Aduwan shopkeepers sell champagne for the same price as wine, 40 lire (about $3.20) a flask—eight times the cost in Rome.

Italian authorities, asserting almost all the civil population frightened away by the advance on Aduwa had returned, said they expected all local chieftains to come back within a few days and offer their submission.

The intelligence service learned that the only reason for the hesitancy of some chieftains in returning was based on a report among the African tribesmen that on surrender they would be sent deep into Eritrea.

This rumor arose from the fact that several chieftains were sent to Asmara, Eritrea, for questioning regarding the movements of the enemy. They were permitted to return immediately to their native lands.

The fact also that the Coptic Christian clergy of Aksum and the head military chieftains of the Holy City submitted peacefully led officials at field headquarters to believe that a thoroughly peaceful occupation of the entire Northwestern territory would be but a matter of a few days.

Rains in the South.

At the headquarters near Aduwa, advances also were reported from the Southern front, out of Italian Somaliland into Ethiopia, but the forward movement has been hindered by rains.

These reports to Gen. de Bono said the troops which ocupied Gerlogubi several days ago moved on to Gorahei in an advance along the line to Harar, capital of the Southern province of the same name. The general staff here hoped to squeeze the Ethiopians between Harar and Makale.

The sacred Ethiopian city of Aksum came formally under the power of the eternal city of Rome Monday when Gen. de Bono personally received the submission of Aksum chieftains. He then received this writer and small groups of other newspaper men who braved the hardships of the newly-made mountain roads to reach Aduwa again.

Pointing to the fertile planes on which Aksum lies, Gen. de Bono said they were the reason Italy entered Ethiopia.

The white-clad, turbaned local chieftains who came to make their submission to Gen. de Bono arrived with small followings of armed men.

Chieftains Retain Arms.

Gen. de Bono and the chiefs sat in a circle before the Italian Consulate buildings here, as the Italian Commander-in-Chief gave them permission to retain their arms.

Possession of arms is considered a sign of rank in Ethiopia, and sequestration of their weapons would have been the greatest humiliation possible for the Ethiopian leaders.

Prisoners taken by the Italians are being kept behind barbed wire entanglements at field headquarters. The men are living in huts which they constructed themselves. Camp authorities said the men would be put to work shortly on road construction.

These prisoners, most of them taken in the early advance on Aduwa, are part of the total of 500 Ethiopians thus far captured by Italian troops.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 16.—Informed sources at Naples said today that the Metauro division of about 15,000 regular troops had slipped away in small contingents for an unannounced destination. These sources said the division, from Ancona on the Adriatic, was sent to Italy's North African possession of Libya.

Ethiopians Say Italians Are Preparing for New Offensives.

By the Associated Press.

DIREDAWA, Ethiopia, via Djibouti, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(Delayed.)—Ethiopians today expressed the belief that an intensive Italian push on both fronts, accompanied by widespread bombing, will begin as soon as Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, the Italian Minister, leaves the country with the consul from Magalo.

Observers report a large concentration of both European and native troops is being made behind the present Ogaden front for a dash across the 230-mile stretch of waterless desert.

The Ethiopian main army under Dedjazmatch (General Nessibu is in front of Jijiga ready to give battle in the lowlands. Ras Desta's flanking forces are expected to come into the action in an endeavor to drive a wedge into the invaders.

French army pilots flying along the French Somaliland frontier saw 2000 Ethiopian cavalrymen approaching Mount Mussa Ali, 60 miles southwest of Assab within the Ethiopian frontier.

Italian tanks and 45,000 infantrymen, of whom 25,000 are natives, are said to be massed on the eastern flank of the mountain awaiting a signal for the second desert march preceded by bombing planes. The principal objectives of the march are thought to be Addis Ababa, Dessye, bridges and the railway.

Harar Residents Who Fled to Hills Return to Homes.

By the Associated Press.

HARAR, Ethiopia, Oct. 16.—Inhabitants of this city who fled to the hills yesterday at the appearance of Italian planes returned to their homes today. Americans in the city also resumed desultory lives at the hotel, as confidence was restored.

The Government has imposed a rigid bar on photographs of military, governmental and commercial activities. American journalists and cameramen hope the Government will grant a permit to allow them to go to the front, but prospects appeared small today.

EDEN CALLS ON LEAGUE TO BAR TRADE WITH ITALY

An official communique issued after the session of the Economic Committee observed that no decision was reached on the proposal because certain delegates "were not yet in a position to decide." The committee agreed, however, that the discussion would continue tomorrow, "it being understood that the co-ordination committee shall be able to reach a conclusion by Friday at the latest."

The proposal of the British delegation for prohibition on importation of Italian goods follows:

"The Governments of the members of the League of Nations will prohibit importation into their territories of all goods (other than gold or silver buillion or coin) consigned from or produced or manufactured in Italy or Italian possessions from whatever place arriving.

"Goods grown or produced in Italy or Italian posessions which have been subjected to some process in another country, and goods manufactured partly in Italy or Italian possessions and partly in another country will be considered as falling within the scope of the prohibition unless 25 per cent or more of the value of the goods when they left the place where they were last consigned is attributable to processes undergone since the goods last left Italy or Italian possessions.

Existing Contracts Included.

"Goods which are the subject of existing contracts will not be excepted from the prohibition.

"Goods en route at the time of imposition of the prohibition will be excepted from its operations.

"In giving effect to this provision, Governments may for the convenience of administration fix an appropriate date having regard for the normal time necessary for transport from Italy after which goods will become subject to the prohibition.

"Personal belongings of travelers from Italy or Italian possessions may also be excepted from its operations."

The plenary sanctions committee of 52 states adopted a report of military experts slightly revising President Roosevelt's list of what constitutes implements of war. The report lists mustard gas and other gases included in the Roosevelt statement and "all other products destined for chemical and incendiary warfare."

Motta, spokesman for Switzerland, said the use of ison gas was prohibited by International law and it should not be therefore sent anywhere, even to Ethiopia.

With the first two weeks of warfare climaxed by reports of peace gestures, a League official in close touch with the situation said the Italian-Ethiopian crisis probably would not come to a head until about Jan. 1. Experts on economic sanctions said they were unable to promise that the full throttling effect even of double-edged export and import sanctions actually would be operative by Christmas, mentioned in Italian circles here as the date, at the latest Italian troops hope to reach Addis Ababa.

An official communique said the discussion of the economic committee showed the general opinion was that the most efficacious measures should be taken "to halt as soon as possible the hostilities in Ethiopia, or in other words, to put the aggressor as soon as possible into a position where he cannot pursue his adventure."

Some delegations asked whether it would be advisable to prevent the exportation to Italy of such things as automobiles and other manufactured articles. This question was sent to military experts for an advisory opinion.

Turkey and Canada were among states which were pressed for an early examination of the possibility of severing all exports from Italy.

reduce costs. Then prices, and will result in greater consumption."

When the questioning reverted to the patent situation, Swope interjected a belief that the so-called "poor inventor" was really better off than popularly supposed. He cited Thomas A. Edison as an "inventor who did not suffer from lack of funds."

"Suppose some company asked for a license to manufacture incandescent lamps under your patent," he was asked.

"We wouldn't give it to him because there are enough manufacturers in the field now."

"Then you can decide who your competitor will be?" "Yes, sir."

50 REPORTED DROWNED IN ACCIDENT IN RIVER NILE

Government Ferryboat Overturned at Town on West Bank Near Luxor.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 16.—Fifty persons are reported to have been drowned when a Government ferryboat overturned today at the town of Nag Hamadi on the west bank of the Nile near Luxor.

ETHIOPIAN KING SAYS HIS FORCES ARE UNDEFEATED

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 16.—Emperor Haile Selassie said today that Ethiopian forces had not been defeated on any front. Italian occupation of Aduwa and Aksum, he declared, was without military significance, the Ethiopians having withdrawn for strategic reasons.

The Emperor said the Fascists were permitted to enter these cities on the northern front unopposed, that no decisive battle had yet been fought and that none would be until the Italians approached Ethiopia's real defensive positions in the mountains of the interior.

Government officials, denying reports published abroad that Ras Nesibu was ordered to take the offensive on the southern Ogaden desert front, asserted:

"An offensive on any front is contrary to all our carefully worked out plans. We stand pat in defending our land. If there is any offensive, the Italians must take the initiative. We cannot afford to waste ammunition in the desert lowlands."

Difficulties for Italians.

Ethiopians said it would not be long before Gen. Emilio de Bono's forces, jubilant over the "capture" of Aduwa and Aksum, would find themselves lost in the maze of ravines, cavernous valleys and mountain fastnesses which form the northern bulwark of Emperor Haile Selassie's domain.

On all sides the comment was heard that once the Italians reached the forbidding interior of Ethiopia, the warriors of Ras Seyoum, commander in the north, would waste no time in making an attack.

Capital advices, however, indicated that both the Italian and Ethiopian forces were playing for time, each wondering what the other's next move would be.

(Dispatches from the Italian side of the northern front said that, with a road constructed to Aduwa, the Fascists were ready to resume their advance on Makale, 60 miles deeper into Ethiopia.)

Harar Bombing Expected.

Considerable misgiving prevailed in Ethiopian circles here for the safety of Harar, "Garden of Ethiopia" and strategic city behind the southern lines, which it was thought would be the next target of Italian bombing planes.

Concern also was felt for the ability of the Ethiopian forces on the southern Ogaden desert front to hold out against the strong drive to the north from Italian Somaliland by the Italian troops under Gen. Rudolfo Graziani.

One Ethiopian commander in the south appealed to Harar and to Addis Ababa for help. Troops rushed toward that front to lend support.

While the Ethiopian warriors were becoming accustomed to the bursting of bombs, they were still bewildered at the speed with which the Italian armored cars dashed over the roughest terrain. This factor was reported to have aroused misgivings over defense of the empire, causing many Ethiopians to doubt their own asset of mobility.

The capital's traffic problem, meanwhile, became more serious as the streets were congested with hordes of tribesmen pouring in from the provinces.

More than 150,000 fresh soldiers will pass through Addis Ababa for review by the Emperor before proceeding to the fronts.

A possibility was mentioned in some Ethiopian quarters that the King might send some of his warriors home again, particularly since the arms supply is not large enough for all.

Revolt in Gojjam Denied.

The Government repeated denials of a revolt in Gojjam province and desertions in Tigres, adding that the Governor of Gojjam, Ras Emeru, is a cousin of Haile Selassie and one of his most loyal followers. The desertion of Haile Selassie Gugsa with his retinue of 100 was admitted, but his defection was held to be unimportant.

The Italians are unlikely to make Gugsa King in the Northern area, the Emperor said, because of the opposition of the other chiefs to the deserter. Gugsa was held by the Emperor to be responsible for the cutting off of the only telegraph line from the capital to the Northern front.

Among those evacuating today was Vicenzo Bussoti, an Italian, who carried with him an estimated 1,000,000 lire worth of platinum (about $80,000) mined by Italian concessionaries in the empire.

Britain Meets Opposition in Egypt In Seeking Support for Sanctions

Premier Awaiting King Fuad's Decision on Proposal for Assembly of Parties to Consider Question.

By the Associated Press.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 16.—The question of joining Great Britain in sanctions against Italy to halt the war in Ethiopia complicated an Egyptian political crisis today.

The future of the stop-gap government of Premier Tewfik Nessim Pasha appeared to rest entirely in the hands of King Fuad, ruler of this northeast African kingdom, once a British protectorate and now nominally independent.

Egypt's juridical and territorial rights and its important commercial and sentimental ties with Italy, extending back to the days of ancient Rome, clearly embarrassed British efforts to persuade Egypt to conform with Britain's policy toward Italy.

Awaiting Reply from King.

Premier Nessim awaited the King's answer to proposals he submitted for an assembly of parties in connection with application of sanctions.

The Premier, who represents no party, accepted office as a national duty after the constitution was abolished and Parliament dissolved Dec. 1, 1934.

An authority in close touch with the Premier said his proposals for the assembly of parties represented the utmost concessions Britain was willing to make to pave the way for a new British-Egyptian treaty in return for active support in sanctions against Italy.

Virtually the entire Egyptian press has been carrying on a violent campaign against Nessim, charging that he was a "puppet and tool of Great Britain."

The opinion gained ground steadily in Egyptian political circles that Nessim would be forced to resign if he was unable to arrange a settlement with Great Britain on the basis of his proposals.

Furthermore, Italian communities in Egypt have a population of 125,000, including 45,000 Italians in Alexandria. Many of them occupy important posts in public and private concerns.

Agitation Renewed.

All Egyptian parties have combined in a renewed campaign against British military occupation, and for return of the Parliament, re-establishment of the constitution and a treaty alliance with Great Britain.

Even while this campaign persisted, however, the Egyptian press gave unmistakable evidence of sympathy for Ethiopians because of the ties through Moslems and the Coptic church.

The British men-of-war, holding maneuvers between here and Port Said, the entrance to the Suez canal on Italy's route to East Africa, were expected to put back into port Friday.

PEIPING FINDS 'MOSLEMS' ARE U. S. SHRINERS ON TOUR

City Prepared Welcome for Group In Mohammedan Mosques; Masons Save the Day.

By the Associated Press.

PIEPING, China, Oct. 16. — The municipality, advised by Government authorities that 50 "American Moslems" were on their way to the city, made feverish preparations today for an elaborate Mohammedan welcome.

North China's many mosques were thrown open for the reception to the "San Francisco Mohammedan pilgrims." The mayor and other officials lent a helping hand to Chinese Moslems. Resident Masons, however, forestalled a possibly embarrassing situation by advising municipal authorities that the visitors were Shriners, on tour of the Oirent.

The Shrine emblems and terminology had been mistaken as evidence of the San Franciscans' adherence to the Islamic faith. The Mohammedan ceremones were called off.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED TO AMERICAN WIFE

Mrs. Bertha Bates Zuccaro Who Married Italian Gets Court Ruling.

Mrs. Bertha Bates Zuccaro, member of an old St. Louis family, who married an Italian nobleman in 1921, obtained restoration of American citizenship yesterday in the court of City Judge Ralph Cook at East St. Louis.

Mrs. Zuccaro, a former teacher of Greek in McKinley High School, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles Woodson Bates, 5231 Waterman avenue. She decided to take advantage of an amendment to the naturalization laws, making it possible for the American wife of an alien to obtain restoration of citizenship without declaring her intention of making the United States her permanent home.

The court action will not change her status abroad, said Mrs. Zuccaro, who plans to return next week to her husband at Taormina, Sicily, where they reside on the estate held by his family for more than 400 years. His title is Don Carlo Zuccaro dei Pietraguliti.

Mrs. Zuccaro, a granddaughter of an Attorney-General in President Lincoln's cabinet, inherited $169,000 from her former fiance, William R. Donaldson Jr., who was fatally burned in a gasoline explosion at his country home near Clayton in 1914. On his deathbed Donaldson added a codicil to his will leaving part of his estate to his fiancee.

During the war Miss Bates was one of the first St. Louis women accepted by the Red Cross for foreign service and served at a base hospital in France. Before that she served in the Women's Volunteer Motor Corps and participated in other war activities.

Phone Call to Holliday Home.

Anna related that from Mrs. Winner's home she had gone to the home of Mrs. Homer Holliday, 9317 Manchester road, and remained there until she was taken away by reporters for the St. Louis Star-Times. Counsel asked her to tell what occurred while she was at Mrs. Holliday's, particularly whether she had any telephone calls.

"Yes," Anna said. "Mrs. Winner called up once and said she would send a stranger to pick me up. I asked why. She said, hadn't I read the newspapers? I told Mrs. Winner I had no reason to hide, and felt safe where I was."

The newspapers referred to were those which contained accounts of a grand jury investigation in St. Louis County of the birth of a baby at the home of Mrs. Winner.

"Mr. Jones came to see me the Saturday before I left Mrs. Holliday's," Anna continued. "He asked me if I had seen all this in the newspapers. I asked him what the [illegible] was, I didn't understand why I was in the papers. I was becoming suspicious then.

What Jones Told Her.

"He said, 'The reporters think Mrs. Muench has your baby.' I said, 'Has she?' He said, 'No, I have proof that she hasn't.' He showed me a letter and told me the father had as much to say as I did where the baby was to go.

"He said he had put two and two together and thought that Mr. Giordon was the father. That made me angry. I told him I had put two and two together and thought Mrs. Muench had my baby. He didn't deny it then."

Jones, it will be recalled, had arranged with Mrs. Giordon, daughter of Mrs. Winner, to send Anna to St. Louis to have her baby. Anna worked as a domestic in the Giordon home near Newtown, Pa., and has charged Giordon in a warrant with being the father of her child.

"I asked to see the letter," Anna continued. "It was addressed to Mr. Jones and it . . ." She was halted by an objection that the letter was the best evidence. The Court sustained the objection.

Asked whether quinine was administered to her, before the baby's birth, by Dr. Chester Denny, Anna said the physician gave her two-grain capsules "to help the baby along," and that Mrs. Winner said it was "an infant's dose," and gave her five-grain capsules. She did not say how many of either she took.

Description of Baby.

Anna was then asked as to the occasions on which she had written a description of the baby. Counsel for Mrs. Muench objected that the question was aimed at a possible defense, which might not be offered. He said the question would not be relevant unless such writings were offered by the respondents. This objection was overruled.

"The Saturday after I left Mrs. Winner's and went to the Holliday home," Anna said, "Mrs. Winner and her daughter, Mrs. Orchard came over in the afternoon and told me they were going to find out whether Mrs. Muench had my baby. To find out that, they said, they would have to have a description written by me.

"I wrote my description, Mrs. Winner helping me, as she had seen the baby. I told them I wouldn't believe them unless I saw the baby myself, and that I wanted to see it. They told me they would come back after they had been to the Muench home, but they never came back."

Baby Taken Away.

Repeating testimony of yesterday, she said that the baby was taken from her between 11:30 p. m. and midnight on the day of its birth, Aug. 17, by a woman in a nurse's uniform, who had awakened her from a nap. She told again how she asked Jones, also in Mrs. Winner's apartment at the time, why the baby was to be taken away so late at night.

"He told me he had been busy all day and hadn't got around to it," she said. "Mrs. Winner asked me if I wanted to kiss the baby good-by, and I said I wanted to kiss it, but not good-by, because I expected to see it later at Jewish Hospital (where she had been told by Jones it was to be taken.)

"I thought the nurse was from the Jewish Hospital and I didn't pay much attention to her appearance. She had dark hair and was of medium height, as well as I could tell. I was lying in bed. She smiled a lot. She had large eyes and a thin face."

At this point, 10:40 o'clock, the direct examination ended.

Cross-examination was begun by State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, who was one of Mrs. Muench's 13 lawyers at her recent trial in Mexico, Mo., on a charge of kidnaping Dr. I. D. Kelley. The trial resulted in acquittal.

In response to his questions Anna said she was 19 years old, that her last birthday was on May 16, that she was one of a family of two boys and three girls, and that her parents, that is her mother and stepfather, lived in Philadelphia. She left home, she said, when she was 15 because her parents were unable to keep her.

She did housework, and in October or November of 1932 went to work for the Giordons. She got that job, she said, because her mother then lived in the tenant house on the Giordon place and worked for them as a laundress. She was unable to fix the date when her relations with Giordon began, but said it was when she was 17.

Description of Giordon.

The attorney then got her to describe herself and Giordon. Anna said that Giordon's complexion and hair were dark, and that he had a mustache. His nose, she said, was straight. Asked if it was wide or thin, she found difficulty in expressing herself, finally answering, "It's just a regular nose."

Giordon's lips, she said, were not thick; his ears, small and regular, set close to his head. Keating asked if she knew that Giordon's name had been originally Giordono, and if she did not know that he was a Sicilian. Anna said she did not know.

"Well, does he look like a Southern Italian?" counsel asked. "I don't know what a Southern Italian is," Anna responded.

Anna was asked if Giordon's face was wide. She answered that it was thin.

Girl Describes Herself.

Describing herself, in response to questions, Anna said that her eyes were not dark, as he suggested, but hazel. Asked if her eyes were oblique, she said they were "slanting." Her cheek bones, she agreed, were high and wide, and her lips, full and round.

"Is it true that you have not charged Giordon with rape?" "No, I charged him with being the father of my child."

"Is the proceeding still pending?" "I believe it is."

Asked about the coming of her sister, Mary Ware, now Mrs. Robert Whitlock, to St. Louis, Anna said Mary came here with a Post-Dispatch reporter, going to the reporter's home, and that she, Anna, saw her some time later.

Relations With the Giordons.

The questioning reverted to the time before Anna left Pennsylvania, and Anna said, in reply to questions, that she had told Mrs. Giordon about her condition, had attended a hearing before a Justice of the Peace and had testified, not unwillingly.

"But as a matter of fact, you didn't want Mr. Giordon sent to jail?" "No."

"Wasn't it part of the consideration, to send you out of the county?" "No—the idea of my coming out here was to get the baby adopted to a good family, because I didn't have any money."

Asked as to money received, Anna said she saw only $5 and the railroad ticket given her by Mrs. Giordon. "I wasn't to be paid any money," she said. "The $50 was to be given me for things I might need, for instance at the drug store."

"Were not your board at the Winner home, medical attention and X-ray, furnished in consideration for giving up the baby?" the lawyer asked.

This evoked a much more emphatic response than previous queries.

"I believed," Anna said indignantly, "that these things were being done for Mr. Giordon's aunt to take the baby. I learned later that they weren't."

Questions About Baby.

Questions about the baby followed. Anna said it was fully developed and had black hair, and that the hair "had grease on it" when she saw it.

In response to questions, Anna said that so far as she knew, no finger prints or foot prints of the baby had been taken. To a series of questions as to communications from Jones, she said she had no direct communication with Jones up to the time when she left Pennsylvania, and had not communicated with anyone representing him, except Mrs. Giordon.

At this stage of the cross-examination, with the Muench counsel putting questions in rapid-fire fashion, Anna raised her voice until it could be heard in every part of the courtroom. Her answers came alertly and positively, and her eyes flashed, in contrast to her subdued manner during direct examination when even counsel sitting near her had difficulty in catching some of her answers.

"What color skin?" "Reddish."

"Round?" "I don't know."

In this manner the cross-examination proceeded, with Anna returning prompt answers. Several times her lips trembled, particularly in the examination about the appearance of her baby. She said she had examined its face, that "it was big up here," indicating the upper part of her face, "and small down here," indicating her chin and mouth.

"I asked the doctor about the baby's ears," she continued. "They were close to his head and kind of wrinkled. He told me all babies had that kind of ears."

She was told, she said, that her baby weighed eight and one-half pounds, but did not see the scales as it was weighed. She saw no birthmarks or other distinguishing marks, but added that she "didn't see all of the baby."

About Jones' Companion Again.

The cross-examination then turned to her testimony of yesterday to the effect that Jones took her for an automobile ride, prior to the birth of the baby, with a woman whom she identified as Mrs. Muench, adding that she got the impression the woman with Jones was the one who was to get her baby.

Repeating, under questioning by counsel, she said they left the Winner home about 9 o'clock, that Jones introduced her to his companion as "Mrs. Perkins," that they stopped twice on the ride, then finally drove through Forest Park.

"There was not much conversation," she testified. "I remember that Mr. Jones told her I was from Pennsylvania and she asked how I liked St. Louis. I don't remember my answer. She asked me if my hair was reddish. I told her I didn't know whether you would call it that."

She told how photographs of two women were exhibited to her in the office of the St. Louis Star-Times, and how she picked that of Mrs. Muench as the picture of the woman she had met on the ride with Jones. The other picture, she was told, was a friend of Jones.

Positive It Was Mrs. Muench.

"Isn't it the fact," asked counsel, "that the picture of the other woman was that of the woman you saw in Jones' car?" "No, it was not," Anna replied, her eyes flashing. "I saw Mrs. Muench in the car that night and I am positive of it."

The Muench lawyer asked if Anna did not know that Mrs. Muench offered to let her see the baby in the Muench home, providing newspaper reporters were not present. Anna said she knew that.

"And you didn't go?" the lawyer asked. Anna leaned forward belligerently and said, "Do you want me to tell you why I didn't go?"

"Did you go?" "No, but let me explain. I didn't want to go there just in the presence of Mrs. Winner and the others connected with it. I wanted reporters there because they had seen the baby. Mrs. Winner didn't know what the baby looked like. She said it was bald. I knew it had hair."

"At any rate, you didn't go?" "I was anxious to go, but I was advised not to by Judge Bond." (Former Circuit Judge Thomas Bond, the first attorney employed to represent Anna, who has since withdrawn).

Asked with whom she first talked about instituting habeas corpus proceedings to recover the baby, Anna replied that she was taken to Bond's office by Harry T. Brundidge, reporter for the Star-Times. Brundidge, she said, lived at the Congress Hotel, where she also has resided for several weeks.

"Brundidge is your jailer?" "No, I wouldn't say that."

"Well, he keeps watch on you?" "I don't know, he's there."

After she had talked with Bond, Anna continued, he agreed to take her case. Counsel asked several questions about who was to pay Bond's fee as her attorney, and Barker arose to say that he would admit it was the Star-Times.

Says She Wasn't Paid for Story.

The questioning returned to Anna's visit to the Star-Times office after she left the Holliday home. Anna said she had gone there to give the paper "her story."

At this Mrs. Muench laughed audibly.

Keating got the witness to state that she had only $1 or so when she left the Holliday home, and that she had not been employed since then. She went to live at the Congress Hotel, she said, after returning from a trip to Chicago. She went to Chicago with Brundidge and his wife, she said, the day after she told her story to the newspaper.

When questions were asked as to the amounts paid by the Star-Times, Anna's testimony was interrupted, at Attorney Barker's request, by a statement of Brundidge, who said the paper had expended $600 to $700 on Anna and Mary Ware.

Another of respondents' counsel raised the question of payment of legal fees, not included in Brundidge's statement. Barker repeated his previous statement that the Star-Times was to pay his fee—how much, he did not know.

The Commissioner checked this line of questioning, saying the witness could be asked only how much was expended on her account, to her knowledge.

"$1 for Birthday Present for Him."

Asked as to money received from the Star-Times or its employes, Anna said she received $1 from Brundidge, "which he gave me to buy a birthday present for him." Again Mrs. Muench laughed audibly. Asked if she had any money with her, Anna said she had $1.

"You mean to tell this court," the lawyer asked, "that you weren't paid any money by the Star-Times for your serial story?"

Anna said she got no money or promise of money, and that she did not know that the matter which she related was to be made into a serial story. She said she was promised that the Star-times would help her to get a job, where she could keep her baby if she should recover it.

As to payments to her sister Mary, Anna said Mary received $35, she did not say from whom, for time lost from her work, and $35 for her return. She said she and Mary were living in an apartment on the same floor with the Brundidge apartment, at the Congress Hotel, and that since Mary's marriage Monday, her husband, Robert Whitlock, lived there also. The apartment has three rooms and bath. She said Whitlock paid his own expenses in coming here by automobile.

Memory Refreshed.

Questions followed as to Anna's talking with her lawyer, Barker, since yesterday's session of the hearing, and her telling things today which she did not tell yesterday. Her reply was that she remembered, after going to bed, things which she had forgotten or failed to tell in her testimony. One of these things, it was brought out, was a description of the nurse who took her baby. She had recalled yesterday only that the nurse had black hair.

"I recall more about her now," the witness said. "I thought," she added, "that I knew who the nurse was, but I didn't want to identify her unless I was positive."

Near the end of his cross-examination counsel sought to make a point of the fact that Anna's baby was taken from her on Aug. 17 but that she had not filed suit until Sept. 23. Anna said that before then she had not been sure what she should do.

"As a matter of fact," counsel said, "your entire suit is based on suspicion, isn't it?" Anna answered indignantly, "No. If my baby isn't there (in the Muench home), then where is it?"

"Why did you give it up?" "I had to. What else was there for me to do. I had no money to go home with, I had to do what they said, and besides, my agreement was that Mr. Giordon's aunt would get the baby."

Keating's last question was, "Isn't it a fact that the day your baby was born you intended that they should take it away permanently?" "I told you," Anna answered, "that I had to let it go, but that if I could get help I would get it back, because it didn't go where I was told it was going. I had no money to feed or clothe a child."

Another Cross-Examiner.

Harry Soffer, attorney for Mrs. Helen Berroyer, respondent and friend of the Muenches, then took up the cross-examination. His questions dealt with Anna's recollection of the nurse who took the baby from her about 11:30 o'clock the night it was born. The nurse, she said, was in the room when she awoke. The nurse wore a uniform beneath a coat, she said, but she could not be sure she wore a cap.

The nurse was of about medium height, Anna continued. She answered "No" when asked if the nurse was stout, and when asked about the nurse's age, said she could not tell, but that she was a young woman. Her eyes, and her eye-lashes, she said, were large.

Counsel asked if Anna had not told reporters that the nurse was tall and blonde. Anna said she had not, but that she had heard from someone, she couldn't recall whom, that Mrs. Winner had made such a statement.

Conferences With Prosecutor.

Jerome Duggan, attorney for Carl Dubinsky, respondent and cousin of Mrs. Winner, then took up the questioning.

To a series of questions about the conference in Prosecuting Attorney Anderson's office at Clayton, Anna said she went there to see about the effort of her sister, Mary, to find her, and that the question discussed was whether or not she, Anna, should go to see the baby in the Muench home.

A Post-Dispatch clipping was read, stating that private negotiations for the baby's return had been suggested, but that Anderson insisted the negotiations must be in open court.

"Isn't it true," the lawyer then demanded, "that you refused your baby when it was offered to you there?"

Denies There Was Any Offer.

"Nobody offered me my baby," said the girl, "I'm telling you."

"Weren't you advised to refuse the return of the baby without court proceedings?" "No."

"Isn't it a fact that you didn't want your baby, but only wanted to provide newspaper stories?"

"Never did I refuse my baby," Anna responded with spirit. "I didn't know anything about newspapers. I'd just as lief nothing was printed in the papers."

Questions were then raised as to the identity of Post-Dispatch reporters present at the conference in Anderson's office. On the lawyer's insistence, nine members of the Post-Dispatch staff, under subpena but not required to remain in court, were summoned forthwith, to give the witness an opportunity to view them and say if any of them was at the conference.

"Whole Story" All Over Again.

Duggan demanded that Anna tell her "whole story," and the girl, after protesting against having to repeat what she had told in detail before, began a recital, which the lawyer punctuated frequently with the demand for the "whole story."

Anna told of coming to St. Louis through arrangements made by Mrs. Giordon, of meeting Mrs. Winner and Wilfred Jones, and of becoming suspicious when Jones asked her to describe the baby's father. "I had been told Mr. Giordon's aunt was going to adopt the baby," she said, "and I didn't see why they shouldn't know what he looked like."

She said that, when leaving Mrs. Winner's to go to the Holliday home, there was "a little argument over money," but that she got no money, and "it didn't make any difference, because I thought they were very queer people, and I thought there was something wrong somewhere, and didn't want to take money from anyone."

At the Holliday home, she said, Jones called with a blank which he said was a deed of adoption, but she did not sign it, and he took it away. She told of Jones' departure from the city after news articles on the search for the baby appeared, and said he sent her two letters, each with $1 inclosed.

Taken From Holliday Home.

Anna related again that the last Saturday she was in the Holliday home, Mrs. Winner had telephoned and said for her to get ready to leave, mentioning newspaper stories about the grand jury investigation of the birth of her baby. Anna refused to go, she said, but the next day went with two reporters for the Star-Times who called at the Holliday home.

"One of them, Mr. Webster—I had never seen him before, but I found out his name later—told me he had seen the baby in the Muench home," Anna continued. "I asked him what the baby looked like, and he said, 'What does your baby look like?'

"I gave him a description of the baby. All the while I was talking he was shaking his head. He told me it was the very same description that I told him and he also told me the baby looked very much like myself."

Photographs of Two Women.

On the way to the Star-Times office in an automobile with the reporters, Anna said, she was shown a picture of Mrs. Muench, and told the reporters she thought she recognized it as a picture of a woman she had seen, but was not sure. At the newspaper office, she said, she was shown two pictures, one a photograph of the former Mrs. Grace Thomasson, a friend and former client of Jones. The witness said she identified one of the two pictures—she did not say which one—but that she had never seen the other woman. The picture she identified, presumably, was one of Mrs. Muench, whom, Anna testified yesterday and repeated today, she had seen when she went riding in an automobile with her and Jones, before the birth of her baby.

Seven members of the Post-Dispatch staff, summoned to the courtroom for possible identification as having been at the conference in Prosecuting Attorney Anderson's office, were then brought singly before the witness. Miss Ware said as to each that she did not remember having seen him at the Prosecutor's office.

"Can't you remember whom you saw there?" Duggan demanded.

"I can't remember everybody I see," the girl replied, "but I can certainly tell you that I remember Mrs. Muench."

This referred, not to the conference in Anderson's office, at which Mrs. Muench was not present, but to Anna Ware's testimony that Mrs. Muench was the woman who went for an automobile ride in Forest Park with her and Wilfred Jones, a few nights before the baby was born.

Recess for lunch, until 2:15 p. m., was taken.

More Cross-Examination; Jones Said He Could Get Baby for $50.

After the luncheon recess, Attorney Duggan resumed his cross-examination taking Anna Ware over her entire account as given on direct examination. Barker objected to this line of questioning as calculated to harass the witness, but was overruled.

At one stage of the questioning the witness remarked that in her conversations with Jones, "he said he could get a baby anywhere for $50. But I told him I didn't want any baby, I wanted my own baby."

Dubinsky's counsel then launched into a long series of questions apparently calculated to draw from the witness the statement that she filed her habeas corpus suit at the suggestion of representatives of the Star-Times. Her replies were to the effect that it was Attorney Bond who advised her to "go to court." She declared that Brundidge told her she need not sue if she did not want to.

Questioned about a statement by her that someone on the Star-Times had promised her employment on the paper after she had recovered her baby, the witness said that the man who made the promise was a Mr. Klein. The questioning then turned to the signing of the various pleadings filed in the case. The witness said she had signed them at the "Cadillac Hotel."

"Oh, You Make Me Sick."

Barker corrected her, asking if she meant the Congress Hotel, and she did. Dubinsky's counsel objected vociferously "to counsel prompting the witness." As he finished, Anna Ware, looking squarely at him, said under her breath, but audibly, "Oh, you make me sick." Later, she explained that she had the Cadillac Hotel (New York) in mind, because she had received letters from there, referring to letters from Mrs. Giordon.

Asked if Dr. or Mrs. Muench ever had given her money, she replied they had not. The lawyer picked up her application for a writ of habeas corpus and cited to her the statement that the respondents in the case had given her money for her expenses to St. Louis. Anna attempted to explain that that did not necessarily mean each of the respondents, but her answer was drowned out by the lawyer. Anna's attorney objected to the attempt to make it appear that the allegation in the application was a willful misstatement, but was overruled.

"I hope you gentlemen understand that the Commissioner knows something about this matter," Commissioner Limbaugh remarked. "I am allowing great latitude in this cross-examination on the possibility that it may develop facts, but I know the circumstances under which such pleadings are signed."

Anna, asked to describe the baby at the Muench home as the reporter Webster had described it to her, answered, "He didn't give me a description. He told me he had seen the baby, and asked me to describe the baby. I did and he shook his head. He said the baby looked like me."

Several Pictures of Men.

At the office of the Star-Times, Anna said in response to further questions, she had been shown several pictures of men. One of them, she said, looked liek a man she had seen. "That was Clay County Rogers, wasn't it?" asked Dubinsky's lawyer, naming Mrs. Muench's chief counsel at her kidnaping trial. "Yes," Anna replied, adding when another question yas put to her that she could not be sure she had seen him before. "But you are sure," the attorney said, "that it was not Dr. Muench?" "Yes, I am sure of that," Anna answered.

Asked when she had first heard of the Price baby, Anna replied: "When I read about it in the newspapers, but Mr. Jones had told me about another girl who had a baby that was intended for the same people as mine. He said that baby died at the hospital. I learned later that was the Price baby."

Ann said she had been back to Pennsylvania since coming here. Asked when, she said it was Tuesday of last week, that she went back with her sister Mary in an automobile with Mr. and Mrs. Brundige. The trip was made, she said, because Mary, who was married here Monday, wanted to get her clothes.

Questions Cause Smiles.

As the cross-examination proceeded, Duggan frequently asked the witness why she had not previously mentioned details which, as a matter of fact, already had been brought out either in direct or cross-examination. Other counsel and even the Commissioner smiled as the lawyer repeated such questions.

Anna Ware testified that she heard the name of Jones for the first time when she went to the Pennsylvania station in Philadelphia prepared to go to St. Louis. At that time, she said, Mrs. Giordon told her Jones had been retained by the prospective foster parents to represent them. She testified that at that time she had already heard the name of Mrs. Winner, but had never heard of the Muenches, Mrs. Berroyer, or Dubinsky.

Asked why she had observed Jones' companion so closely on the automobile ride, about which she had testified, she said: "I had it in my mind that the woman was going to adopt my baby because she asked me so many questions about my appearance, and I took a good look at her."

She said she had never heard of Mrs. Muench at that time, and, as a matter of fact, did not know of Mrs. Muench until, after the birth of her baby, she read a newspaper article about her. She said she mentioned the article to Mrs. Winner and "she told me about a trial—kidnaping or something—for Mrs. Muench."

After a long series of questions about the witness' newspaper reading habits, which apparently developed nothing, counsel turned back to Anna Ware's identification in the Star-Ttimes office of the photograph of Mrs. Muench as that of the woman who went on the ride with her.

He asked her to describe the woman who went on the ride with her.

He asked her to describe the woman pictured in the photograph and fired questions at her so fast that the witness, apparently trying to give considerable replies, was unable to answer. Finally the Court broke in.

"I think you are going awfully far there," he said to Duggan. Then after a pause, "but proceed."

"Still Sees Her Distinctly."

Counsel continued to press her in the same manner for a description. Finally the witness said, referring to the woman whom she had seen on the ride, "All I can say is this: I said I could still see her distinctly when I closed my eyes, and I can do it now."

To Call Disbarred Woman Lawyer Instead of Midwife Winner.

Attorney Barker told reporters today that he had abandoned his intention of placing Mrs. Winner on the stand today, to tell of the disposition of Anna Ware's baby.

Instead of using the testimony of Mrs. Winner Barker said he would call Mrs. Nettie Beckerle, disbarred lawyer, whose testimony, he said, "will put the Ware baby on the doorstep of the Muench home."

Jones is the only one of the respondents whom process servers have been unable to find for summons to testify in the case. The others are present in court, including the Muenches, Mrs. Winner, Dubinsky, and Mrs. Berroyer, 5559 Pershing avenue, friend of Mrs. Muench who, the Post-Dispatch has established, was in the Muench home the night of Aug. 17-18. Subsequently Dr. Muench filed a birth certificate reporting a baby boy was born to his wife shortly after midnight on Aug. 18, less than two hours after Anna Ware's baby was taken from her.

Mrs. Muench arrived in the court room at 9:40 a. m. today, accompanied by Mrs. Berroyer. She wore a black silk dress and a short black fur cape, with felt hat to match. Mrs. Berroyer was dressed in brown. Mrs. Winner, who had arrived 10 minutes before, was seated in the courtroom when Mrs. Muench and Mrs. Berroyer took their places at the counsel table.

Mrs. Muench was quiet and solemn on arrival today in contrast to her joyous, almost hilarious mood of yesterday. She paused in the Marshal's office on the way into the court room to pose for a newspaper photographer, but when he prepared to take a second photograph she walked away, saying, "Just one, not a dozen."

Letters Written by Mrs. Giordon.

Eight letters written by Mrs. Giordon were introduced in evidence yesterday near the close of the session. The essential parts of these letters were published in the Post-Dispatch last month.

The first of them to be introduced, dated July 30, and addressed to Jones, told of arrangements made to send Anna to St. Louis and urged Jones to persuade the girl to give up her baby for adoption.

Four others, addressed to Jones after the birth of the baby, chided Jones about questioning Anna as to the identity of the baby's father, dunned him for $15 owed to Mrs. Giordon for expenses, and threatened him with a complaint to the Bar Association if he did not pay it.

Two letters were addressed to Anna Ware. In them she was congratulated on her "lovely baby," was urged to give it up for adoption. The writer repeated that $200 would be paid to the girl.

J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Bristol, Pa.

The $200, as the Post-Dispatch has told, was part of a $500 cash bond put up by Giordon after two warrants charging him with being the father of Anna's child had been issued against him at Doylestown, Pa., on her complaint. The money was to be given to her when the charges were dropped. A "Mr. Kilcoyne" mentioned in two of the letters as already told, is J. Leslie Kilcoyne of Bristol, Pa., counsel for Giordon in the criminal charges against him, who negotiated the agreement for turning over $200 to Anna Ware.

The last of the letters was addressed to Anna's mother, Mrs. Weaver of Philadelphia, and informed her her daughter was getting the best of care.

The first of the letters to Jones, dated July 30, was thoughtlessly left by him on a desk in Clayton and came into the hands of the prosecuting authorities. Anna Ware testified that Jones himself gave her the other four letters addressed to him, while she herself had kept the two addressed to herself. The letter addressed to her mother was mailed to her, after its receipt in Philadelphia.

Entry of Appearance Passed.

Court convened promptly at 10 a. m. and immediately counsel gathered at the bench for a conference. J. Porter Henry, an attorney for the Post-Dispatch, asked leave of the Court to enter his appearance as counsel for certain witnesses, employes of the Post-Dispatch. Respondents' attorneys objected, saying he should enter his appearance for the Post-Dispatch. The Court finally said that there appeared to be no present necessity for Henry to enter an appearance, and that he might raise the question again, if the need arose. Anna Ware then took the stand.

Muenches Refuse to Testify and Wilfred Jones Fails to Appear

THE great baby drama which has absorbed the interest of St. Louisans for several weeks reached a dramatic court room period yesterday when Dr. and Mrs. Ludwig O. Muench who had publicly declared a child was born to them Aug. 18, failed to affirm that statement under oath, but on the contrary refused to testify at all for fear of incriminating themselves, and their friend and adviser Wilfred Jones, a lawyer and baby broker, whose testimony was wanted, failed to appear in court.

These actions, or failures of the principals in the case, tend strongly to confirm in the most authoritative way the exposure of the hoax which the Post-Dispatch has heretofore made in a series of news articles beginning with the disclosure on Sept. 18 that the "Price" baby, was turned over to the Muenches by Jones on July 10 or 11, and including the fact that Drs. Marsh Pitzman and Maurice Thompson who at first made statements supporting Mrs. Muench's claim repudiated those certificates later.

Mrs. Muench answered identifying questions, and gave her age as 44, though at all times previously she had said she was 43. Harry C. Barker, attorney for Miss Ware, then asked:

"Were there ever any children born of your marriage?"

After an objection of Mrs. Muench's counsel had been overruled by Commissioner Limbaugh, the question was repeated.

"I refuse to answer," Mrs. Muench said, "on the ground that it might tend to incriminate me." She stressed the word "might."

"What law do you think has been violated?" Barker asked.

Objections of counsel followed, and Barker made his question, "Is it your own personal desire to stand on your constitutional rights and to refuse to answer because your answer might tend to incriminate you?"

"It is," said Mrs. Muench, who had interrupted with the same reply before the question was finished. She was then excused, and Dr. Muench was called.

After identifying questions, Dr. Muench was asked by Barker, "Was a child born to you as a result of your marriage?"

The witness remained silent, his attorney entered an objection, the objection was overruled and the question was repeated.

"I refuse to answer," Dr. Muench said, and after a pause, added in much lower tone, "because it might tend to incriminate me."

"That is your own desire, to stand on your constitutional rights?" Barker asked.

"That is my desire," said the witness.

RUSSIAN EARTHQUAKE TOLL 107

Two Villages in Tovildorinsky District Leveled Oct. 8.

MOSCOW, Oct. 16. — The death toll of the Tovildorinsky earthquake Oct. 8 reached 107, it was learned yesterday when communications were restored. The injured totaled 360.

Twenty-one successive shocks leveled the villages of Mionadu and Argankugh, principal inhabited points of the region, near the border of Afghanistan. Aviators reported the formation of mountains had been altered and steep banks of the River Obkhingu had caved in over a long strip of territory.

MASSACHUSETTS G. O. P. WINS

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Republicans celebrated today a hard fought bye-election victory which gave them control of the State Senate. William H. McSweeney of Salem, defeated his Democratic opponent, John C. Birmingham of Beverly, in the second Essex senatorial district by 4844 votes. The election was held to fill a vacancy due to death of a State Senator.

FANCHON & MARCO OFFICER TELLS OF REPLY TO PROTEST

Paramount Man Quoted as Saying 'Legal or Not It's Good Business' of Warner Bros. Deal.

SAYS G. J. SCHAEFER SPOKE OF PRESSURE

Reported Remarking Warners Had Threatened to Break Up Detroit Reorganization.

When a Fanchon & Marco theater officer protested to a Paramount movie executive in New York last year about a report that Paramount films were to be furnished Warner Bros. instead of Fanchon & Marco in St. Louis, the Paramount man said, "Legal or not, it's good business," it was testified today in the movie conspiracy trial.

This testimony was given by Jack Allan Partington of New York, president of F. & M. He told of accompanying Harry C. Arthur Jr., vice-president, to see one of the defendants in the trial, George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., Inc., in March, 1934.

The trial, now in its third week before Federal Judge Moore, is based on an indictment charging Warner Bros., Paramount and R-K-O movie interests and a group of their executives with violation of the anti-trust law in withholding films from F. & M.'s Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central theaters.

"Put Pressure On."

When Schaefer was asked in his New York office about F. & M.'s difficulty in obtaining pictures, he said, Partington testified: "They put pressure on us and threatened to break up a reorganization in Detroit for us."

"Arthur," Partington went on, "said to Schaefer: 'George, I don't think this is legal.' Schaefer said: 'Legal or not, it's good business.' Arthur said: 'But we'll lose our money in St. Louis.' Schaefer said: 'I'll call up Harry Warner and see if I can't arrange to get your money back; if you don't hear from me, it'll mean I can't get it.'" The witness did not mention any further word from Schaefer.

Inquired About "War."

About two weeks before this discussion, on March 6, 1934, the witness related, he and Arthur inquired at Warners' offices in New York about a report in a trade paper of "war" in St. Louis between Warners and F. & M., calling on three of the defendants, Herman Starr, Gradwell Sears and Abel Cary Thomas, Warner executives.

Testimony by Partington about the discussion was largely the same as that given by Arthur, the Government's first witness. Partington quoted Sears as saying Warners would obtain the St. Louis theaters, and Starr as saying they would "get" any other lessees of the houses and the bondholders' committees, too, and that F. & M. were "the lambs for the slaughter." In addition, the witness asserted that Starr applied an epithet to Harry Koplar, veteran St. Louis movie exhibitor associated with F. & M., and said they would "get" Koplar, as he had cost Warners $80,000.

Arthur's offer to turn the Ambassador and Fox theaters over to Warners was rejected as "a sucker deal" by Starr, who said Warners would get the places on their own terms, Partington asserted.

Just Little Fellows.

"There must be some way out; we're just little fellows," Partington said he told the Warner executives, but he quoted Thomas as replying: "Why don't you walk out and leave it?" The witness said he explained: "We have money in it; we don't want to walk away and leave it; anyway, Snyder could sue us for breach of promise if we did."

Cross examining, Frederick H. Wood of New York, a Warner lawyer, asked: "You went over to see Warner Bros. because their lease of the Shubert spoiled your little party to obtain a virtual monopoly of first-run theaters in St. Louis?" Slowly and decisively Partington replied, "That is not why I went there." Questioned to see how small a "little fellow" Fanchon & Marco was, Partington said his concern operated the Roxy Theater, New York; the Paramount, Los Angeles; the Orpheum, San Francisco, and the Orpheum, Salt Lake City, and that either the company or Arthur had an interest in some small California theaters and one in New England.

Dysart Finishes Testimony.

Testimony of the Government's second witness, Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the first mortgage bondholders' committees for the three theater buildings and president of the Chamber of Commerce, was completed yesterday. After former Senator James A. Reed of Kansas City finished cross-examining Dysart in behalf of the Warner defendants, William R. Gentry, counsel for Paramount, and Jacob M. Lashly, representing R-K-O, drew from Dysart the statement that none of the matters he had touched on involved representatives of their clients. Former Mayor Frederick H. Kreismann, a member of the committees, also testified.

Surprise was expressed by the prosecutor when a Government witness, David Levinson of Chicago, attorney for the committees, which leased the three theaters to F. & M. interests, declared he could not repeat exactly the statements made by Starr and another defendant, Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros., at conferences last year. The Government was unsuccessful in efforts yesterday to draw Levinson or from another of its witnesses, M. A. Rosenthal of Chicago, secretary of the committees, exact repetitions of what was said.

Rosenthal, in response to Assistant Attorney-General Russell Hardy, told of going to New York in September, 1934, with Frederick W. Straus, a member of the bondholders' committees, who was a principal of S. W. Straus & Co., which floated bond issues on the three theater buildings. Straus now is with the Securities Service Corporation, Chicago.

They met Harry Warner and Starr at the Warner offices, Rosenthal said. The witnesses related that he told those at the conference thah he had been successful in ironing out the difficulties of another group of theaters and that he and Strauss had come to suggest that they might be able to do the same thing in St. Louis; that they might work out an arrangement whereby Warners would get control of one or two of the three theaters, in exchange for a supply of their films at the remaining one or two.

Warner and Starr replied that they were not interested; that they had acquired two theaters here (the Shubert and Orpheum) and were making money here for the first time in a considerable period, Rosenthal added. By leading questions, defense objections to which were sustained, and other questions, Hardy sought to get from Rosenthal the exact language used by Warner and Starr, but the witness said he could give only the substance. He was not cross-examined.

Levinson Questioned.

Levinson was asked by the prosecutor about a meeting he attended in the office of Joseph H. Grand, St. Louis lawyer, in May, 1934. It had been announced two months previously that the bondholders' committees had arranged to lease the houses to Allen L. Snyder, with whom F. & M. were affiliated.

"Starr was there," said Levinson. "He stated competition would be conducted by Warner Bros. if their proposal (for taking over the theaters) was turned down, which would prevent successful operation of the theaters by any others. No picture house could operate without product (films), he said, and these theaters couldn't get product unless operated by Warner Bros., who had been successfully operating theaters and were the logical ones for these."

A request by Hardy for Starr's exact language brought the assertion from Levinson that he had given it, in substance, to the best of his recollection.

"If your honor please," Hardy said to Judge Moore, "I claim I am surprised by this witness. I'd like to interrogate him in a little different manner." The Judge did not comment.

"Mr. Levinson," Hardy continued, "didn't you tell me in the corridor of this building at the recess . . ." An objection by a Warner lawyer, interrupting the question, that the Government could not cross-examine or impeach its own witness, was sustained by the Court. After another defense objection as he tried to reframe the question, Hardy quit. "No questions, Mr. Levinson; thank you," said Reed.

Kreismann's Testimony.

Kreismann testified that he and Starr were among a large number of persons at a meeting June 6, 1934, at Dysart's office, at which many things were discussed, but he was interested only in negotiations to lease the theaters and paid little attention to the other conversation.

"Starr," Kreismann continued, "said the bondholders' committees had entered an ineffectual arrangement with Snyder, and that we hadn't given due consideration to the fact Warner Bros. had a reputation in the management of theaters and were the logical ones to operate these theaters. Starr said we wouldn't get sufficient product to successfully operate the theaters, that the product wouldn't be available to the three theaters, because they (Warners) were going to exhibit in their own theaters, and that the three theaters would also be unable to get the R-K-O or Paramount product because they had a franchise.

"Starr's manner was defiant. I was tired of hearing such propositions and said that as far as I was concerned I believed the best interest of the bondholders was to consummate the deal with Snyder. Starr's manner continued to be defiant and he was asserting his company's ability to interfere with the committee's plans. He constantly revealed his displeasure at the action of the committees."

In concluding, Hardy asked Kreismann if he had not been Mayor at one time. "So long ago that I've almost forgotten it," replied the witness, who was Mayor in 1909-13. He agreed with Attorney Lashly, who has been mentioned in the past as a candidate for Mayor, that "the statute of limitations doesn't run on that 'offense.'"

Detailed cross-examination of Kreismann about various contracts was conducted by Attorney Wood. The witness said he was not familiar with all the contracts but had opposed a proposal to give control of the theaters to Warners. Shown a document which Wood said contained the proposal and asked to point out where it gave Warners control, Kreismann could not find such a clause but said he was not certain this was the document he had in mind. The one shown him provided for equal division of common stock of a new holding company between Warners and the bondholders' committees.

NO TAX WARRANTS FOR COUNTY RELIEF

Board Holds New Revenue Collection Plan Would Not Yield Enough.

The St. Louis County Court announced today it would be unable to issue $100,000 in tax anticipation warrants which had been requested by County relief officials to care for 1200 "unemployable" families for the three months which began Oct. 1.

The Court notified D. O. Carter, county relief administrator, and Alfred Fairbank, chairman of a committee representing private relief agencies in the county, who had requested the money, that it felt a suggested plan to increase a 70 per cent average of tax collections upon which anticipation warrants are estimated would not derive sufficient revenue to warrant the issuance of additional warrants.

Carter and Fairbank, who conferred with the court last week after receiving assurance from Wallace Crossley, State Relief Administrator, that his organization would accept the warrants, were told then that the court already had issued warrants up to its anticipated revenue of about $1,200,000.

Fairbank then proposed a plan to institute a campaign to increase the percentage of tax collections, making it possible to issue additional warrants.

Carter said today he would inform Crossley of the Court's notification. Unless the Federal Government continues to furnish aid, he said, he did not know how the families could be assisted.

The 1200 families represent 320 families who were aided by the County Court until Aug. 1 when it ceased issuing anticipation warrants and 850 on direct Federal relief rolls. It has been announced that direct Federal relief would be discontinued Nov. 1.

OPEN A. F. L. FIGHT OVER INDUSTRIAL VS. CRAFT UNIONS

Debate on Three Conflicting Resolutions Begun—John L. Lewis Leads Opposition to Old System.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—The craft-industrial union fight in the American Federation of Labor broke out in the open at the annual convention today with the request of the resolutions committee for the reaffirming of the present craft policy.

John P. Frey, committee secretary and a champion of the craft union, read the recommendation that the policy adopted at last year's convention be readopted.

That policy recognized the right of workers in mass production industries to organize in single big unions but asserted it was "our duty to formulate policies which will fully protect the jurisdictional rights of all trade unions organized upon craft lines."

John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, favoring industrial unions is expected to lead the fight for a new federation policy which would ignore the crafts in organization.

Frey recited that the minority of the committee, which opposed the recommendation, had failed to submit a report.

Charles P. Howard of the Typographical Union, immediately stepped to the rostrum and began to read the minority statement. The committee split 8 to 7 in its decision to reaffirm last year's declaration on the issue which divided the conservatives and liberals of the federation into two camps.

A second controversial issue on which the committee's report impended was the proposed labor party. Growing sentiment for a party backed by the federation resulted in a permanent organization headed by William F. Kelley of the United Textile Workers. Defeat of the proposal accompanied by a restatement of the federation's traditional policy of refraining from independent political action was expected.

Resolutions before the convention urged the ouster of Communists from union membership. Lewis indicated he would oppose adoption of such a pronouncement as placing too much importance and emphasis on a minor issue.

The convention approved continuation of the campaign of labor organizations for ratification of the child labor amendment and advised that political candidates should be made to express their position on it.

President Green indorsed the suggestion of Robert Watt, of the Massachusetts Federation, that labor organizations should not participate in a proposed child labor compact to be considered at a conference of 19 states at Albany later this week.

"We look with feelings of apprehension on these movements," said Green. "It may be the purpose of promoters of compacts to sidetrack the purpose of labor to secure ratification of the amendment."

MAN HURT BY SWINGING BEAM

Henry Schimrig, employed on the construction of the Wabash Railroad Bridge piers at St. Charles, was seriously injured today when he was struck by a two-ton steel beam, which was being moved by a crane.

He was knocked down by the swinging girder, suffering a broken arm and leg and possible internal injuries. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Schimrig, about 30 years old, resides on Rural Route 15, St. Louis County.

Of these, 594 are using the chemistry laboratories and classrooms, 485 are enrolled in zoology and 180 in geology. The philosophy-psychology department, which also uses the new building, has 487 enrolled. The chemistry enrollment represents an increase of 28 per cent over last year, zoology 26 per cent, and geology 19 per cent.

CONFERENCE ON COMPANY EMPLOYE INSURANCE PLANS

Workmen's Compensation Commission to Tell Employers About New Rules.

L. P. Madden of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, has notified the Legislation and Tax Bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce that a conference will be held tomorrow in Jefferson City to acquaint employers, who set aside their own funds for employe insurance, with the new rules under which the commission will operate after Jan. 1.

Copies of the new rules have been received by the chamber's legislative bureau, and also sample copies of blank forms to be used in applying for authority for self-insurance systems. Under the rules of the Workmen's Compensation Commission, applications by self-insurers shall contain a payroll report for the preceding 12 months, a sworn itemized statement of assets and liabilities, and a description of the safety organization maintained by the employer for the prevention of accidents within his establishment.

TEST SUIT OVER RIVER BONDS ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

Friendly Action Advanced on Docket; Objector Gets Leave to File Brief.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 16.—A case involving validity of the $7,500,000 bond issue voted by the City of St. Louis Sept. 10, for the city's share of the cost of the proposed Jefferson Memorial on the Mississippi River front, was taken under submission by the Missouri Supreme Court yesterday, after hearing arguments by attorneys.

The case had been advanced on the docket by the court, for hearing within 12 days after an appeal had been filed in the Supreme Court, because of the questions of public interest involved.

The case was instituted in St. Louis Circuit Court by Claude E. Vrooman, a real estate dealer, as a friendly test case. The Circuit Court sustained the city's demurrer to the suit, and an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. The appeal was perfected Oct. 3. The Supreme Court last Monday ovrruled a motion by Rudolf Goerts, member of the Republican City Committee of St. Louis, and an opponent of the bond issue, which was designed to delay the immediate hearing of the appeal. The court, however, gave Goerts leave to file a brief, within five days.

WOMAN AND MAN KILLED

He Apparently Ended Life After West Virginia Murder.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—The fatal shooting of Mrs. Ethel Ramsey, 38 years old, and the finding of the body of Charles Lowe, 40, two blocks away led police to say today there was a definite link between the two deaths.

Mrs. Ramsey, daughter of Mayor R. F. Lipcomb of suburban St. Albans, was shot in front of her Charleston home. A few minutes later officers found the body of Lowe, a former furniture company employe. They said his automobile was parked nearby and there was a revolver in his hand. The officers said there were no witnesses to either shooting, but several persons who heard the shot which killed Mrs. Ramsey said they saw an automobile speeding away.

BEST GUERNSEY IN U. S. CHOSEN AT DAIRY SHOW

Mary Lillian Has Production of 14,000 Pounds of Milk and 710 of Butterfat in Year.

Judging of Holstein cattle began today at the twenty-sixth National Dairy Show at the Arena. It was Governor's Day, and Gov. Park was expected to attend. Residents of Madison, Monroe, Montgomery and St. Clair counties were on hand to watch the continuation of the judging of brown Swiss and Guernsey bulls.

Yesterday grand champion cows in Guernsey and brown Swiss breeds were selected. Mary Lillian, defeated only twice in her eight-year span of life, was chosen America's champion Guernsey cow. Her production record is 14,000 pounds of milk and 710 pounds of butterfat in a single year.

Her sire, said her chief herdsman, was bought for $7500, a record price. "That's not the record any more," corrected a cattlewise farmer. "One bull brought $10,000 just a while back," he said. The chief herdsman had to admit he was wrong.

Wins in Brown Swiss Class.

Nero's Cinnamon, raised on the Walhalla Farms in Rexford, N. Y., won top honors in the brown Swiss cow judging. She was bred by the late J. Frank Zoller, tax attorney for the General Electric Co.

Cattle judging may be the chief function of a dairy show in the opinion of cattle raisers, but to thousands of city-bred school children a dairy show means a half day off from school, popcorn, movies, free bottles of milk, souvenirs and then an exciting show to top it all off.

Only children who bring notes from their parents that they are actually going to the show get the half-day holiday. They swoop down on the Arena from busses and street cars, rush about from one exhibit to the next, take a brief glimpse at the cattle judging, listen to talks by men demonstrating refrigerators and fruit squeezers and then return to their seats for the big show climaxing the day's events.

Few Seats Taken Early.

But earlier in the day yesterday only a few seats were taken in the vast Arena as the prize brown Swiss and Guernseys were paraded around the tanbark oval by attendants clad in white. Only a few farmers and 4-H Club members were there to applaud when Nero's Cinnamon won her title of champion cow of the brown Swiss breed.

But to her attendants, who had clipped her hair with an electric clipper, shined her horns, trimmed her tail and washed and rubbed her body, it was a victory which meant that in the future her calves could be expected to bring record prices. A daughter of two grand champions, she has already won prizes at other shows.

While the announcer was telling his small audience the results in the Guernsey cow competition, harassed teachers were wondering whether they would find their pupils again when the show ended.

Cattle raisers, seated in a double-row of chairs in the center of the floor, were on hand, however, to applaud the selection of Mary Lilian as grand champion of her breed.

"Haile Selassie" Present.

Schoolboys, meanwhile, were finding booths decorated with fall flowers and leaves more interesting. Occasionally they made sallies into the cattle stalls, many stopping to laugh at a sign over a stolid black bull which read "Haile Selassie."

Others noticed Mr. and Mrs. John Jack of Sedalia milking their Jersey cow simultaneously. Even city-bred boys knew that was unusual. Jack explained to them that his cow is used to such double attention and gives 30 quarts of milk a day.

The important part of the dairy show for the children began at 3 o'clock with the opening of the entertainment program. Gene Graham, 5-year-old member of a Western riding family, drew admiring applause as her tiny horse lay down on its side, permitting her to do handsprings over its neck, and then raced off with the rider waving her black hat to the rafters.

Thrill of the Day.

Even a bigger thrill came when Gene's father, Ole Graham, rode his sturdy mount through a flaming wooden barrier. But the biggest thrill of the day, one that first brought gasps of fear and then spontaneous yells, was the dive by Ray Woods into a tank containing about seven feet of water. Originally he was to dive into milk but the children were well pleased even with the substitute.

As the final event of the day, 5000 bottles of milk were given away to the children. One left the Arena waving a bottle over his head and shouting to all who might be interested, "Now I can buy a hamburger to go with this and I won't have to eat any supper at home."

Today the Dairy Show is honoring members of the Guild of Gopatis, whose cattle herds include at least five cows each with an average production of 300 pounds of butterfat a year. Gopatis is said to mean Lord of the Cows. The shows ends Saturday.

MAN WHO WED 7 WOMEN SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS

Pleads Guilty of Polygamy in Massachusetts; Sent to House of Correction.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 16.—William A. Read, 37 years old, former Navy mechanic who married seven women, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction yesterday. Wives No. 5 and 7 sat side by side in the courtroom.

Read, who pleaded guilty to a charge of polygamy, was arrested several weeks ago by Malden Welfare authorities for failure to support Mrs. Florence Mongeau Read and her daughter. They found him in Waltham residing with wife No. 7, Alice R. McKenney, whom he married on St. Valentine's day.

Superintendent of Welfare John C. MacKinnon of Malden, read Read's record of marriages in court. His career started in Los Angeles in 1924, the record disclosed.

He had served one year in San Quentin penitentiary for bigamy and one year in a New Jersey House of Correction for desertion, the record showed. He was divorced twice and two of his marriages were annulled.

Ruling on Tennessee Publishing Co.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 16.—Federal Judge John J. Gore yesterday dismissed the petition of E. W. Carmack for reorganization of the Tennessee Publishing Co., property of Luke Lea prior to its receivership more than two years ago. The company publishes the Nashville Tennessean and Evening Tennessean. The Court held that section 77B of the National Bankruptcy Act was not applicable "without the consent of two-thirds of the publishing company's creditors." Paul M. Davis, Nashville banker, has made an offer of $440,000 for the properties.

KATHLEEN ROTHSCHILD WEDS FRENCH BARON

British Heiress and Jules de Koenigswarter Married in New York City Hall.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—An heiress to the Rothschild banking millions and a titled French sportsman were married at the City Hall yesterday.

The bride was the former Kathleen Annie Pannonica Rothschild of London, youngest daughter of the late Nathanial Charles Rothschild, fourth head of the firm of N. M. Rothschild & Sons in direct succession, who cut his throat in a fit of despondency in 1923.

The bridegroom was Baron Jules de Koenigswarter of Paris, aviation enthusiast and a member of a prominent banking family. His first wife died in 1932.

With only the bride's sister, Miss Elizabeth Rothschild, and Lionel Harris, New York business man, for witnesses, the ceremony was performed in the municipal chapel by Deputy Clerk Philip A. Hines. The bride gave her age as 21 and the Baron his as 31.

They plan to leave soon on a trip around the world. Their romance started through a mutual interest in aviation.

PAN AMERICAN CLIPPER FLIES FROM GUAM TO WAKE ISLAND

By the Associated Press.

WAKE ISLAND, Oct. 16.—(Via Pan-American Airways radio.) —The Pan-American Clipper landed here at 7:38 p. m., tonight (2:38 a. m. St. Louis time), completing the first lap of its return trip to Alameda, Cal., from Guam. Its elapsed time on the 1536-mile flight, was 12 hours and 17 minutes.

The huge flying boat bucked headwinds for several hours after it left Guam, but otherwise, its crew reported, the trip was without incident.

After a brief halt here, the 19-ton flying boat will take off for California, touching at Midway Island and Honolulu en route. Its flight to Guam, part of Pan-American's tests for its contemplated trans-Pacific aerial passenger and freight service, marked the first time a plane has covered the 6500 miles between the mainland and the lonely cable island.

OSCAR CARLSTROM OF ILLINOIS ASSAILS ROOSEVELT POLICIES

Says New Deal Is Destroying Opportunities to Earn a Living.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Oscar E. Carlstrom, former Attorney-General of Illinois, charged yesterday in an address before the Central Lions Club that "America and the opportunities of its citizens to earn a living" were being destroyed by the policies of the national administration.

"The American people are heavily taxed," Carlstrom said, "to maintain millions of persons on relief, yet the Federal Government permits foreign goods made by cheap labor to flood our markets, thus preventing private industry from opening up and giving jobs to the unemployed.

"We are impoverishing and bankrupting the moral character and fiber of the American people by a foolish relief policy which makes it impossible for private industry to resume normal activity and give employment to the millions who need jobs."

AMERICAN WORKERS UNION PROTESTS AGAINST RELIEF CUT

More than 200 members of the American Workers' Union met on the lawn of the Clayton Courthouse yesterday to protest against the cutting of relief allowances and to demand WPA work at union wages for all unemployed persons in the county or relief allowances of $15 a week for the head of each family and $4 for each dependent.

The group paraded, two abreast, down to the Relief Administration office, 7800 Forsyth avenue, and then back around the Courthouse square. A committee was appointed to present the demands to D. O. Carter, St. Louis County Relief Administrator, and the County Court.

TENNESSEE SOCIETY ELECTION

Chancellor Throop Heads Organization in St. Louis.

Chancellor Throops of Washington University was elected president of the Tennessee Society of St. Louis at a meeting of the society last night at the Coronado Hotel. He succeeded Roscoe Nunn, senior meteorologist in charge of the Weather Bureau office here. The organization is composed of persons who were formerly citizens of the State of Tennessee.

Other officers elected were James T. Pedigo, Anthony E. Veith and Edgar E. Rand, vice-presidents; William M. Sherrill, secretary, and Dr. James B. Costen, treasurer.

Junior Advertising Club Officers.

Officers were elected by the Junior Advertising Club at a meeting at the Missouri Athletic Association last night. They were: Stuart M. Stevens, president; Albert Maescher Jr., Bert Knefle, and J. Albert McCollum Jr., vice-presidents; J. Gregg Puster, secretary, and C. Harold Dyer, treasurer.

GUARDIAN FOR BOY HEIR OF COL. ROGERS SOUGHT

Count Salm Files Petition—No Decision Yet on Contest of Will.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Count Ludwig A. K. M. Salm applied to the Supreme Court yesterday to appoint a guardian for the estate of 11-year-old Peter Alfred Constantine Maria Salm, son of the Count and the former Mary Millicent Rogers, who now is the wife of Arturo Peralta Ramos.

Col. Henry Huddleston Rogers, the Standard Oil man, who died last July, left the income from his residuary estate, estimated at $20,000,000, in equal shares to his third wife, the former Mrs. Pauline Van der Voort Dresser; his daughter, Mrs. Ramos, and his grandson, Peter. The boy also gets $100,000 in personal property.

The probate of Col. Rogers' will is being held up until it is decided whether a contest will be made by his son, Henry H. Rogers Jr., who was cut off with only the income of a $500,000 trust fund during his lifetime, the principal to revert to the Colonel's heirs at the son's death.

Count Salm sought a guardian for his son on the ground that Mrs. Ramos' interests might conflict with the boy's in the event of such a contest and that the mother lacked experience in business matters.

The Count and Rogers' daughter were married in January, 1924, and the boy was born that year. Their marriage ended in a divorce in Paris in 1927. The Count obtained partial custody of the boy, who now is with him.

He told the Court yesterday his former wife had abided by the custody agreement in all respects and that her rearing of the boy was beyond reproach.

The Suffolk County Surrogate has allowed counsel for Henry H. Rogers Jr. two more weeks in which to decide whether to object to probate of the Colonel's will.

TWO GIRLS HELD FOR HOLDUP ADMIT SERIES OF BURGLARIES

Two girls, 14 and 16 years old, held for the holdup of a man in St. Louis County last Saturday, have confessed a series of burglaries in one of which they obtained $200 cash, police announced today.

The 14-year-old girl said she had robbed 15 homes in the last three months "for spending money and a thrill." Her 16-year-old companion confessed participation in 11 of the burglaries, including the $200 robbery at the home of Albert Edelman, 1233 Amherst place. They pawned three diamond rings taken in other robberies.

According to their statement, the girls gained entrance to the places they robbed by means of duplicate keys, or by breaking windows after determining that no one was at home.

Wilfred Freund, a milk wagon driver, was held up by three girls at the point of a revolver when he stopped to give them a ride in his automobile while on his way to work early Saturday. They took $1.25 and put Freund out of the car, but abandoned the machine when they were unable to operate it. The two under arrest were picked up for shoplifting Monday and were identified by Freund.

EX-CONVICT ON STAND DENIES ABELN MURDER

Arthur Schnelt, on Trial Second Time Testifies in Own Defense.

Arthur Schnelt, 32-year-old former convict, on trial for the second time for the murder of Charles J. Abeln, tobacco dealer, in a holdup Dec. 22, 1933, took the stand in his own defense this afternoon and made a general denial of the testimony given by the State witnesses. At the first trial of Schnelt, the jury was deadlocked 11 to 1 for conviction.

The first witness for the defense was Mrs. Estelle Wolf, a sister of the defendant, who said that at the time Abeln was murdered she and her brother were living at 512 St. Joseph street. She said her brother came home about 6 p. m. on Dec. 22, 1933, and remained there all night to help care for his mother, who is now dead. She recalled the date, she said, because of her mother's illness.

Schnelt followed her on the stand.

Frank Kennedy is under life sentence for killing Abeln, who, with his wife, was shot down outside one of their five tobacco stores at 3928 South Broadway. The robbers fled without taking a satchel containing $2000.

The chief witness at the opening of the trial yesterday before a jury in Circuit Judge Russell's court was Charles Douthitt, a former convict, associate of Schnelt and Kennedy, who has entered a plea of guilty to the murder charge, but has not been sentenced.

Douthitt's Story of Holdup.

Douthitt testifies that the holdup plot was discussed by Kennedy and Schnelt in a saloon at 1507 South Broadway, and that he was invited to go along. On the night of Dec. 21 he, Kennedy and Schnelt left the saloon shortly before midnight and walked to Barry street, where they had an automobile parked, Douthitt testified. He was given an automatic pistol and got in the back seat with Kennedy, who was also armed. Schnelt drove and explained the plan to holdup Abeln as he left his store, Douthitt said: It was agreed that the loot would be divided three ways.

Schnelt parked in Osage street and remained in the car, while he and Kennedy walked to Alberta street and took positions opposite the cigar store, Douthitt testified. Mr. and Mrs Abeln came out walking arm-in-arm toward their automobile. Abeln had one hand in his overcoat pocket. Kennedy approached them and said, "This is a stickup," Douthitt related, and Abeln drew his pistol.

"Kennedy began shooting, and I turned and ran," the witness stated. "I ran through an alley to Osage street, looking for Schnelt and the car, but he had left. While I was running I heard six or eight shots."

"Had to Drop Old Man."

The witness said Kennedy caught up with him and remarked, "I had to drop the old man, and I think he dropped his wife." They hid their revolvers under a pile of leaves and went to their homes, Douthitt testified, and later in the day Schnelt and Kennedy called on him and informed him that the police had been furnished with the wrong license number, and that there was no cause for worry. On cross-examination Douthitt said he had received no promise of leniency for taking the witness stand.

Walter Rutledge, 719 Hickory street, the next witness, testified that he heard the shots while walking with four companions at Broadway and Keokuk street. An automobile, without lights, approached in Broadway and the driver failed to make the major stop at Keokuk, and turned east. Rutledge noted the license number, but made a mistake in the final digit, it developed later. The witness said he and his companions found Abeln's body on the sidewalk, but they failed to notice the body of Mrs. Abeln, which had rolled off the curb.

Two Shots Fired at Machine.

Police Sergeant Martin Flanagan testified to catching up with the machine described by Rutledge in Lemp avenue, near Cherokee. The driver halted, but, when Flanagan stepped out of the scout car, the other car started suddenly and got away. Flanagan fired two shots at the machine, a green painted Chevrolet.

Patrolman Edward Pardyke testified to finding Abeln's pistol on the sidewalk. The weapon was jammed by a cartridge, the witness said. Eight shells from another pistol were scattered nearby, according to Pardyke.

Prentice J. Trimble, a taxi driver under indictment as an accessory after the fact, the first witness this morning, testified that he visited the South Broadway saloon mentioned by Schnelt on the night of Dec. 22 and overheard Kennedy, Schnelt and Douthitt in an argument. He quoted Schnelt as asserting that he had not abandoned the others but had "circled the block looking for you." During the conversation Douthitt asserted, according to the witness, that he "did not want any blood money."

Trimble told of going to a garage in the 2300 block of Montgomery street with Schnelt, where a license plate was removed from an automobile and the plate subsequently tossed into an outhouse on Howard street. Policemen testified to finding a machine answering the description of the car used by Schnelt on the night of the murder in a garage at 2329 Montgomery street, and of recovering the license plate and a pistol, which Trimble had told them was dropped into River Des Peres.

SALVAGE EXPERT JOINS ORPHIR EXPEDITION

By GILBERT McALLISTER.

(Copyright, 1935.)

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Oct. 16.—Matthew Fitzpatrick of Glasgow, world famous salvage expert and a holder of the order of the British Empire, joined the expedition yesterday while the Orphir lay storm bound in Kinsale harbor. Now that we have found an 800-foot hulk that we are sure is the Lusitania his services will be invaluable.

Fitzpatrick said that he believed the Tritonia "Iron Man" diving suit has largely solved the problem of deep sea salvage.

In 1904 he had charge of the erection of the British Government dockyard and the reconstruction of the naval depot in Southern Nigeria. When Lagos was united with Nigeria he constructed Lagos harbor and a salvage plant for the Government.

At the outbreak of the war he was appointed commander-engineer of the Nigerian flotilla and assisted in the capture of the town of Duala in German Cameroon. The Germans resisted capture and sank several large vessels across the Cameroon River estuary. He raised all the sunken vessels and put them into commission as naval transports. He also salvaged a floating dock and the German Governor's yacht.

He retired from the Government service in 1919 and has since been in demand as an engineering and salvage consultant.

TWO MISSOURI MISSIONARIES PREPARED TO FLEE IN ETHIOPIA

Natives, Often Opposed to Foreigners, Aroused Over Reports of Italian Bombings.

By the Associated Press.

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 16. — The Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Oglesby of Missouri, who started educational and medical work in 1932 in the sacred city of Lalibella, Losta Province, have been instructed to go to Sebrator if natives become hostile to them.

The natives living in crude mud huts about Lalibella often have opposed the presence of foreigners, and have become aroused by reports of Italian bombings of Ethiopian civilians.

Debrator, one week's travel from Lalibella, is the headquarters of Ras Kassa, one of Ethiopia's most powerful Princes and a General for Emperor Haile Selassie. Ras Kassa invited the Oglesbys to begin their work in Ethiopia.

There are two other missionaries at Lalibella — James Luckman of Stamford, Conn., who is coming to Addis Ababa to stay, and Sigurd Njstrom of Sweden, who is returning to Addis Ababa soon to marry the American woman doctor, Miss Harriet I. Skin.

U. S. SEAPLANE FLIGHT CLAIMED TO BE RECORD

New Type Ship Makes 3387-Mile Non-Stop Flight From Panama to Alameda, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

ALAMEDA, Cal., Oct. 16. — A 3387-mile non-stop flight was completed yesterday afternoon by six navy flyers who landed here in a newly designed seaplane 34 hours and 51 minutes after they left Panama. Lieut.-Com. Knefler McGinnis, in charge of the twin-motored ship, said he believed the flight from Panama would better the seaplane distance record held by Mario Spoffani, Italian flyer.

Spoffani's mark is 3063 miles, made in a flight last July from Malfalcone, Italy, to Bervera, British Somaliland.

McGinnis said he sought "to establish a new long distance record for seaplanes, which I think we have done, and to base the ship at San Diego."

To be considered as a record, the mark must better Spoffani's record by 100 miles.

McGinnnis planned to take the ship, wihch flew 130 miles an hour at times, to San Diego today.

"We came through all kinds of flying weather and the plane performed perfectly," McGinnis said.

The seaplane is an experimental craft which utilizes new principles in design. It has pontoons which form wing tips while in flight and are dropped into landing position before it alights. This reduces wind resistance. The whale-like tail avoids damage in rough water landing. The body is below the wing and a navigator can sit in an open cockpit for observation. In flight, the plane resembles a huge glider.

RELIEF PLEA FOR INDIANS

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Oct. 16.—Superintendent A. M. Landman of the Five Civilized Tribes Indian Agency said today that unless emergency relief came quickly, thousands of Indians in this territory would face want if not actual starvation.

Landman, pleading for an allocation of relief funds, said a hard winter probably would claim many lives and that the Indian Bureau is not in position to offer medical aid. "We have no actual count of proverty-stricken Indians," he said, "But we know that conditions, particularly among the Cherokees, are desperate and something must be done."

CHICAGO JUDGE REBUKES JURY FOR ACQUITTING EX-CONVICT

Members Deliberated 15 Minutes in Case of Man Accused of $120,000 Bond Theft.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Francis Drury, 32 years old, an ex-convict, on trial under the habitual criminal act for alleged theft of $120,000 from a Chicago brokerage office, was freed by a Criminal Court jury after the jurors had deliberated 15 minutes yesterday.

Judge Joseph B. David reprimanded the jury.

"I am not proud of you men," he said. "I can't understand how you could acquit a man with such a record and in the face of such testimony. Criminal Court prosecution might just as well be dispensed with if juries are to bring in verdicts so wholly in discord with the evidence as in this case."

Drury, a two-time convict at Joliet penitentiary for burglary, was charged with stealing $120,000 in negotiable bonds from the office of Andrew McAnsh, a real estate broker. He took the stand to deny a "confession" said to have been made to police, which was allowed as evidence.

Aged Woman Killed by Auto.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16.—Mrs. Marguerite Saia, 87 years old, died yesterday of injuries suffered last Thursday when she was struck by an automobile bearing a license issued in St. Louis County. Police said witnesses had given them the license number of the car.

INTERNATIONAL MILK DEALERS' CONVENTION

Three-Day Meeting Opens Tomorrow With Daily Addresses and Discussions.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the International Association of Milk Dealers will open tomorrow at Hotel Statler, attended by many of the degelates to the convention of the National Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, which held its final sessions at Hotel Jefferson today.

During the three-day meeting the milk distributors will hear addresses at general sessions each morning and in the afternoons will separate into groups for technical discussion of the laboratory, plant, production, accounting, and sales and advertising phases of the industry.

Tomorrow morning, after greetings from D. C. Kerckhoff, president of Pevely Dairy Co., and general convention chairman, and an address by the president of the association, Milton Hult, Davenport, Ia., the delegates will hear talks on the relation of Government to industry by Dr. W. F. Gephart, vice-president of the First National Bank, and W. A. Wentworth, secretary of the Dairy Industry Committee, Washington, D. C.

Canadian to Read Paper.

Other papers will be read during the convention by A. C. Fraser, secretary of the National Dairy Council of Canada, who will discuss Government control of the industry in his country; Prof. James E. Boyle, Cornell University, on "Planning an Unbalanced Agriculture," a discussion of AAA policies, and Dr. M. J. Rosenau, head of the preventive medicine department of Harvard University, on mlik consumption.

The Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers was addressed by manufacturing and merchandising experts in sessions yesterday and today. Prof. C. A. Iverson of Iowa State College, speaking at a dinner of the Research and Laboratory Council at Hotel Jefferson last night, told of new flavors which have been developed to tempt public taste for ice cream. He described research procedure in the duplication of such a flavor as English toffee.

Talk on Advertising.

Leo Fitzpatrick of Detroit, manager of Station WJR and president of the National Association of Broadcasters, told the delegates at an afternoon session that advertising had been a principal factor in reviving the automobile industry. His subject was "Advertising at Work."

Winners of a dairy products judging contest for college students, sponsored by the American Dairy Science Association and the Dairy and Ice Cream Machinery and Supplies Association, received awards at a luncheon yesterday. Charles Jennings, Cornell University senior, had the highest individual score, and Mississippi State College won the team competition. Milk, ice cream, butter and cheese were rated as to quality.

HUNTER, 70, MISSING IN STORM

Sought by Forest Rangers in California National Park.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 16.—Forest rangers sought a missing 70-year-old hunter today in the wilds near Lassen Volcanic National Park, where he disappeared Sunday during a storm.

The missing man was Amos J. Cruickshank, Santa Ana (Cal.) banker and father of Josephine Cruickshank, feminine tennis star. Forest rangers said the only clew to his whereabouts was a report that shots were heard on the east side of Broke-Off Mountain, about two miles from the point where Cruickshank was last seen.

VOLUNTEERS PREPARE FOR CHARITIES DRIVE

Four Groups Discuss Participation in $2,850,000 Campaign for 89 Agencies.

Four groups of volunteer workers in the forthcoming United Charities campaign met yesterday to lay plans for their participation in the drive which will begin Nov. 11. In the campaign $2,850,000 will be sought for the 1936 needs of 89 agencies of the Community Fund, Catholic Charities and Jewish Federation.

The speakers' division, section chairmen of the larger subscriptions division, the downtown region and captains of the industrial unit of the group solicitation division were the groups which met yesterday.

Oliver F. Richards, general chairman of the campaign, and Peter Kasius, new director of United Charities, Inc., were present at several of the meetings.

Richards told the campaign workers that for the last three years the United Charities agencies have been confronted with the problem of a steadily increasing demand for their services and a diminishing fund with which to carry on. Because of the shortage of funds, he said, buildings and other equipment of the various agencies and institutions have suffered considerable damage through delay in making needed repairs.

During the last year, Richards said, 213,000 persons in St. Louis and the county received relief, medical aid, shelter, or some other form of service from one of the agencies of United Charities, Inc. At the same time, he said, about 18,000 who applied for help were turned away because funds were lacking.

Kasius, making his first appearance before campaign workers as director of United Charities, said that failure to raise an adequate fund would result in ultimate pauperization of a large group of the population.

"Whatever the Government does in the way of relief," he said, "it does necessarily on a mass basis. The chief value of our privately supported agencies lies in the individual method of treatment they pursue to correct any given situation."

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this home mixture and try it for distressing coughs due to colds. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick, effective relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This home-mixed remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its quick effect in stopping coughs due to colds. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Many of the most desirable rental properties now available are advertised extensively in the Post-Dispatch want pages.

JAPANESE ON U. S. MISSION, FOUND HANGED IN SHIP CABIN

Death, Apparently Suicide, Being Investigated at Los Angeles; No Explanation of Visit.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—The death, supposedly a suicide, of a high ranking Japanese on a special mission to the United States, was investigated today by the Coroner's office.

The dead man, Waichi Ota, 41 years old, apparently ended his life by hanging himself with a silken cord in his cabin aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Taiyo Maru, shortly before the vessel sailed for San Francisco. Tomakazu Hori, Japanese consul in Los Angeles, disclosed he had been advised of the death. He said Ota was in the United States on "government business," but would give no details of his mission here.

MAIN LOCK OF NEW ALTON DAM IS COMPLETED

River Traffic Will Be Permitted Through It Next Week; Coffer Dam Being Removed.

The main lock of the new Alton dam is completed, and river traffic will be permitted through it next week. A coffer dam, an enclosure of steel which holds out water and permits pouring of concrete, is being removed at the upper end of the completed lock, allowing boats to get to the lock.

Work on a second coffer dam has begun. When it is completed construction of an auxiliary lock will start. Meanwhile work is proceeding on the dam itself which will connect from the Missouri shore to the locks. The dam will be completed in the spring of 1937.

Until the main lock is opened next week, boats will continue to use the river passageway farthest from the Illinois shore. The main lock is nearest to the Illinois shore and will connect with the inner passageway beneath the Alton railroad bridge.

MINISTER CRITICISES ROOSEVELT IN LETTER

Tells President He Has "Played Fast and Loose With Fundamentals."

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—The Rev. Henry Stiles Bradley, for more than 40 years a minister and a Democrat, wrote President Roosevelt yesterday "my observation is that there has been a tremendous revulsion of feeling toward you because people believe you have played fast and loose with fundamentals."

The minister, in replying to the President's request to clergymen for counsel and advice, listed the following points of criticism of Roosevelt and his administration:

"I have come with great reluctance to a complete loss of confidence in your pledged word.

"I have lost confidence in your economic judgment.

"There has been a widespread lowering of moral standards since you took office and I think much of the blame for it must be laid at your door.

"I think your policy of the doles is demoralizing.

"Your discrimination against successful business has made me suspect that you were making a bid for popularity with the discontented.

"Your attitude toward the Constitution has alarmed me, and, in view of your oath to preserve, protect and defend it, has also shocked me.

"I have been alarmed also at your ready acceptance of almost dictatorial power.

"My observation is that there has been a tremendous revulsion of feeling toward you, because the people believe you have played fast and loose with fundamentals, and that unless you change you are headed for defeat."

Bishop Cannon Calls on Roosevelt to Acknowledge "Broken Pledges."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has replied to President Roosevelt's request for the advice of the nation's clergy by writing an indictment of what he terms the administration's "unparalleled record of broken pledges."

The letter to the President, made public here, criticised Roosevelt in connection with repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Bishop Cannon concluded by saying:

"In reply therefore to your question as to 'where you feel our Government can better serve our people,' I must say in all candor that I believe the best service it can render the country is:

"First, to make a frank acknowledgement of its broken pledges;

"Second, of its failure to meet adequately the economic, industrial and financial situation;

"Third, of its failure to decrease permanently unemployment;

"And fourth, to admit that at the present time it has no adequate program but is entirely dependent upon increased taxation to meet the present situation and to prevent a disastrous social upheaval.

"This acknowledgement of broken pledges should of necessity include an admission of the tragic failure of repeal and a speedy reversal of that action."

Bishop Cannon asserted the administration had broken "campaign pledges given concerning the gold standard, deflation of the dollar, reduction of Government expenditures, balancing of the budget and the fundamental necessity for the rights of the states to be preserved unimpaired."

GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA COMPARES MINERS TO SLAVES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, in an address to the Herald Tribune Forum today, compared coal miners in Southwestern Pennsylvania to slaves before the Civil War, and said a Supreme Court ruling against the Guffey coal bill would be an "unspeakable misinterpretation of the Constitution."

Protesting against the "meager and intermittent" wages of miners and the conditions of labor of factory workers, the Governor said that if the Supreme Court found itself unable "to protect our people from the evils of economic conditions . . . under the Constitution as it now stands, then I believe our people will amend their Constitution—and no propaganda from the so-called Constitution 'savers' will prevent them."

$12,762 DONATED TO Y.M.C.A. IN FIRST DAY OF CAMPAIGN

Partial Report From Solicitors; Organization Trying to Raise $140,000.

A total of $12,762 was contributed to the Y. M. C. A. campaign for $140,000 during the first day of solicitation, Samuel W. Greenland, general chairman of the drive, announced yesterday. Reports were made by all of the 10 divisions with the exception of the Washington University, St. Louis County and Carondelet groups.

Other reports will be given by the downtown, industrial, advance gifts, St. Louis County, Washington University, and Jefferson College divisions today. The North Side and South Side divisions will meet tonight and tomorrow night to make their reports. Greenland expressed the appreciation of the association and the workers for the co-operation of the public in the campaign, which is to raise current funds. The drive will end Oct. 25.

FAUST PAINT TRUSTEE CHARGES CONSPIRACY

Sues Three Officers and Fourth Man for $12,000 Alleging Illegal Stock Transfer.

Suit for $12,000 was filed in Federal Court today by Orville Livingston, trustee in bankruptcy for the Faust Paint Co., against three officers of the company and a fourth man, who, the suit states, conspired to transfer stock illegally.

The petition charged that Leo Faust, Everett C. Booth and Charles M. Faust, officers of the concern, "conspired to cheat and defraud the corporation" by transferring 120 shares of stock of the Ozark Paint Stores, which was part of the assets of the Faust Co., to John A. Sohnle for $1000. The stock had a par value of $100 a share and a fair market value of $80 a share, Livingston stated.

The alleged transaction was completed June 2, 1934, without the knowledge of other stockholders and was for the benefit of the officers named, the suit alleges.

The Faust Paint Co., 3625 Salena street, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy last May 15. The company controlled stock of the Ozark Paint Stores, Inc., operating 10 retail stores. Livingston charges in his suit that the two Fausts and Booth retained control of the Ozark stock after its transfer to Sohnle.

SAM HARDY, ACTOR, DIES; COLLAPSES ON MOVIE SET

Emergency Operation at Hollywood for Abdominal Ailment Fails to Save Life.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 16. — Sam Hardy, veteran actor of the stage and screen, died early today after an emergency operation for an abdominal ailment. He was 52 years old.

Hardy, best known for his humorous, gambler-type portrayals, collapsed on a studio set yesterday as he made up for scenes in an Eddie Cantor picture. Cantor and Norman Taurog, the director, took him to a hospital, where an operation for an intestinal obstruction was performed. The actor's wife and two friends of the family were at the bedside when death came.

Hardy, a native of New Haven, Conn., had many years of stage experience before he entered the movies with the old Lubin Film Co.

WEAPONS FOUND IN CEMENT

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 16.—(Palcor Agency)—Police reported today that arms and ammunition had been found in a barrel of cement unloaded from a Belgian ship here. The consignment of ammuniti was addressed to a Jaffa commission agent.

The Arab Press featured the report, accusing the Jews of gun running.

ALBANIAN CABINET RESIGNS; KING CALLS ITALY 'OUR ALLY'

Difficulties of Ministry Thought to Have Been Due in Part to League Sanctions Issue.

TIRANA, Albania, Oct. 16.—The government of Premier Pandeli Evangjeli today offered its resignation to King Zog.

The Evangjeli Ministry had been in power since January, 1933.

When the Chamber of Deputies convened this morning, Evangjeli delivered a message from King Zog which said Albania remains a "faithful member" of the League of Nations but is unable to participate in the League's sanctions against Italy. The King referred to Italy as "our great ally." (Albania made reservations to the League proposal of economic and financial sanctions against Italy when the plan was presented at Geneva last week.)

Some quarters expressed the belief the cabinet difficulties were due in part to differences over Italy. A brief official explanation of the resignation said two cabinet posts were vacant and reorganization of the entire Government was desirable to create harmony.

A serious breach within the Government came to light after an abortive revolt in August when Minister of Interior Musa Juke and Minister of Education Mirasch Ivanaj resigned. Recently there have been street disturbances.

FORMER HAUPTMANN LAWYER DROPS SUIT TO COLLECT FEE

Edward J. Reilly Makes No Explanation; Had Asked for $22,398.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Edward J. Reilly, dismissed chief counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, dropped his $22,398 suit "for services" against his former client today. He made no explanation.

An order of discontinuance, signed my his attorneys and C. Lloyd wisher, Hauptmann's attorney, was filed in the Supreme Court. Reilly, in his suit, listed his fee as $25,000 and added $4761 for disbursements. He said he had been paid $7362.

WILL OF MRS. R. M. HORWITZ

Disposal of $40,000 Estate Upheld by Circuit Judge Hogan.

A formal order upholding the will of Mrs. Rose Marx Horwitz, disposing of an estate valued at $40,000, was entered today by Circuit Judge Granville Hogan.

The order was in a will contest filed by her sister, Mrs. Fannie Mange, who alleged that Mrs. Horwitz had been influenced by her husband, Kalman Horwitz, 5370 Pershing avenue, named as beneficiary and executor. He denied the charge. He and Mrs. Horwitz had been married 40 years at the time of her death in June, 1933. His attorney, Louis B. Sher, said the suit was amicably adjusted out of court. Mrs. Horwitz was a daughter of the late Samuel Marx, clothing merchant and banker.

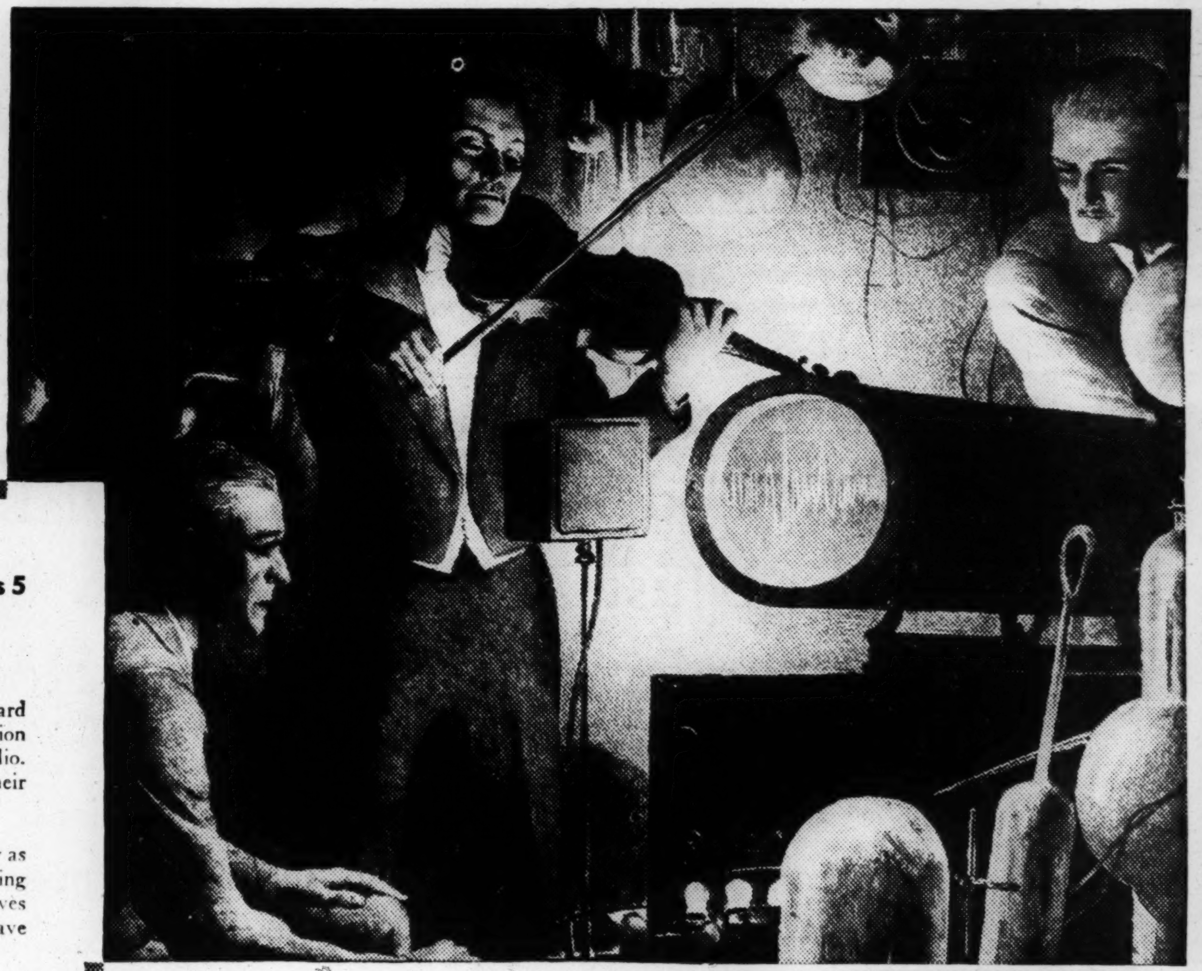
TODAY – COME IN AND HEAR

the new 1936 General Electric Radios

CHANGING A CHOPIN WALTZ INTO A DANCING LIGHT! Seeing sound — invisible sound . . . in the G-E "House of Magic"! They don't trust the human ear, in the G-E Research Laboratory, to gauge the purity of radio tone. Instead, they have devised ingenious instruments that change spoken words, musical notes into waves of green light. Thus, the hidden secrets of sound are revealed . . . the causes of unwanted noises discovered — and eliminated . . . And a finer radio receiver is the result.



General Electric offers as many as 5 great new radio features — in a wide range of models

- NEW METAL TUBES — The greatest forward step in standard and short-wave reception since the introduction of the all-electric radio. A demonstration tells the true story of their superiorities.
- G-E SENTRY-BOX — Controlling as many as five separate broadcasting bands . . . standing guard over a thousand and one radio waves and permitting only one to pass — the wave you're dialed to hear.
- G-E PERMALINER — Maintaining the original alignment of the set . . . keeping the radio at "concert pitch" throughout the years.

BOY ELECTROCUTED IN CLIMBING TOWER

Charles Hinson, 11, Touches Power Lines at Madison (Ill.) Substation.

Charles Richard Hinson, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hinson, 1530 Third street, Madison, Ill., was electrocuted late yesterday afternoon while climbing the tower of an electrical power substation in back of the Madison City Hall.

According to playmates, the boy had previously climbed to the top of the 25-foot tower during a lull in a football game, and after returning to the ground safely, he started to climb again. After climbing a distance of 10 geet, he touched the high tension wires, which carry 2300 volts. The boy's companions reported they saw sparks and flames leap from his feet and they ran to call police.

The boy was found unconscious at the foot of the tower and died while being taken to a Granite City hospital in a police car. He was

Driver Has Flat Tire at Auburn, Ill.; Wife Goes on to St. Louis Where Neither Can Find Other.

Ward Heller, driving a truck, and his wife with their two-year-old son, in the family automobile, were reunited yesterday by the combined efforts of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, the St. Louis County Sheriff's office and the Automobile Club of St. Louis after they had become separated Monday near Auburn, Ill., on the first leg of a trip from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Heller had a flat tire near Auburn and told his wife to continue on to St. Louis. They couldn't find each other in St. Louis, and Mrs. Heller spent the night in a tourist camp. Yesterday she went to the Sheriff's office and told her troubles. The Missouri State Highway Patrol was notified and a description of Heller and the truck was broadcast. Deputy Sheriff Eads of Crawford County stopped Heller near Cuba and notified him of Mrs. Heller's whereabouts.

Yesterday morning Heller had gone to the Automobile Club of St. Louis in an effort to find his wife and on, and later continued on toward Jefferson City, believing that his wife had preceded him.

RANCHER TESTIFIES AT MOONEY HEARING

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Earl K. Hatcher, rancher, said yesterday that the late Frank C. Oxman was honest in cattle deals but a perjurer against Thomas J. Mooney. Hatcher testified at the Mooney habeas corpus hearing yesterday.

Hatcher asserted Oxman, who testified he saw Mooney at the scene of the 1916 Preparedness day bombing here, was in Woodland, Cal., 100 miles away, at the time.

Oxman, former Durkee (Ore.) cattle man, was one of the State's chief witnesses in the trial that led to Mooney's conviction of the bombing that killed 10 persons and injured 40.

"Frank Oxman was like a daddy to me," Hatcher said as he told under cross-examination why he previously had made conflicting statements concerning the Mooney trial witness.

Asked why he continued to have business dealings with Oxman after the asserted perjury, Hatcher said: "Well, stockmen, as a rule, are honest among themselves."

Hatcher testified he met Oxman at a hotel in Woodland early July 22, 1916 (the day of the bombing), and that they went together to the Hatcher home, where Oxman remained until about 1:50 p. m.

"We walked to the station and I saw him get on the train for San Francisco and leave about 2:15 p. m.," Hatcher said. The explosion occurred at 2:06 p. m.

Hatcher denied, under cross-examination, that the proprietor of the Hotel Byrnes had taken him and Oxman to the Woodland Railroad Station at 9 a. m. the day of the bombing.

Hatcher admitted he had told a number of persons that "if Oxman said he was in San Francisco at that time (of the bombing) he must have been."

SEEKS $20,000 DAMAGES FOR SON MISSING FROM STEAMER

Father of Bloomington (Ill.) Youth Files Suit; Ship Held at Norfolk, Va.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 16.—Libel of $20,000 was filed against the Nelson Line steamer Sutherland Monday by B. W. Green Sr. of Bloomington, Ill., father of Ralph Green, 20-year-old oiler on the ship, who disappeared Saturday while the vessel was on her way to Wilmington, N. C., from Charleston, S. C. The Sutherland was scheduled to sail early Monday for New York, but her departure was delayed when libel proceedings were instituted and papers served on Capt. J. A. Matson.

Capt. Matson said the boy left the engine room Saturday and returned to his quarters, but did not report back to his post.

The boy's father said, from information he gathered from the crew, Green probably went back to his room to get some article of clothing. He was obliged to walk out on deck to get back to the engine room, he said. Members of the crew of the Sutherland said Green was in perfect health and full of life. They scorned suggestions that he might have jumped overboard. The boy's father said all his letters indicated he was happy and eager to make a trip around the world so he could return to college.

DUCK HUNTERS MAY USE ISLANDS BUT NOT SANDBARS

Missouri Game Department's Interpretation of Regulations of Biological Survey.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 16.—Duck hunters may be able to test their aim from Missouri River islands when the season on waterfowl opens Monday, but they must stay away from sandbars. That interpretation is given the latest migratory bird treaty act regulations by employes of Missouri Game and Fish Department. Joe E. Green, chief of wardens, who is the chief interpreter, has been out of the city, however, but Green's fellow workers say they believed that was the way he understood the regulations.

Under the regulations, which are issued by the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, hunters may take the migratory game birds from land or water, provided they are not more than 100 feet from the shoreline as determined by ordinary high water or natural growth of vegetation.

Game and Fish Department officials here understand this to mean, for example, that hunting out in the Missouri River near sandbars free of vegetation would be illegal. On islands where there is vegetation, it would be different. The open season on waterfowl will continue to Nov. 19.

BOAT SINKS AT SEA, 27 SAVED

Three Others Thought to Be in Lifeboat Off French Coast.

By the Associated Press.

BREST, France, Oct. 16.—Twenty-seven members of the crew of 30 of the French schooner Les Deux Freres were rescued by coastwise vessel yesterday after the ship sank in the Atlantic.

A search is under way for three missing sailors, thought to be adrift in a lifeboat.

$35,000 Fire at Poplar Bluff.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 16.—The drying sheds and about 25 carloads of furniture stock at the Ruth Lumber Co. mills in South Poplar Bluff were destroyed by fire last night. The damage is estimated at about $35,000. The mill buildings did not burn.

GEN. W. L. SIBERT DIES; SOLDIER AND ENGINEER

By the Associated Press.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Oct. 16.—Major-General William L. Sibert, 75 years old, soldier and engineer, honored for his services in the construction of the Panama Canal, died at his country home today after a long illness.

Funeral will be at Christ's Episcopal Church here at 1 p. m. tomorrow, after which the body will be taken to Washington for burial in Arlington National Cemetery Friday.

Gen. Sibert had been in a critical condition for some time from complications incident to his age. Born Oct. 12, 1860, in Etowah County, Ala., he observed his seventy-fifth birthday last Saturday.

Received Thanks of Congress.

General Sibert's career as an engineer and soldier extended over a period of 40 years. The Government recognized his services in connection with the construction of the Panama Canal, when in 1915, by a special act of Congress he was made a brigadier-general and at the same time received the thanks of Congress.

When the United States entered the World War General Sibert was placed in command of the First Division of the American Expeditionary Forces. His services won the distinguished service cross. That assignment carried with it a particular satisfaction for the general because it enabled him to continue unbroken the war record of his forebears, that of having fought in every war in which the United States had participated from the early Indian battles.

General Sibert was of Scotch-Irish descent. His father was William Joshua Sibert, a farmer and merchant living near Gadsden, Ala., and his mother was Marietta Ward Sibert. After spending two years at the University of Alabama, Gen. Sibert was appointed a cadet at the United States Military Academy at West Point. With his graduation in 1884 he was assigned to the Engineer Corps as a second lieutenant and was promoted through the various grades of commissioned officers until 1917, when he was raised to the rank of major-general for his assignment as a divisional commander in France. He was retired in 1920.

Married Texas Woman.

In the autumn of 1887 General Sibert married Miss Mary Margaret Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cummings, at Brownsville, Tex. To them were born five sons and a daughter. All of the former served during the World War.

General Sibert was engaged in th Canal Zone for seven years, during which he built the Gatun locks and dam, the west breakwater in Colon Harbor and supervised the excavation of the canal from Gatun to the Atlantic Ocean. It was for this work that he was thanked by Congress.

There followed an assignment under the joint auspices of the American Red Cross and the Chinese Government, which placed General Sibert as chairman of the board of engineers dealing with the flood prevention problems of the Huai River Valley in China.

Women Seek Election Board Jobs.

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 16. — Voting unanimously for "at least one woman Judge and one woman clerk be appointed in each precinct in the primary and general elections, and that one woman be asked to serve on juries," the members of Poinsett County's Democratic Women's clubs have announced their readiness to take their place in politics and jury service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Associated Press managing editors in their third annual convention yesterday re-elected Oliver Owen Kuhn, managing editor of the Washington Star, as general chairman.

ANXIETY OVER FOOD SHORTAGE IN GERMANY

Much Grumbling in Urban Centers; Poor Crops and Self-Sufficiency Policy.

(Copyright, 1935.)

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Above everything else the urban population of Germany is concentrating its attention these days on the domestic food situation, which is giving rise to anxiety.

There is now absolute shortage in certain foodstuffs, some of which play an important role in the German diet. The most serious deficiency is in fat, including lard, margarine and butter. The other foodstuffs involved are pork and certain other meats, together with fish and dried fruits, and certain vegetables and eggs.

The stringency results in part from the poor domestic crops of last year, in part from the Government policy of economizing on foodstuffs and imports, with a view of employing the meager supply of exchange for purchase abroad of raw materials, and in part from the Government program of making the Reich as nearly as possible self-sufficient in foodstuffs.

There is reason to believe that, until Germany is in a position to increase materially her export trade and thus provide means for more ample imports, deficiencies in certain foodstuffs will persist in more or less acute form.

Thus it would appear that a considerable portion of the German population, notably industrial workers and the lower categories of the white collar class, must become resigned to the acceptance of a lower standard of living for an indefinite period—not necessarily smaller in the bulk of food, but food of somewhat inferior quality and restricted in variety.

Self-Sufficiency Problem.

If the national self-sufficiency program is to be adhered to, it is possible that the standard of living will not be restored to its previous level even if and when the export situation is improved. Additional factors tending to support this view are the steady increase in the German population and the position of domestic agriculture at the production level which, according to experts, cannot be substantially raised in the near future.

Although there is a shortage in certain "deficiency foodstuffs," notably fat, it may become more severe this winter than it is today. There is no definite evidence, however, that the situation will deteriorate progressively. Thus, there is no reason to believe that, barring unforeseen developments, the shortage will be appreciably more acute in the winter of 1936-37 than it will be during the coming winter. This view is expressed by unbiased experts here.

The political implication of the existing food situation cannot be ignored. Not being in a position to judge for themselves the actual state of affairs and distrusting official reassurances, the populations of the large cities, including Berlin, wherein deficiencies have been most evident, tend to take a somber view of the situation.

Fear in City Populations.

Undoubtedly there is a widespread ear among sections of these populations of a general food shortage. In the capital, for example, voluntary rationing by food shops of butter and pork and queues of waiting customers before these shops have come as unsavory reminders of wartime and the subsequent inflation period. In some cases, men and women have stood in line an hour or so to secure their respective eighths or quarters of a pound of butter only to find the supply exhausted before their turns came.

In Berlin, as in other cities, such persons are faced abruptly with the fact that they are paying for an ardent nationalism to which they may or may not have given active support. There is much grumbling. Successive speakers, such as Paul Joseph Goebbels and other Nazi leaders, who have talked on the food situation, and frequent reassuring articles in the press, provide sufficient evidence that the Government is taking the situation seriously. The Government is taking measures which may remedy in part the deficiencies in specific categories of foodstuffs, or at least prevent the shortages from becoming greater materially.

HOW FARMING COMMUNITY WAS AWED BY MARK TWAIN

New Haven Railroad Stopped Express First Time to Let Humorist Get Off at Redding, Conn.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — When Mark Twain went to live in Redding, Conn., the New Haven Railroad stopped the afternoon express for the first time to let him alight. What's more, it continued to do that to accommodate the author and his friends.

Coley B. Taylor, who was a little boy in Redding when this took place, and who is now a book publisher, recalls how impressed the farming community was in the preface to a book he has written and published.

The book is called "Mark Twain's Margins on Thackeray's Swift," a long title with three shining lights of literature in it. Twain scribbled notes in his copy of Thackeray's "English Humorists," and Taylor has written an essay around them. In the preface he recalls Twain as a fellow townsman in Redding.

Twain, whose centennial is being observed this year, skipped hastily through the other humorists Thackeray wrote about, says Taylor, but when he came to the essay on Swift, he read with the care of a scholar, making shrewd observations in pencil as he went along.

list price at Flint. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout as standard equipment

Production of the new Buicks accords with the joint program of Government, labor and industry to spread employment more evenly throughout the year

HERE you see illustrated in action the stunning and spirited new Buick SPECIAL—and very special you'll find it indeed!

The motorwise in the trade who previewed its performance habitually use the word phenomenal to describe it.

That may tell you how it performs, as your eye tells you how it looks, but only long years can tell you how very good it really is.

We'll advise you in advance, that it's the nimblest, smoothest, liveliest, steadiest, safest, most satisfying carrier of high-power energy that ever thrilled an appreciative traveler!

The Special is fingertip light to handle, in traffic or at speed, but it has none of that rubbery pulpy jumpiness that keeps you tense and on the alert in many cars.

That's because it's engineered firm—fitted part to part with sound micrometer precision—throughout every inch and detail of its deep-framed durable Buick-engineered chassis.

When you give it a shot of gas and it's turning up its steady even-keeled speed, it seems to settle even closer to the road, a paragon of stability as it reels off its thrifty miles.

And when you kick it open on take-offs it gets away instanter! without pause or delayed gathering of power before its spurt.

No use trying to picture the Special in words, it's so different from anything you're used to—the practical thing is to get behind that wheel yourself.

Then you'll know the difference between the engineering of yesterday and of tomorrow, and your amaze will be that the phenomenal Special can be sold at a price so low.

YOU CAN AFFORD THE NEW BUICK

MAN HURT IN AUTO UPSET MONDAY DIES

Joseph Spinelli Is Second Victim of Accident That Occurred in County.

Joseph Spinelli, 49 years old, 5119A Bischoff avenue, died at Alexian Brothers Hospital today of a skull injury suffered Monday night in an automobile accident on Tesson road, in St. Louis County.

Carmello Gianino, 21, 5129 Wilson avenue, was killed in the accident and three other men were hurt. Sebastian Fresta, 5219 Elizabeth avenue, the driver, told officers that his machine was grazed by another going in the opposite direction and upset in a ditch. Spinelli was found lying in the ditch by a deputy constable after the other injured men had been taken to St. John's Hospital.

Persons injured when struck by automobiles yesterday were: John Thornton, 7446 Lynn avenue, University City, fractured leg and skull injury; Mrs. Cora Black, a widow, 527 North Vandeventer avenue, skull injury; Mario Monaco, 5, 5632 Leona street, cuts and bruises.

Woman Dies of Injuries Suffered Friday Near Wood River.

Mrs. Fredericka Reding, 49, 833 Ruskin street, Edwardsville, died yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, of injuries suffered last Friday night in a head-on collision of two automobiles on State Highway 159, three miles east of Wood River. She suffered fractures of the skull and jaw. Pneumonia developed.

Mrs. Reding was riding in an automobile driven by her husband, Henry Reding, a laboratory assistant at an oil refining plant at Wood River. The car struck the machine of Hallie Johnson, 208 Ohio street, East Alton, as he attempted to pass a third car. Johnson was driving east.

Reding and Johnson are recovering at St. Joseph's Hospital from their injuries. The Reding's 14-year-old daughter, Helen, was cut and bruised as was a man who was riding with Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Reding were to have observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding next Friday.

KNITTED FASHION SHOW HELD AT VANDERVOORT STORE

A Knitted Fashion Show, featuring sports ensembles and including some dresses for afternoon and evening wear, was held yesterday afternoon at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney under the direction of Beatrice Midas of the Columbia Yarns Co.

Imported models by Schiaparelli, de la Chassaigne, Anny Blatt and some English and Viennese designs were shown as well as models created by Dorothy Ecker and Aileen Rice of New York, and Hollywood fashion designers. Two and three-piece ensembles for sports wear predominated, some having three-quarter length coats in tweed knits. Yarns in Chinese green, pomegranate, rust, lilac, seal brown and numerous mixtures were used. Two-piece dresses for afternoon wear featuring the shorter shirt as well as the straight and flared silhouette were shown. Costume jewelry designed by Miriam Haskell of New York furnished color accents for the models.

MAN HURT IN AUTO UPSET MONDAY DIES

Joseph Spinelli Is Second Victim of Accident That Occurred in County.

Joseph Spinelli, 49 years old, 5119A Bischoff avenue, died at Alexian Brothers Hospital today of a skull injury suffered Monday night in an automobile accident on Tesson road, in St. Louis County.

Carmello Gianino, 21, 5129 Wilson avenue, was killed in the accident and three other men were hurt. Sebastian Fresta, 5219 Elizabeth avenue, the driver, told officers that his machine was grazed by another going in the opposite direction and upset in a ditch. Spinelli was found lying in the ditch by a deputy constable after the other injured men had been taken to St. John's Hospital.

Persons injured when struck by automobiles yesterday were: John Thornton, 7446 Lynn avenue, University City, fractured leg and skull injury; Mrs. Cora Black, a widow. 527 North Vandeventer avenue, skull injury; Mario Monaco, 5, 5632 Leona street, cuts and bruises.

Woman Dies of Injuries Suffered Friday Near Wood River.

Mrs. Fredericka Reding, 49, 833 Ruskin street, Edwardsville, died yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, of injuries suffered last Friday night in a head-on collision of two automobiles on State Highway 159, three miles east of Wood River. She suffered fractures of the skull and jaw. Pneumonia developed.

Mrs. Reding was riding in an automobile driven by her husband, Henry Reding, a laboratory assistant at an oil refining plant at Wood River. The car struck the machine of Hallie Johnson, 208 Ohio street, East Alton, as he attempted to pass a third car. Johnson was driving east.

Reding and Johnson are recovering at St. Joseph's Hospital from their injuries. The Reding's 14-year-old daughter, Helen, was cut and bruised as was a man who was riding with Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Reding were to have observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding next Friday.

KNITTED FASHION SHOW HELD AT VANDERVOORT STORE

A Knitted Fashion Show, featuring sports ensembles and including some dresses for afternoon and evening wear, was held yesterday afternoon at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney under the direction of Beatrice Midas of the Columbia Yarns Co.

Imported models by Schiaparelli, de la Chassaigne, Anny Blatt and some English and Viennese designs were shown as well as models created by Dorothy Ecker and Aileen Rice of New York, and Hollywood fashion designers. Two and three-piece ensembles for sports wear predominated, some having three-quarter length coats in tweed knits. Yarns in Chinese green, pomegranate, rust, lilac, seal brown and numerous mixtures were used. Two-piece dresses for afternoon wear featuring the shorter shirt as well as the straight and flared silhouette were shown. Costume jewelry designed by Miriam Haskell of New York furnished color accents for the models.

PWA DENIES INQUIRY IN CITY BOND ELECTION

Officials Say Custom Has Been Not to Investigate Reported Voting Frauds.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Public Works Administration officials denied yesterday reports that PWA investigators were conducting an investigation into the riverfront memorial bond issue election in St. Louis, as requested by the Citizen's Non-Partisan Committee.

PWA has consistently refused, officials explained, to supervise bond issue elections involving PWA projects. Likewise, unless a special request has come from another Government department, PWA's investigating division has declined to investigate reported election frauds.

Committee's Affidavits.

The Non-Partisan Committee presented affidavits to show that many persons reported as voting had not done so. Also it was shown that a phenomenally high percentage of voters were recorded as voting in certain downtown precincts.

The committee called on Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as PWA administrator; Harry L. Hopkins, WPA chief; President Roosevelt and the Department of Justice to investigate the election. The request to the Department of Justice was addressed to Assistant Attorney-General Joseph B. Keenan of the Division of Investigation.

At Keenan's office it was said that the complaint had been referred to PWA, inasmuch as the latter organization had its own investigating division which handled all PWA complaints. The Department of Justice will take no action unless called on by PWA, it was said.

No Progress in Getting Grant.

Since Ickes' public statement that the clause in the State act authorizing the $7,500,000 memorial bond issue — which specifies the Federal Government must appropriate three times the amount of the issue—appeared to make it impossible to allocate Federal funds, there has been no apparent change in the status of the project. At the time of the bond issue election its sponsors insisted that demolition of structures on the waterfront could begin within a few days after approval of the issue by the voters. The election was held Sept. 10.

MISSOURI CHILD WELFARE WORK DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Judge Hall of Juvenile Court and Other Speakers Assert Laws and Funds Are Inadequate.

Child welfare work in Missouri was discussed at a meeting held at Hotel Kingsway yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Welfare Committee of the League of Women Voters. The meeting, which was inspired by recent Federal social security legislation, was attended by women representing organizations actively engaged in child welfare work.

Circuit Judge Robert Hall, who presides over Juvenile Court, said the work of his court has been handicapped financially by inadequate state institutional provisions. Chairman James E. King of the Board of Children's Guardians declared insufficient appropriations made it impossible for his organization to care for 2500 cases in which foster homes or institutional training is needed.

Prof. William W. Burke of the Department of Social Work at Washington University, outlined the provisions of the social security act and said he feared Missouri would be unable to take advantage of some of the provisions because of inadequate state laws. Mrs. Ralph W. Thayer, chairman of the committee, urged co-ordination of local and state public health and child welfare work. Mrs. J. Hardin Smith Jr., president of the league, presided at the meeting.

LACLEDE GAS EMPLOYES WAGE INCREASE DENIED

Arbitration Committee Says 10 Per Cent Rise for 500 Is Not Warranted.

A demand for a 10 per cent wage increase by 500 employes of the Laclede Gas Light Co., members of the Company Representative Association, was denied by an arbitration committee to which the question was submitted.

The committee yesterday issued the following statement:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the Arbitration Committee that the loyalty and service of the members of the Laclede Gas Light Representative Association is commendable and worthy of the fullest recognition and reward by the Laclede Gas Light Co., but in the opinion of a majority of the Arbitration Committee a blanket wage increase is not now warranted."

The committee was composed of Louis Chackes, representing employes; A. E. Wyatt, for the company, and Cyrus Crane Willmore, real estate dealer, impartial member.

Gen. Greely a Little Weaker.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Adolphus W. Greely, retired Major-General and former Arctic explorer, became "a little weaker" today at Walter Reed Hospital. Physicians expressed amazement at the resistance of the 91-year-old soldier who has been ill for several months and in serious condition for more than a week.

CAN'T REMEMBER WHERE HER HOME IS Hurt in Grade Crossing Crash.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Oct. 16.—Jess Yates, driver for an oil company, was seriously injured Monday morning when his car was struck by a freight train at a grade crossing at Iola, Ok. He was taken to a Tulsa hospital. He suffered cuts on the face, arms and legs and a possible concussion.

ZENGE'S MOTHER TESTIFIES FOR HIM AT MURDER TRIAL

Says He Was Hard Hit Emotionally by Fiancee's Marriage to Victim, Walter J. Bauer.

UNABLE TO GIVE OPINION ON SANITY

Other Relatives Express Belief He Was Unbalanced by Loss of Childhood Sweetheart.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Alice Zenge, white-haired mother of Mandeville W. Zenge, testifited at his trial today that he was hard hit emotionally when his childhood sweetheart, Louise Shaffer, married Walter J. Bauer, the man he is accused of killing.

The mother, appearing somewhat bewildered as she took the stand in Judge Cornelius J. Harrington's Court, kept her control until she stepped down. Then she nearly collapsed in the corridor. Her husband, J. Andrew Zenge, of Canton, Mo., supported her until she revived.

Her testimony was part of Zenge's defense, offered through relatives and friends, that Miss Shaffer's marriage drove Zenge temporarily insane.

"Do you have an opinion, based on what you observed after July 14 (date of the marriage), as to the mental condition of your son?" asked Defense Attorney Joseph Green.

"I felt the shock had been too much for my boy," said Mrs. Zinge. Judge Harrington ordered the answer stricken.

"Dou you believe he was sane or insane?" asked Green.

"I could not say," Mrs. Zinge replied.

"Did you notice any change in Mandeville after July 14?" she was asked.

"He ate little," she said. "He talked seldom and he told no one of his troubles."

Prosecutor Charles Dougherty did not cross-examine.

Bauer, teacher in the College of Osteopathy at Kirksville, where he met Louise Shaffer, was abducted in Ann Arbor, Mich., on July 30, brought to Chicago and subjected to a multilation operation from which he died.

Judge Harrington yesterday granted Attorney Joseph Roach's request for permission to introduce statements from Zenge himself, which Roach said, "probably will indicate he committed the crime." The attorney's announcement asserted "none of these declarations (Zenge's) will have any tendency . . . to prove that the defendant was not physically responsible for the death of Dr. Bauer."

Under the Judge's ruling, Claude B. Staggs of Canton, who married a cousin of Zenge, was allowed to testify to the intense feeling the prisoner held for his childhood playmate and sweetheart.

Two months before Louise Shaffer accepted Bauer, Staggs said, Zenge told him: "Soon, I'm going to marry Louise and take her out of the hospital." Miss Shaffer was a nurse at Kirksville, Mo.

Earlier the same night, Staggs said, he had overheard the nurse tearfully beg Zenge to marry her.

"They were on the porch," the witness said. "I could see them in the light from the street. Louise threw her arms around Mandeville and started sobbing. She was pleading with him to marry her. But he said he didn't have enough money and wanted $1000 before he married. He said he would have it in a short while."

Mrs. Bauer had testified that she was ready to wed Zenge but that he deferred marriage until her love for him cooled.

Stagg said Zenge became gloomy, and cold to his friends after her marriage and stated that he believed Zenge became insane.

When Zenge told him he planned to buy a new $1000 automobile, Staggs quoted him as replying to his protests:

"What's the difference what I do with the money now that Louise has married. I won't have any further use for the money."

Cousin Testifies.

Earl Zenge, of Canton, a cousin of the defendant, testified that he believed Mandeville was insane the last time he saw him, on July 24.

"When we were in high school, Mandeville didn't run around with any of the rest of us," Earl said. "He gave all his attention to Louise."

The defendant's brother, Leighton Zenge, said it was his opinion that Mandeville "was insane the last time I saw him." Leighton said he had told Mandeville several times that he believed him insane.

From the small red notebook in which Zenge had penned a "suicide" note following the death of Bauer, the defense attorney read the notation: "Late (Leighton) told me several times I was crazy but I am not."

Prosecutors objected to the procedure and the judge ordered it stricken from the records, but not before Leighton had testified to the same effect.

Zenge's youngest brother, J. Andrew Zenge Jr., senior in the University of Missouri Law School, also testified he believed his brother was insane on July 24 when Mandeville Zenge left Canton.

Woman Tied in Auto by Robbers.

Negro Executed in Montana.

MILES CITY, Mont., Oct. 16.—George Criner, 36-year-old Negro, died on the gallows here today after requesting that $32.50, all the money he had, be used to purchase a headstone for the grave of a woman he killed. The woman, Mary Allsup, Negro, was stabbed to death during a quarrel with Criner and James Fraser, police sergeant, was killed when he went to investigate.

NEVER MIND, IF YOUR ENGINE stays oiled

Oil wouldn't be oil if it weren't slippery. Ordinarily it slips off the job as soon as you stop. After you park half a night—or even half a morning—where's your lubrication? Down in the crankcase. And before it gets back up in the motor, these colder days, your engine wears fully twice as fast as any other time.

This winter skip all that double-quick destruction. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Oil, known to bond itself direct to every engine part. It forms what millions know as "the Hidden Quart that never drains away." For Germ Processed Oil actually becomes a part of all the engine surfaces that used to scrape, drag, rub and clatter.

When it comes to something extra-difficult, like lubricating the new copper-lead, high-lead, and cadmium-alloy bearings, Conoco Germ Processed Oil more than ever surpasses plain mineral oils. Merciless road tests have proved this again and again.

Only an oil that can beat the starter with advance lubrication, like patented Germ Processed Oil, will save you the engine wear, battery juice, and other winter grief that you'll save by seeing your Conoco man today.

Make sure your engine stays oiled

ALL MEMBERS OF NATIONAL SOCCER CHAMPIONS RELEASED

By Dent McSkimming.

St. Louis' great national champion soccer team woke up this morning to find itself an orphan. The club that won the United States championship the past three seasons and is today regarded as a stronger combination than ever before, has lost its financial backers and organizers, James A. Burke and John Dwyer.

Every player on the team, including four foreign-born stars, will receive today his written release, making him a free agent, at liberty to sign with any other club. Burke and Dwyer said today that they are stepping out of the soccer picture after having made persistent but futile efforts to arrange for proper financing of the club. The team was sponsored for a period of three years by the Stix, Baer & Fuller Co., and later by the Central Brewery but at the start of this season, two weeks ago, bore the name Democratic Club, representing the Democratic Country Club, located on Riverview drive, in which Burke and Dwyer are financially interested.

Too Much Strain.

"A half dozen of our players relied upon soccer as a livelihood," explained Burke today. "When our club was backed by a business house we could obtain part time employment for these men and assure them of a sufficient income to take care of their families, but without this support from some such sponsor Dwyer and I have had to maintain the team out of our personal resources. This was all right as a temporary measure but we don't care to try it for the whole season before us, so we are dropping our control."

It is probable that the champions will continue to play as members of the St. Louis Soccer League, it was said today by one of the players, but will likely bear the name St. Louis until some other backer can be located. In its two league games this season, the team overwhelmed the opposition and gave every evidence of developing into a far stronger combination than St. Louis has ever had before. Steps had been taken to bring an outstanding fullback here from the East to strengthen the only weak department in the team.

Gate Receipts Meager.

Gate receipts from league games in recent seasons have not been sufficient to support a team of salaried stars but there has frequently been a sizeable "melon" to split up from national championship games. The support of a sponsor is needed to span the lean months before the intersectional cup matches start in the spring.

Burke and Dwyer started their career as builders of national soccer champions when they took over the Wellston club from A. J. "Tate" Brady in 1930. In effecting a connection with the Stix, Baer & Fuller Co., through Otto Schultz they were enabled to bring to the city such players as Willie McLean, Bob Gregg, Alec McNab, Bill Watson, Werner Nilsen and Billy Gonsalves, all of whom were given employment by the sponsors. Last season they lost McPherson, Watson and Nilsen, but they added America's outstanding center forward, Bert Patenaude. And at the start of this season, they brought Watson and Nilsen back to St. Louis from Chicago, retained most of the others and were apparently set for another national championship.

A member of the team said today that a meeting will be held tomorrow to map a course of action. He believes the club will not disband but will operate on a co-operative basis while seeking a new backer.

Hockey League Planned as Rival To Association

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16.

IT'S "rough ice" for the American Hockey Association, approaching another troubled season.

The latest bombshell to disturb the outlook for the club owners was the announced plans of the newly formed Rocky Mountain Hockey Association for rival teams in Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Carl Fischer of Denver, president, said the organization is contemplating forming teams in Chicago, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Omaha and Wichita. Commercial firms already have tentatively approved sponsorship of teams at Denver, Chicago, Tulsa and Omaha.

The Tulsa Coliseum has been leased for 24 games, with the association having the right to name its dates until Oct. 22.

George Lackey, manager of the Tulsa Oilers, American Hockey Association team, said he would undertake legal action to block the contract or move his team to Wichita.

Previously, on the heels of announcement Minneapolis would join the American Hockey Association, came word the Minneapolis players had been sold to Rochester.

Here's Lots of Luck! Rough House Nelson (Bill Luck) Coaching His Sons

There are two young fellows playing football at Soldan High School who can't tell their dad anything he doesn't already know about tackles, high or low; or the probable effect of a stiff arm at the point of the chin.

They are Bob Luck, 210-pound tackle on the varsity team and his 13-year-old brother Bill, a guard on the freshman team. Their father, William Luck, is known to thousands of St. Louis sports followers as "Rough House" Nelson, former wrestler, now an assistant to Promoter Tom Packs.

Luck, or Rough House Nelson, turns out these autumn afternoons to lend moral support to his sons and the Soldan football squad in their daily practice. And you couldn't keep him away from Soldan football games with a shotgun.

Bob and Bill are physically as hard as nails. They have bright, intelligent eyes, shake hands with a strong grip, and know how to talk.

GOLF STARS IN FINAL WORKOUT FOR P.G.A. EVENT

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 16.—The nation's professional golf stars, here for the National U. G. A. tournament, took their final warm-up today on a course that commanded respect for its exactness.

The general opinion of the Twin Hills course, over which the battle for the professional crown starts tomorrow, was summed up by Paul Runyan, the defending champion.

"I enjoyed it very much," said the 140-pound package of golfing dynamite, after turning in a 71, one over par. "It is all a matter of direction. It is a very tight course, not long, but it requires great accuracy."

There were all the big names in golf—Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Horton Smith, Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee; Craig Wood, Deal, N. J.; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., the nation's low scorer for the year, and a host of others.

The official entry list was 122. It contained all the members of the Ryder Cup team. Only Olin Dutra of Chicago was missing today.

In their first practice rounds yesterady only a few of the late arrivals kept scores. Most of them were a stroke or so over par 70. Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Horton Smith bagged a 72 and a 73, respectively.

Johnnie Farrell of New Jersey took a 73 and Billy Burke, Cleveland, a 76. Charley Lacey, Chicago, hit some scorching tee shots to garner a 71.

NEIGHBORHOOD BOYS RECEIVE AWARDS FOR SPORT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Sport champions of the Neighborhood Association were honored at a banquet held last night at the club. One hundred and twenty-five boys received awards in the various sports. Championship clubs received trophies and their members letters.

St. Phillip Neri, Junior Baseball League champions, received a plaque. J. A. Wolf, executive director of the Neighborhood Association, made the presentation to Father Poepperling, coach of St. Neri.

The senior softball trophy went to the Paris club. The Gunners won the junior division softball title and also the track and field championship.

Babe Hunt Defeated.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 16.—Al Gainer, 176, New Haven Negro, won a ten-round decision from Babe Hunt, 205, of Ponca City, Ok., in the main bout of a boxing card here tonight. Gainer forced what fighting there was during ten slow rounds.

Noskay to Start at Tackle for Bears in Duquesne Contest

By J. Roy Stockton.

Joe Noskay, the patient young man from Bourbon, Mo., who says little and works hard, is the fourth member of the Washington University reserves to gain a place in Jimmy Conzelman's rearranged starting lineup, as a result of mediocre work by former regulars in the Illinois and Southern Methodist games. The Bear coach announced last night that "Bourbon Joe" would be at one of the tackle positions when the Washington eleven meets Duquesne at Pittsburgh Friday night.

Libero Bertagnolli and Norman Tomlinson are the other linemen promoted to starting jobs, while Joe Bukant has been selected to start at fullback, with Don Wimberly shifted to halfback as a running mate for Bob Hudgens.

Conzelman also named the men who will make the trip to Pittsburgh, departing tomorrow evening. The list of 29 players follows: Dwight Hafeli, Les Brungard, Ralph Bentzinger, Chick Droke, Walter Gog, Ray Hobbs, Al Iezzi, Tony Konvicka, Ed Wagner, Nate Tutinsky, Richard Young, Libero Bertagnolli, Bill Bowman, Joe Bukant, Frank Davis, Fred Hunkins, John Lamb, Paul Locke, Jack Martin, Roy Martintoni, Norman Tomlinson, Bill Wendt, Don Wimberly, Bill Wolf, Bob Hudgens, Jones Klein, Dave Blumberg, Joe Noskay and Tommy Ozment.

Many observers believe that Conzelman's strongest possible backfield will be on duty as a result of the changes. Bukant, the powerhouse of the attack, certainly is the No. 1 fullback, while Wimberly, lacking Bukant's weight and driving power, is one of the smart members of the ball-carrying department. With Hudgens and Wimberly as his running mates and Zboyovski at quarter, Bukant will have every advantage that the squad's man power can give him. If the line can function better than it did against Southern Methodist, the backfield can be expected to make a respectable showing.

Unfortunately, the Bears find themselves in a predicament that was common in past years. Injuries have reduced the number of available reserves and after Conzelman substitutes Droke for one of the halfbacks and Tommy Ozment for Zboyovski, there isn't much that can be done. Ed Wagner still is out of uniform with a leg injury and the available substitute ball carriers, except for Droke, are not impressive.

Coach Conzelman announced last night that his team would play a more conservative game against Duquesne than it did last Saturday with Southern Methodist as the opposition. When the Bears take to the air they will try passes which are not so likely to be intercepted and turned into enemy touchdowns. Thus far the Bear forward passing attack has been more profitable to the enemy than to the party of the first part.

It also is possible that Conzelman will suggest a few valuable rule changes. For instance, he would have done well last Saturday to insist that the Southern Methodist linemen be prohibited from playing in the Bear backfield, for that's where they were every time you looked.

As a result of the many bruises suffered in the Illinois and S. M. U. games, Conzelman decided to go through the week without any scrimmage. However, the necessity has been stressed of showing improvement at blocking and tackling. Jim's squad is showing signs of shaking off the blues that seized them after the two trouncings and he hopes for vast improvement in his team in the Duquesne contest.

Jurges Considers Changing Into a Left-Hand Hitter

By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 16.

BILL JURGES, brilliant fielding Chicago Cub shortstop, but not a very strong hitter, is seriously considering turning himself into a left-handed batter, he has told reporters.

Jurges, here with his wife and young daughter to spend the winter, admitted that he had never been fishing or hunting in his life, but added that Lon Warneke, his teammate, had promised to teach him this winter on Warneke's farm near Norman, 40 miles west of here.

MILLSDALE RUSS WINS CLASS "A" HONORS IN HIGHLAND BEAGLE SHOW

By the Associated Press.

GREENFIELD, O., Oct. 16.—Millsdale Russ, owned by Carl Zogt, of Monaco, Pa., won Class "A" competition last night in the sixteenth annual field trials and bench show of the Highland Beagle Club. He defeated 34 dogs of all ages under 13 inches.

Captain Hicks, owned by Mrs. W. C. Edmondson of Ralston, Neb., was third and Potomac Pastime Pal, owned by S. T. Smith, of Cumberland, Md., reserve. Potomac Pastime Pal won the International Futurity last spring.

Bonizan's Bay II, owned by H. Huston Smith of Louisville, Ky., was fourth in Class "B" for 13-inch all-age bitches. Mad Ray Jinks, owned by Ray D. Dunningham of Reno, Pa., was second among American bred dogs, 13 inches and under.

Hare Thron Primrose, owned by W. C. Dover, of Flint, Mich., was first among American bred bitches, 13 inches and under. Penzbest Shore Boy, owned by Dr. H. A. Wilson of Bradford, Pa., was first in the open dogs class, over 13 inches and under 15.

NOTRE DAME OUT TO STOP PITT'S WINNING STREAK OF 3 STRAIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Along with being out to win on general principles, Notre Dame's football warriors are nursing a special yearning to whip Pittsburgh Saturday at South Bend.

The Panthers, by winning their last three encounters, already hold a modern record for their dealings with the Irish. No other team has been able to take Notre Dame three times hand running since the South Bend eleven became a ranking gridiron power. In addition, on the basis of early returns, the Panthers rank with Ohio State as the cream of Notre Dame's schedule.

Not only have the Irish lost their three most recent tussles with Pitt, but haven't even scored a point. In 1932, Pittsburgh won, 12 to 0, in 1933, the score was 14 to 0, and last year the Panthers improved the margin to 19 to 0.

Michuta Out.

With Johnny Michuta, his star right tackle, gone for the season because of recurrence of an old head injury, Coach Elmer Layden is working like a beaver to repair his line. Harry Becker, first string substitute for Michuta last year, who has been playing right guard this season, has been moved out to the tackle post. Jim Martin, a "watch charm" lineman, will take over Becker's old position. Layden's younger brother, Mike, injured in the Carnegie Tech game, returned yesterday and may be ready to take a turn at right halfback against Pitt.

Over in the Big Ten yesterday, Ohio State had a comparatively light workout of dummy scrimmage, kicking and passing drill and signal practice. The big bad Buckeye's, foemen of Saturday, Northwestern's Wildcats, worked on defense against Ohio formations and didn't do very well.

Chicago In Secret Drill.

Chicago again practiced in secret, polishing up plays to shoot against Purdue Saturday. The Boilermakers were a little off color, displeasing Coach Noble Kizer by dull work in a line scrimmage. Minnesota's regulars went through a light session while Bernie Bierman took another look at his reserve help. Indiana's plans for wrecking Cincinnnati's record of not having been scored on this season, speeded up the return of Roy Eads, a veteran back, who was injured in the Centre College game two weeks ago.

Illinois, idle this week, came home to a rousing reception in celebration of its victory over Southern California. Iowa, which also has an open date Saturday before meeting Illinois a week hence, loafed through a light warmup session.

Western Reserve Back Has Made 64 Points in 3 Games

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—A new claimant for national collegiate football scoring honors has arisen in the person of Ray Zeh, slashing fullback of Western Reserve University, who in three games has run up the breath-taking total of 64 points.

Zeh is admitteldy out in front "by a country mile" so far as Ohio collegiate circles are concerned, and Western Reserve rooters contend the backfield ace whose name sounds like a new yell is actually the champion of the country.

Last week, having scored 46 points in two games, Zeh was 22 points ahead of his nearest Ohio rival, and by adding 18 more in the game against Buffalo University on Saturday, he gained a 34-point advantage.

He has scored nine touchdowns, four more than his nearest Ohio rival, and has accounted for 10 points after touchdown, seven more than any other player among the two dozen leaders.

The nearest thing to a national compilation on which Western Reserve fans could lay hands listed Bob Davis, Kentucky halfback, as leader with 54 points scored in four games, and Clarence Parker, Duke quarterback, second with 48 in four games.

A total like that is just a matter of loafing along so far as Zeh is concerned.

Jackson's Jack Wins Derby.

By the Associated Press.

WEST CHESTER, Oct. 16.—Jackson's Jack, entered and handled by Robert Jackson of Baltimore, won the 15-inch derby for all ages in yesterday's running of the Sportsmen's Beagle Club fall trials. Another of Jackson's entries, Denbarton Defender, was named reserve hound in the event.

Terry After New Talent.

Bill Terry says the Giants will spend as much as $200,000 to strengthen the 1936 team.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Mr. Olin's Dilemma.

BOB Olin, lightheavyweight ring champion of the world, is going to defend his title at The Arena, in St. Louis, October 31, against the Negro challenger John Henry Lewis, according to contracts signed and plans now going forward.

BOB OLIN

Skeptical St. Louisans—and we always have plenty of them where boxing is concerned — comment: "Why would they bring this match to St. Louis when New York, Chicago and Los Angeles could put it on with better chance of financial success.

The answer is two-sided: First, Olin is getting a guarantee larger than the sum he probably would receive from his percentage in a New York bout. Second — the Garden failed to name an opponent for him and thereby voided a contract which Olin signed to battle for the Garden, in his first title defense.

* * *

Mr. Raymond Explains.

WE asked Promoter Lew Raymond about it. Raymond, who has promoted in various large cities of the country, among them New York, where formerly he operated that once busy home of the wallop, the Pioneer Athletic Club, sees no obstacle in the way of the success of the local title fight.

"Olin, as far as the money goes, will be better off by fighting here," said Raymond. "He has a $15,000 guarantee, and that's more than the champion's 37½ per cent of most of the light-heavyweight houses that have been held in recent years. The money will be posted promptly, too, 48 hours before the fight, as prescribed by commission regulations.

"We will have around 18,000 seats at an average price of $2, and from what I have seen thus far we will be turning them away. We are advertising all through the adjacent states and getting response.

* * *

First Aid From Joe Louis.

"WITH Joe Louis figuring as referee of a Negro title bout I look for standing room to be sold. So much for the financial end of it.

"As for the contract feature, President Kilpatrick of the Garden has said that his corporation will exercise whatever legal rights they have under contract to prevent the fight taking place anywhere except in New York.

"Mr. Jerome Duggan, our lawyer, says the contract will not stand because it mentions Olin but names no opponent, no date, no weights and no financial conditions. Olin's manager and Olin himself says that the Garden has failed to live up to its agreement.

"The situation is embarrassing to Olin because the New York commission has ordered him to defend his title under the time limit regulation. Bob has been willing, but no opponent was named. Olin therefore has picked on the leading challenger in this division, to fight here.

"Olin has not made a cent out of his victory over Maxie Rosenbloom and he is anxious to get busy. No court would sustain the Garden, since its actions have deprived Olin of a chance to earn a livelihood to best advantage."

* * *

It May Be Loaded.

LEW'S argument is reasonable. He thinks there is no chance of a blowup.

Still, many an unfortunate has gone on the same theory—that the gun was not loaded. A legal contract always contains the germs of trouble. But it seems only remotely possible that the Garden will be small enough to enjoin local promoters.

"And even then it won't do any good," suggests Raymond, "because the remedy at law is not by injunction, with the heavy forfeit to be posted, but by civil damage suit after the fight has been held."

Olin is due here tomorrow to train for two weeks and Lewis is expected today. Their presence on the ground so far in advance of the show seems to make it certain that the fight will go ahead on a championship basis.

* * *

New York Favors St. Louis.

"Concerning the Garden threat: The Olin match in New York would not draw a $5000 gate and Kilpatrick knows this. They can find no opponent who would make a good attraction here, with the champion. Rosenbloom can no longer do 175 and retain speed, as his fight with Olin proved last November and which, due to Rosenbloom's inability to set fast pace, made his fight with Olin one of the world's worst.

"Lewis turned in a poor match in his last appearance here, owing to poor condition, due to his flying from the Pacific Coast two days before the fight. So he would be no attraction here.

"It is small stuff on the part of the Garden to try and interfere with the St. Louis fight as they have no spot for Olin just now. The New York Commission will not give Kilpatrick any support in this and will recognize your fight as a title contest.

"Olin is a far better fighter than he is given credit for being, but through illness and other misfortunes since winning the title has not been able to do himself justice. He is strong and game and will probably beat Lewis, even though Lewis really defeated Jim Braddock last year, losing the decision only because he was penalized two rounds for hitting low."

Which seems to give Raymond's Arena show a clean bill and the right away to championship claims. New York, California and Missouri are now all on record as recognizing the championship.

* * *

No "Smoke Screen."

PROMOTER Benny Kessler, who attained a new high for speed and precision in the handling of amateur fight shows here, says there is no ulterior motive back of the ticket selling system he has inaugurated. The entire purpose is to interest fans and develop a new following. In a letter to the editor of this column he writes:

"I have read your comments relative to my 40 cent courtesy, and our 'two for one' membership plan.

"I want to assure you and the public that we are attempting no 'smoke screen' in our ticket promotion of amateur boxing. The 40 cent 'courtesy' tickets used for my shows are really a lowering of the prices of the ringside floor and portions of the lower balcony. Up until a short time ago the cheapest seat on the ringside floor was 55 cents.

"Our idea relative to the 'two for one' membership plan is primarily to interest the husbands in bringing the ladies. The best ringside seats are used, from the first row. Our choice ringside seats always were $1.25. Now by paying only 25 cents for the second ticket with a membership ticket you get another $1.25 ticket. Actual tax on the ticket is 22 cents.

"In order to interest the women, later on we are having free ladies' night. Any woman escorted by a gentleman will be admitted free to a reserved seat next to the one bought. I will personally pay the tax on the free ticket.

"During the winter, I am planning to pay the tax and admit free groups of boys from the various social and recreational agencies. Last year I had the Boys' Club group down and also groups of the Post-Dispatch school.

Mexican Signed As Opponent of Allen Matthews

Solly Kessler, who is promoting a professional boxing show at the Coliseum next Tuesday night, yesterday closed his 10-round feature match, when he signed Jack Charvez, Mexican middleweight from San Francisco, as the opponent of Allen Matthews, St. Louis Negro.

Charvez, reported to be a puncher, has won in his last 12 bouts, according to Kessler. His list of victims includes Oscar Rankin, Sammy Slaughter, who owns a decision over Matthews; Leroy Brown, Eastern Negro middleweight, and Tait Littman, Milwaukee, who ranks third in the N. B. A. middleweight listings.

Wilsman in Charge of Huff.

George Wilsman purchased a half interest in Joe Huff, local middleweight fighter from Pete Sarakas last night. Wilsman, who also handles Allen Matthews, Al Stillman and Babe Davis, will train Huff at the West End Gymnasium.

Paddock Snipes At Coach Jones, Who Shoots Back

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 16.

CHARLEY PADDOCK, whose feet once ruled the dashes, criticised the football coach of his alma mater, Southern California, yesterday, and promptly was invited by the mentor, Howard Jones, to "tell me something about football."

Paddock, in a sports column, he writes, said Jones must "begin to show results again."

At Los Angeles, Jones, whose team lost to Illinois, 19 to 0, last Saturday, expressed willingness "to go into a huddle with Paddock anytime he wants to tell me something about football."

"Jones must change his system or his plays, or his technique," Paddock wrote. "He has the material."

MAHONEY LIKELY TO LOSE JOB AS PRESIDENT, HIS OPPONENTS SAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A battle that will shake the Amateur Athletic Union to its foundations was forecast today by William B. Chamberlain, associate secretary of the committee of fair play in sports, which is seeking to have the United States declare a boycott on the Olympic Games in Germany.

Jeremiah Mahoney, former State Supreme Court judge, and now national president of the A. A. U., will lead the fight for the boycott at the national meeting here Dec. 6, said Chamberlain. Judge Mahoney, he added, will have the support of numerous leaders in all walks of life—churchmen of all denominations, business and professional men and men noted in public life such as Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts.

Even Chance for Withdrawal.

"Right now," said Chamberlain today, "we have enough delegates pledged to the national convention to forecast at least an even chance of the A. A. U. going on record against participation by the U. S. A. in the Olympics.

"We feel sure the public will support our stand when it realizes the full import of the charges against the Hitler government.

"We fear if we sent a team to Germany an incident might occur which would cause the elimination of all Olympics in future. We believe the Hitler government would lean over backward to make our team welcome; but we fear his daily anti-Semitic, anti-Catholic and anti-Protestant propaganda has become so deeply imbedded in the minds of the German people, that Hitler could not control his nationals."

Mahoney May Be Forced Out.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney will be forced out as president of the National A. A. U. as consequence of his fight to keep America out of the Olympic games.

This prediction was made by Maj. Patrick J. Walsh, president of the Metropolitan A. A. U. in an exclusive interview with Universal Service last night. He said:

"The United States is definitely going to vote in favor of entering the Olympics when the A. A. U. holds its convention in New York in December. That is how the wind is blowing beyond a shadow of a doubt.

"What is more, Judge Mahoney will go out. He was lucky to be elected as the twelfth national delegate of the Metropolitan A. A. U. at the recent meeting and the result of that vote reveals what is going to happen to him in December.

"The Judge and I, mind you, have been friends for 40 years, ever since he graduated from City College along about 1895. But we've split wide open on this issue. The way things have been developing we have no right to step out."

President May Be "Challenged."

"If Mahoney wants to preside at the National A. A. U. meeting at the Commodore we are going to challenge him when the Olympic issue comes up," asserted Walsh. "If he steps down and lets Rafferty of Texas (the first vice-president) preside then, naturally, he will be able to speak for his side of the question. If he presides he will have to keep quiet about it."

Walsh remarked that as far as he knew no president of the A. A. U. had ever been asked to step down before for such a reason.

Judge Mahoney, also a noted athlete in his time, succeeded Brundage as president of the A. A. U. last year.

MISSOURI BASKETBALL SQUAD STARTS WORK

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 16.—Three lettermen and 15 newcomers reported to George Edwards last night as the veteran Missouri University basketball coach held his first roundup of material for the 1936 team.

Strom, Beer and Schaper, lettermen, led the recruits.

Capt. Evans Powell, guard; "Chink" Henderson, star center, holding down berths on the Tiger football team, will not be out for court duty until after Thanksgiving.

Half a dozen promising sophomores, including Art Murray, Don Johnson, Heinie Mahley and Jim Carroll, also are gridmen.

Clarence Hatfield and James Addams were among the sophomores to catch Edwards' eye at first practice. Also prominent was C. G. Todd, 6-foot-1-inch guard from Indiana's State High School championship team two years ago. He will not be eligible until after the first semester.

CONCORDIA STUDENTS PLAN HOCKEY SEXTET

Students of Concordia Seminary plan to have an amateur hockey team this season, William Reiss, president of the Seminary Athletic Association, announced last night. The Student Council was unanimous in favoring the plan.

The final decision rests with the faculty, which will hold a meeting next Monday night. Two years ago, Concordia students, representing the Missouri Cafeteria, won the City Amateur Hockey League championship.

"And even then it won't do any good," suggests Raymond "because the remedy at law is not by injunction, with the heavy forfeit to be posted, but by civil damage suit after the fight has been held."

Olin is due here tomorrow to train for two weeks and Lewis is expected today. Their presence on the ground so far in advance of the show seems to make it certain that the fight will go ahead on a championship basis.

New York Favors St. Louis.

"Concerning the Garden threat: The Olin match in New York would not draw a $5000 gate and Kilpatrick knows this. They can find no opponent who would make a good attraction here, with the champion. Rosenbloom can no longer do 175 and retain speed, as his fight with Olin proved last November and which, due to Rosenbloom's inability to set fast pace, made his fight with Olin one of the world's worst.

"Lewis turned in a poor match in his last appearance here, owing to poor condition, due to his flying from the Pacific Coast two days before the fight. So he would be no attraction here.

"It is small stuff on the part of the Garden to try and interfere with the St. Louis fight as they have no spot for Olin just now. The New York Commission will not give Kilpatrick any support in this and will recognize your fight as a title contest.

"Olin is a far better fighter than he is given credit for being, but through illness and other misfortunes since winning the title has not been able to do himself justice. He is strong and game and will probably beat Lewis, even though Lewis really defeated Jim Braddock last year, losing the decision only because he was penalized two rounds for hitting low."

Which seems to give Raymond's Arena show a clean bill and the right away to championship claims. New York, California and Missouri are now all on record as recognizing the championship.

No "Smoke Screen."

PROMOTER Benny Kessler, who attained a new high for speed and precision in the handling of amateur fight shows here, says there is no ulterior motive back of the ticket selling system he has inaugurated. The entire purpose is to interest fans and develop a new following. In a letter to the editor of this column he writes:

"I have read your comments relative to my 40 cent courtesy, and our 'two for one' membership plan.

"I want to assure you and the public that we are attempting no 'smoke screen' in our ticket promotion of amateur boxing. The 40 cent 'courtesy' tickets used for my shows are really a lowering of the prices of the ringside floor and portions of the lower balcony. Up until a short time ago the cheapest seat on the ringside floor was 55 cents.

"Our idea relative to the 'two for one' membership plan is primarily to interest the husbands in bringing the ladies. The best ringside seats are used, from the first row. Rumors Revived That Jimmy Foxx Will Be Traded by Connie Mack

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—The baseball air was thick today with new talk that Jimmy Foxx may be doing his slugging for another club than the Athletics next year.

The rumors—quiet for 24 hours since the report started circulating that the burly infielder would go to the Cleveland Indians in a three-cornered deal involving also the Boston Red Sox—started up again with the announcement that Connie Mack has acquired a star first-sacker from the Coast League.

There was no word from Mack—not only because he is out of town, but also for the reason that the veteran pilot never talks about those things until he's ready to.

Got New Man in Draft.

But the fact remains that Mack, although he has Jimmy as a star first-baseman and hitter extraordinary, has obtained another guardian for the initial sack—Jim Oglesby, of Los Angeles, who hit for .365 during the 1935 campaign and averaged better than .300 in his three-year coast stay. Formerly with the Western Association, Oglesby was picked up by Mack for the usual draft price, $7500.

The rumors involving a Foxx sale or trade have been legion. They've had him variously reported as headed for Cleveland, the Chicago White Sox, the Boston Red Sox, and even at one time to the New York Yankees.

In the Cleveland-Boston-Philadelphia deal, according to the reports, Jimmy would go to the Tribe in exchange for Weingarner and Hal Trosky. Hal, in turn, would be sent to Boston for Outfielder Mel Almada and Pitcher Fred Ostermueller.

There there has been the talk that Foxx is slated for Boston direct, with two players and a big bundle of cash coming here. A few weeks ago there was also a wild report that Mack and Yawkey talked over sending Jimmy, two outfielders, Bob Johnson and Wally Moses, Pitcher Johnny Marcum and a couple of others to the Red Sox in exchange for something between a quarter and a half-million dollars.

But this last was considered more or less of a pipe dream, particularly because at that time it was said Yawkey had adopted a new policy of developing youngsters instead of buyiny big names.

The White Sox figured in the talk shortly after the season ended, with rumors that Mack was partial to giving his ex-pupil, Jimmy Dykes, a chance to bid for the big star. This report has dropped into the background, however, along with the one, never given much credence, that the Yanks might get Jimmy.

RICKEY TO GET BACK $12.50 HE POSTED ON CHARGE OF SPEEDING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 16.—Because Mayor James D. Flynn of this city believes that one good turn deserves another, Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, will not face charges of speeding and will get back $12.50 cash bond he posted here.

Rickey was arrested here last Sunday night and charged with doign 54 miles an hour on a city street. Previously he had addressed a vesper service at the University of Illinois. He had been offered $50 for expenses of the speaking engagement, but had refused to take a single penny.

Reciprocating, Mayor Flynn said that the speed charge will be dropped and the bond returned.

Lack of Good Kicker Handicaps Billikens For Marquette Game

By James M. Gould.

In the main, the St. Louis University team that will start against the Marquette "Golden Avalanche" at Walsh Memorial Stadium Friday night, will be a veteran combination for Coach Muellerleile realizes that the Milwaukee college eleven this year is a "real avalanche." Last year, Marquette, in comparison, was a mere landslide. One fear Billiken coaches have is that their team might be —well, a bit "overawed" by the great reputation of the opposition. Therefore, seasoned players will occupy most of the starting posts.

One Billiken back appears to be definitely out of the picture. He is Bob Shea, whose fractured wrist won't permit of his playing this week even though the bone has knit well. Shea was transformed from a quarter to a halfback and did fine work in the Kirksville game. He was unable to play against the Rolla Miners. Two other Billikens are possible casualties—Red Hemp, back, and Dick Fitzgerald, end. Both are suffering with leg injuries. Fullback Kloepper also was hurt in the Rolla game, but not seriously, and he has shown top form in recent workouts.

Starting Backfield.

The probable starting backfield for St. Louis will have Lou Drone at quarter, directing play, and Captain Hudson and Carl Wood at the halves with Kloepper at full. On the line will be Cagle and either Fitzgerald or Ruhl at the ends, Baker and Rossini at the tackles, Putnam and Vollmer at the guards and the reliable "Red" Krause at center. This gives Muellerleile an experienced club with only Ruhl and Vollmer as comparative newcomers to varsity play.

Muellerleile expects to give many of his reserves a chance. Certain it is that Hermanny at fullback, Charley Harris and Johnny Nunn at halves and Johnny Veith at quarter will see quite a bit of service while, on the line, Mitchell, Best, Oates, Padjen, Neff, Cianciolo and Keleman will be used.

There's a realization of the strength of Marquette shown by both coaches and players. No team that can defeat Wisconsin and Kansas State so handily can be just lucky and so Billiken preparation has been carefully thought this week. If there is no great confidence of victory shown neither is there any great fear of the foe felt. The Billikens are sure in their minds that they'll make a good showing. If that showing brings victory that'll be great. Chances are they don't really believe in their hearts that it will.

According to Head Coach Muellerleile, Marquette is three touchdowns better than St. Louis. While that admission indicates that defeat is expected, it isn't a knock at the strength of his own team at all. For, if Marquette wins by only three touchdowns, it would—on that often-used and always-worthless comparative score reckoning—indicate that St. Louis was three touchdowns better than Wisconsin and only one touchdown weaker than Kansas State.

Marquette has not yet been scored upon. Two teams—Creighton and Kirksville—have scored on the Billikens, with Creighton the only victor over the Blue and White. Marquette has a big, fast and flashy backfield, a group much bigger and faster than any ball-carrying combination Muellerleile can use. The two lines would seem to bet much more evenly matched both in weight and experience. If there is any appreciable difference in the play of the two forward walls, the team having the advantage will be the one to do the most scoring.

Marquette should win and handily but in this Friday night game, it isn't victory that is most important. A good showing for the Billikens may "make" the team for the rest of its schedule; a poor one might be extremely hurtful right at this time.

Kicking Handicap.

One handicap the Billikens will have is in the lack of a good, long kicker. Probably, Lou Drone will do most of the punting. He's fairly accurate and might average around 35 yards on his kicks. This isn't any remarkable performance, but a useful one. Muellerleile, realizing his kicking lack, has instructed Drone to kick as far as possible away from the station of the opposing safety man and get as much "roll" as possible. In this way, he can make the most of the situation when a kick is needed.

Indications are that the Billikens will do a lot of passing if and when they advance as far as their own 40-yard line. Muellerleile has accented this type of play in workouts this week. Yesterday, there was a 10-minute scrimmage after signal and passing work just to give the players some bodily contact on the theory that they'll get plenty of that from Marquette and should be in shape to "take it."

Only light work will be taken today and tomorrow with just limbering-up exercises on the day of the game.

HARD GAME IS LIKELY BETWEEN YALE AND NAVY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—It ought to be a whale of a melee in the Yale Bowl on Saturday when the Navy attacks one of the sharpest biting Bulldogs in recent years.

That Yale team showed last week it can play football when it came back in a wild second half surge to overcome the mighty men of Penn. Navy doesn't shape up as a slouch, either.

Navy has beaten three teams by wide margins, starting off with a 30—0 conquest over William and Mary, then beating Mercer 27—0 and Virginia 26—7. The Navy has three complete teams to call on, two with heavy duty backfields and the third of the "pony" type.

Each backfield has a 10 second man, Schmidt on the first, Thomas with the second and Rankin with the ponies and each backfield boasts a pitcher who can throw strikes with the oval.

As for Yale, Saturday told the story of her greateness. In Train and Kelley the Eli has two of the finest wingmen in the game.

Kelley caught the two passes that won that game, and both were difficult ones to gather in while in a full lope. Then there is Hessber who runs like a frightened antelope; Frank, Ewart, Roscoe and a few others.

There are some other good games on the slate for Saturday. While Yale battles Navy, her traditional rival, Harvard will be at West Point opposing Navy's arch antagonist, Army. Army never has beaten Harvard at West Point in their 40 years of rivalry and Dick Harlow, Harvard's new head coach, doesn't relish the idea of being the first to lead a Harvard team to defeat there.

Pennsylvania and Columbia ought to provide a lively encounter while Michigan-Wisconsin, Purdue-Chicago, Rice-Southern Methodist, Oklahoma-Iowa State, Alabama-Tennessee, Auburn-Kentucky, Georgia-North Carolina State, George Tech-Duke, Oregon State-University of Southern California, California-Santa Clara and Utah-Denver ought to provide interesting battles all along the line.

PLAYABIT, 15 TO 1, WINS FOURTH ON FAIRMOUNT CARD

DR. M'LARNEY AND GAME PAY $153.80 FOR $2 IN DOUBLE BET

By Dent McSkimming.

FAIRMOUNT TRACK, Oct. 16.—On the strength of some remarkable morning workouts, the filly, Foxes Folly, trained by Louis de Latour, making the first start of her career, went to the post the favorite in the first race here this afternoon but, like most first starters, she was outrun in the break from the gate and was never able to make up ground.

The winner, as past performance promised, turned up in Fairest Flag, owned by E. K. Bryson. Fairest Flag was ridden by Sammy Hodges, a New Orleans boy, and it was the first winning mount of his career. Kayak was second and Lady Louisette third.

The attendance again took a jump and was estimated at 4000 or betted. Track and weather conditions made for fine sport.

It looked for a moment as though the stewards were going to disqualify Game, winner of the second race, because of Jockey Bill Lowe's questionable tactics in cutting across the horse Mint Drift in the home stretch, but the official sign was hung out after Steward Fitz Gerald questioned Lowe.

The horses were a sixteenth of a mile from home when Lowe permitted his mount to cut in front of the tiring Mint Drift. The incident didn't make any difference as to Game's winning the race but it forced Polk to pull Mint Drift up, losing a few yards thereby and finishing third instead of a probable second, ahead of Seven Up.

Dr. McLarney, a right smart looking sprinter from the Porter Brothers' barn, ran right back to his race of last Monday, took the lead at the start and hung on gamely to win the third race under Jockey Pete Martinez. Last time, he weakened a bit and was beaten a head but this time he had a lot of run left in him when he reached the finish in front of Honey All and Dezan. The refund on the winner was $18 and the daily double paid off at $153.80 for $2.

Playabit, a 15 to 1 shot, after running a series of dull races here, went right out and showed the favorites how a mile and a sixteenth race should be run. He was kept under wraps in the first half mile, worked up from second last position and opened up from the head of the stretch to pass Lommern, Judge Urban, Ragacreek and others. He looked pounds the best horse at the finish.

20-to-1 Shot Wins English Stake

By the Associated Press.

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 16.—Sir Alfred Butt's three-year-old, Near Relation, today won the ninety-seventh renewal of the Cesarewitch Stakes over a two and one-quarter mile course. Nightcap, three-year-old owned by the Princess de Faucigny-Lucinge, was second and Hoplite, four-year-old owned by Capt. Lionel Montague, was third.

THREE DETROIT TIGERS ON LOSING BALL TEAM

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 16. — The Kansas City Monarchs, Negro baseball team, defeated the Lincoln All-Stars—augmented by three members of the world's champion Detroit Tigers—4 to 1, here tonight. Schoolboy Rowe, who hurled the sixth and seventh innings, was nicked for three hits, and Tommy Bridges allowed a single during his reign on the mound in the eighth.

Calmes Knocks Out Arts.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 16.—Bobby Calmes of Oklahoma City scored a second-round knockout tonight over Johnny Arts of St. Petersburg, substitute for Earl Dixon, Sparks (Ga.) featherweight. Jimmy Dewitt, 147-pounder, knocked out Johnny Hicks, 147, of Columbus, O., in the first frame of a scheduled six-rounder.

NEW YO

By W. J. McGoogan

Any doubt of the Bob Olin-John Henry Lewis bout, which is to be held at the Arena Oct. 31, being recognized as a title contest was removed today when the New York Athletic Commission altered its position and voted such recognition.

In a wire to the Post-Dispatch, John J. Phelan, chairman, stated: "Whenever Bob Olin participates in a 15-round bout at weight, 175 pounds, and is defeated this commission would rule that he had lost his championship."

The bout is to be 15 rounds and at weight, complying with the requirements of New York, which previously had ruled that it would not regard the bout as a championship contest until the California commission lifted the suspension against Lewis for his alleged failure to live up to a contract in that State.

California Action.

California last week restored Lewis to good standing with the proviso that he meet Eddie Simms of Cleveland there after the Olin contest, win, lose or draw.

The Missouri commission has recognized the bout as for the championship from the start.

So the promoters and principals are assured now of nothing standing in the way of the first contest held here in many years with a world's title at stake.

The ruling of the New York commission reached here on the day that Lewis was scheduled to take his first local workout at Skobel's Gymnasium on Olive street, west of Vandeventer avenue.

Lewis did his preliminary work at Hot Springs, Ark., and was to arrive here at noon accompanied by his manager, Bob Greenlee, Andy Sutton, his trainer, and Andy "Kid" Bundy, Negro lightweight who is to box Holman Williams on the card, the bout which Joe Louis is scheduled to referee.

Olin, who has done his conditioning so far at Marlboro, N. Y., is scheduled to reach here some time tomorrow and likely will begin his workouts at the National Gymnasium Friday.

Reports from the East are that Olin is a much better fighter than is generally believed but that he has not been able to do himself justice in contests since he won the championship from Maxie Rosenbloom, due to financial and other troubles.

Olin was employed by a Wall street firm when he started boxing and in the boom days earned considerable money which went the way of most such earnings when the depression struck.

NEW YORK RECOGNIZES OLIN-LEWIS BOUT AS TITLE CONTEST

Parks Is Signed.

Joey Parks, local boxer, has been signed for the opening contest on the program against an opponent yet to be named. Parks fought many contests here as an amateur but has not been active lately. He is regarded as one of the best boys developed here in recent years but was so young that it was decided to let him take his professional career easy for a while.

Bobby Pacho and Frankie Wallace, who are to meet in a return bout on the program, also were due here today to finish their training, so it is likely the gymnasiums in the city will be very busy for the next two weeks.

Fewer Teams to Play in Muny Soccer League

In the hope of filling out four-team groups in various parks, the entry list for Municipal Soccer League clubs will be held open until Friday night, it was announced today by Director of Recreation Frank Sullivan. Entries were to have closed last night but there are vacancies in almost all groups. In the event groups do not fill by Friday night there will be a consolidation of divisions, and it appears now that there may be no more than four groups of four teams each operating in the senior league this season. In the past there have been seven or eight groups. Two groups in the junior league filled quickly.

"Most of the sponsors of teams who have withdrawn have told me that they cannot afford the expense of new outfits for their players," said John Scully of the Park Department. "In most cases, new uniforms and new shoes for 15 players must be supplied in addition to the $40 entrance fee and incidental expense. One sponsor of last season said that the 'additional' expense was what kept him out, indicating his players wanted something more than uniforms and shoes However, there was only one instance of this sort."

ENGLAND READY FOR BASEBALL; WANTS RUTH AS TEAM ORGANIZER

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Being somewhat in the position of one who ought to know what he is talking about, but probably doesn't, I can only relay the information today that the British public, or at least that part represented by Fleet Street and the newspaper fraternity, wish to have Mr. Babe Ruth, the eminent bay window of Eighty-sixth street, come over and do away with cricket. More than that, they wish him to supplant cricket with baseball. Much more than that, a gentleman by the name of Allan J. Eidenow, of the British General Press, is down on white paper to that effect, for I happen to have seen it.

I don't know whether Mr. Eidenow has been taking a bit too much lemon in his tea, but he talks a little immoderately about a world series between England and America some time in the shadowy mists of another age when tea and crumpets are to be served between innings.

Would Form Boys' Leagues.

Mr. Eidenow, in other words, is a man of vision. His idea is to have Ruth come to England to organize a boys' league and build baseball into the national sport—for a price. The answer, coming through Ruth's business manager, Christy Walsh, was roughly speaking, what price? And I might add that nothing specific has as yet been done about that.

The original inquiry, via cable, reached Ruth in Boston early last summer while he was playing a roving vice-presidency for the Braves in an extremely capable manner. However, they went out one day and found him in right field, with the result that words were bandied and Mr. Ruth left in a dudgeon. A taxicab might have done as well but, if you really want to leave in style, there's nothing like a good, old-fashioned dudgeon with rubber tires and a high dashboard.

"Big Man of Baseball."

Anyhow, it is apparent that the British still regard Mr. Ruth as the big man of baseball, as do a lot of us, though his bigness is now most noticeable in the bosom, which, I believe, is on display of a Sunday in the outlying neighborhoods at 50 cents a head. I doubt whether that part matters since, as a modern athlete, the man is hopelessly eccentric. He likes baseball so much he'll even play with the Bushwicks in Brooklyn.

I somehow feel that Lower Upper-Upper-on-the-Tweezy seems a little far from neighborhood baseball in Brooklyn, but Mr. Eidenow thinks not. He says baseball now "has a firm grip on the British public." He also says that London sports writers are asking waivers on cricket, Columnist John McAdam being mentioned in that connection.

This, of course, is surprising but not so much so as the fact that they still want Mr. Ruth over there after his violent comment last winter when informed by the natives that their cricket stars average $25 a week. "Terrible," said he briefly. "You all ought to be arrested."

This may have lacked certain elements of diplomacy, but Mr. Ruth generally knows what he is about. He probably realizes that if you would really impress a man you must first insult him.

FLYERS SIGN GERMAN HOCKEY PLAYER

Heinz Guttman, who was a star forward for one of Germany's leading amateur hockey teams until he came to America a year ago, has been signed by the St. Louis Flyers Hockey Club for the coming season.

In announcing the signing of the German player, Owner A. Frank Ruppenthal indicated that he is but one of several new players who will be added to the squad before Manager Alex "Shrimp" McPherson leads them onto the ice at Galt, Ont., for their first practice drill a week from Monday.

Guttman is at present living in Milwaukee where he attends Marquette University. For the past year he has resided there and in Waukesha, Wis.

He is 20 years old, five foot seven and weighs 170 pounds.

IOWA U. BASKETBALL PRACTICE IS STARTED

By the Associated Press.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 16.—Coach Rollie Williams opened basketball drills at the University of Iowa today with three veterans available.

The veterans are Johnny Barko, Sid Rosenthal and Frederic Schwartz, the only major "I" men reporting. About 15 players reported for the opening drill, but their ranks will be supplemented when the football season closes. The Hawkeyes' first game is with James Millikin University, Nov. 30.

FRED PERRY DEPARTS FOR AUSTRALIA; WILL ENTER BUSINESS THERE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 16.—Frederick J. Perry, great tennis player, becomes Fred Perry, business man, when he boards the Lurline tomorrow night bound for Australia.

"From now on tennis will be just a hobby with me," said the husband of Helen Vinson, the actress, between alternate spells of packing and bidding friends farewell today.

He no longer entertains professional ideas. "That was finished last April," he said.

Perry's back injury, which he suffered in the finals of the National Singles championship when he lost his first important match in two seasons to Wilmer Allison, will keep him off the courts at least two months longer.

"I'll start playing again probably in February or March, and hope to be able to play on the Davis Cup team again next summer."

Miss Vinson is not going to Australia with him. She has some unfinished work in the studios here, and then will go to England for work this winter, meeting her husband there.

DICKINSON ASSAILS NEW DEAL 'QUACKERY'

Bureaucracy or Self-Reliant Nation Is Real Issue, Iowa Senator Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, told a Republican luncheon group today, the "very foundations of democracy itself" would be tested in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

The question of whether the American people desire to continue along traditional lines of self containedness and self reliance overshadowed any "defense" of the Constitution as the real issue in 1936, he said in a prepared address.

"Next year's campaign," the Senator said, "will be more decisive than any waged since 1860."

"The real issue is not in 'defending' the Constitution. What should concern us more are those ideals to which the Constitution gives expression and the political philosophy....which gives it life.

"For if the American people have ceased to believe in those ideals....then mere preservation of the hollow tenets of a creed from which faith has been withdrawn will avail little."

Two Important Tests.

"In at least two important particulars," Senator Dickinson asserted, "we are testing the very foundations of democracy itself."

"We shall find out if democracy has the fortitude to face and surmount prolonged adversity. We must prove that....the American system of government is free of those defects which have wrecked all previous attempts at self government by free peoples."

The United States will likewise pass upon "the validity of a great basic principle which, up to now has been the part and parcel of the American political system.

"This, expressed in its simplest and most elemental terms, is the belief that you and I can manage our own private affairs better than any outsider who merely happens to wear a government badge.

"....the New Deal has raised the issue between self reliance.... and the vesting of virtually complete power of economic life or death, under a near Communism, in the hands of bureaucrats enthroned at Washington."

'Oldest of Quack Medicines.'

Senator Dickinson labeled the New Deal the "oldest of quack patent medicines" and said "what must be brought home to the public....is that the New Deal is neither new nor that 'march forward' which the President proclaims. It is merely a reversion to the world's oldest political philosophy."

Replying, inferentially, to recent utterances of President Roosevelt, Senator Dickinson said, "I reject this smug assumption that the self-styled 'liberal' has a monopoly on progress. Mere vocal ability and glib phrases have been permitted too long to masquerade as 'forward' thinking."

He charged that President Roosevelt, "having failed the great trust placed upon him," embodied the real issue between constitutionalism and "those who would subvert" the Constitution.

$12,707 STATE INHERITANCE TAX ON MRS. COLNON ESTATE

A state inheritance tax of $12,707 was assessed against the estate of Mrs. Katharene Colnon in a report filed today by Albert W. Fink, who was appointed by the Probate Court to determine the amount of tax. He appraised the assets at a gross valuation of $590,185, reduced by various administration and other expenses to a net value of $465,865.

The executor, Joseph E. Vollmar, is entitled to commissions of $28,259, while counsel fees were set at $15,000. Philip C. Wise is attorney for the executor.

Mrs. Colnon, who resided at 4569 West Pine boulevard, died Oct. 7, 1934. She left $60,000 to St. Louis Catholic charities and $20,000 to Cornell University. Various amounts were bequeathed to relatives and friends, and the residue, which the appraiser found to total $142,309, was left as a trust to establish a home or institution for care of aged men and women in need. This institution is to be a memorial to Mrs. Colnon's father, the late Jeremiah Fruin, and to her husband, the late Redmond S. Colnon, former president of the Fruin-Colnon Construction Co.

Archbishop John J. Glennon, Executor Vollmar and Albert P. Greensfelder were appointed co-trustees to administer the trust.

Soldan High School auditorium was too small to contain last night's gathering which sought to hear Lieut. George O. Noville, companion of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his trans-Atlantic flight and Polar expeditions. Lieut. Noville's illustrated lecture on Polar exploration was the first of the season's series of the Washington University Association.

Several hundred stood to hear the lecture, and many others, finding no seats or satisfactory standing place, did not remain.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Admiral Richard E. Byrd will tell of his second Antarctic expedition in illustrated pictures at the Municipal Auditorium next Wednesday. There will be a talk in the afternoon at 3 o'clock for school children, and in the evening the talk will begin at 8 o'clock. Admiral Byrd is to come to St. Louis under the auspices of the Mary Institute Alumnae Association. Moving pictures taken on the expedition will illustrate the talks. Tickets may be obtained at the Auditorium and at the Galeria Building, 4914 Maryland avenue.

The St. Louis University High School Mothers' Club will hold its annual homecoming party during the afternoon and evening of Oct. 24 at St. Louis University High School, 3970 Oakland avenue. Supper will be served at 5 p. m.

Ancient Greek and Roman life will be discussed at a meeting of the St. Louis University Classical Club Sunday at 2:20 o'clock at Sodality Hall, 15 North Grand boulevard.

The Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, S. J., explorer and geologist of Santa Clara University, will give an illustrated lecture on "A Voyage Into the Ice Inferno," Oct. 30, at St. Louis University auditorium. He will speak under auspices of the St. Francis Xavier Mission Guild of St. Louis.

Herbert De Staebler of the Lambert Pharmacal Co. was elected president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Club of St. Louis last night. Dean Harold E. Lobdell was guest of honor.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of Central Institute for the Deaf will be held at 4 p. m. Friday in the school auditorium. Prior to the meeting, members of the board and volunteer women workers in the institute's fund campaign will meet.

Dean Tyrrell Williams of the School of Law, Washington University, will speak on "Will Industry for Private Profit Survive?" at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Y. M. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

CONTRACTS FOR RELIEF COAL AWARDED IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY

Bids Opened for Supplying of Fuel to Needy Families During Winter.

Awards of contracts for supplying coal to St. Clair County relief families were announced yesterday by George M. Curry, County Relief Administrator. The awards were made by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission at Chicago, where the bids were opened. Prices include delivery and are subject to increase in prices at the mine.

The Helfrich Coal Co. of East St. Louis got the contract for delivery at $2.59 a ton to families in townships of East St. Louis, Centerville, Stites and Canteen, and at $2.79 a ton to Sugar Loaf Township.

The Tower Grove Coal Co. of Belleville won the contract for delivery at $3.95 a ton to townships of Caseyville, O'Fallon, Lebanon, Mascoutah and Shiloh Valley. The Reuther Ice and Coal Co. of Belleville will supply townships of Belleville, St. Clair, Stookey, Smithton, Freeburg, Engleman and Millstadt at $2.75 a ton.

No bids were received for Fayetteville, Marissa, Lenzburg, Prairie du Long and New Athens townships. Last year 30,000 tons of coal were used by relief families in St. Clair County.

CITY DEMOCRATS JOIN PENDERGAST IN BACKING STARK

Both Mayor's Faction and That of Chairman English to Support Louisiana Man for Governor.

HIS NOMINATION VIRTUALLY ASSURED

Organization Indicates Almost All the Rest of Officeholders Will Be Indorsed.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

Leaders of both factions in Democratic politics in St. Louis today joined in support of Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., nurseryman, for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the August primary next year, following quickly the announcement of Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City that Stark was his choice for the nomination.

The coupling of the support of the powerful political organizations of the two larger cities, in which about 40 per cent of the vote in the Democratic primary is cast, with the very strong personal following Stark has throughout the State, would appear to make his nomination virtually certain.

In St. Louis, Mayor Dickmann, Chairman John P. English of the Democratic City Committee; Treasurer John J. Nangle of the Democratic State Committee; City Counselor Hay, James J. Gallagher, committeeman from the Twentieth Ward and other influential Democrats gave unqualified approval to the Stark candidacy.

Rush for Bandwagon.

Democrats throughout the State had been waiting for several months for Pendergast to decide to whom he would throw the help of his powerful organization. When he spoke, the movement to get into the bandwagon was almost instantaneous. In view of the support now certain for Stark it is doubtful that he will have important opposition in the primary.

Pendergast's formal statement, following a conference with party leaders in Kansas City last night, was:

"The organization here will support Stark. I am of the opinion he has more independent strength than any other candidate. I think he will make a splendid Governor."

Mayor Dickmann said he had "always" been for Stark and favored his nomination by the State Committee following the death of Francis M. Wilson, the primary nominee in 1932. "I shall do everything possible for him in St. Louis," the Mayor said.

Word Is Party Law.

On the present Democratic setup in Missouri, the word of Boss Pendergast is party law and Stark will have the strength that comes from the Pendergast organization, which, as does Jimmy Miller in St. Louis, "votes 'em like a machine."

The only remote possibility of serious opposition to Stark would be from State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage, who had a successful anti-boss record in the last Senate, and Attorney-General Roy McKittrick, and it is difficult to see how either could make material headway against the practical politics of the cities and the personal strength of Stark.

McKittrick formerly was a loyal follower of the Kansas City boss, but their relations are now severely strained because of the refusal of the Attorney-General to obey orders in the recent insurance rate compromise scandal. McKittrick refused to approve the proposed compromise, in which Pendergast has shown a personal interest. He sought Pendergast's support for the nomination for Governor but was rejected for Stark.

Attitude Three Years Ago.

Stark laid the foundation for his present selection three years ago when he was a candidate for the nomination, but withdrew in favor of Wilson, the then Pendergast choice. Wilson died after the nomination and before the election, and Stark again became a candidate for selection by the Democratic State Committee, but Pendergast decided the nomination should go to Gov. Park, and Stark again withdrew.

It had been the understanding among politicians that an agreement was entered into between Pendergast and Stark at that time that in consideration of Stark stepping aside for Park, Pendergast would give his support to Stark in 1936.

It was reported that this agreement was abrogated when after the conference Stark decided to change his mind and place his name before the committee. However, he withdrew the night before the committee meeting, though this late with-

TWO RUSSIAN MUSICIANS TO BE SHOT AS PLOTTERS

22 Members of Their Wandering Band Imprisoned; Tried to Get Farmers to Destroy Crops.

By the Associated Press.

KIEV, U. S. S. R., Oct. 16.—Two leaders of a band of wandering musicians, who for years had entertained the peasants on collective farms, today were sentenced to death as counter-revolutionary plotters.

The rest of the band, numbering 22, were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 3 to 10 years.

The band leader, Tsichenko-Tischkovetz-Golupe, whose ability with the mandolin was the delight of the farmers of the Ukraine, was found to be a former officer of the Petlura Anti-Bolshevik forces.

The second mandolin player, Zlotniksky, also served under Petlura. Both were ordered executed by a firing squad. Their five-day trial in special collegium of the Kiev Provincial Court caused a sensation over the countryside.

After treating the farmers to musical numbers, the band allegedly was wont to suggest they destroy their crops and implements and refuse to work, telling them the Soviet regime was about to be overthrown.

Their advice impressed chiefly "old men and backward peasant women," a published account of the trial said.

The band had a secret printing office and a library stocked with revolutionary literature and incitations to pogroms, the account added.

Golupe and Zlotniksky, according to evidence brought out, escaped abroad after the failure of the Peltura campaign, but returned to organize Kulak revolts.

In 1921 Golupe is declared to have stirred the Kulak, or former well-to-do peasant class, to rise against the Bolsheviks in the village of Vischi-Dubetchnia in Kiev Province. Then he seized a small river steamer and made his getaway with his gang.

He returned later and organized his band of musicians. The sentence also ordered the confiscation of all the band's property, including the musical instruments.

Unless an appeal is granted, the execution will take place 72 hours after imposition of the death sentence.

MME. MAGDA LUPESCU RETURNS TO RUMANIA

Remains in Seclusion on King's Birthday—Peasant Leaders Puzzled.

By the Associated Press.

SINAIA, Rumania, Oct. 16.—Mme. Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol, surprised her opponents today by returning from France to Rumania in time for observance of King Carol's 42nd birthday.

She remained in seclusion here, however, and was not scheduled to take part in the celebrations at King Carol's summer palace.

Her sudden return confused National Peasant party leaders who were in the midst of a campaign against her, and was regarded in some quarters as a challenge to those opposing her power behind the Government.

The Ministers held a session aboard the train after which Premier Nicolas Titulescu denied reports that King Carol's engagement to an unidentified Princess would be announced soon.

Mme. Lupescu Blamed for Rise in Price of Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 16.—Reports from Bucharest said that the birthday of King Carol of Rumania would be celebrated by certain factions as "anti-Lupescu Day."

The opposition against Mme. Lupescu, who has become more powerful than the Premier, is making a bitter attack.

Many of the opposition pamphlets have reached Vienna. One contains a letter from Zaharia Boila, Adjutant to Julius Mainiu, leader of the Peasant Party, which charges that she is interested in many businesses and is responsible for the high price of sugar in Rumania. It declared her to be a stockholder in the Bukwina Sugar works and that her extravagances necessitated the increase in the sugar price. Other pamphlets declare her to be a stockholder in the Rumanian Ford factory.

GEN. JOHNSON TURNS OVER WPA POST TO VICTOR RIDDER

Says His Administration in New York Has Resulted in Work for 200,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson turned over to Victor Ridder the administration of the Federal WPA here yesterday with a challenge to "some of these neophytes in great governmental organization effort" to "match my economy in setting it up."

In a speech before several thousand administrative employes Johnson told his successor that the labor troubles which resulted in a strike had been settled and that his controversy with Parks Commissioner Robert Moses had been straightened out.

More than 200,000 persons now are on the WPA payroll, Johnson said, and the administration has succeeded in putting to work the number required before Nov. 1. He added that the number of jobs the WPA is administering here is equivalent to the employment of the whole cities of St. Louis or Baltimore.

Cut in Brazil's Army Approved.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 16.—The Finance Commission of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday approved a cut in Brazil's standing army. The proposal would remove 3000 men from the army, leaving it at 65,162, in an effort to save about $300,000 in the 1936 budget.

MILLS SAYS NEW DEAL DESTROYS SECURITY

He Asserts Administration's 'Planned Economy' Is Coercive Scarcity System.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury under President Hoover, said today that the "new order" in government can only destroy security, not assure it.

He told the New York Herld Tribune's fifth annual forum on current problems that the Roosevelt administration's so-called New Deal is attacking the basic principles of the Constitution underlying the "scheme of life" by which the United States has risen since it won its independence. Laws already enacted, he charged, usurp authority never granted the Federal Government by the Constitution.

"If these laws stand," said Mills, "there is virtually no limit to the Federal power and, for all practical purposes, we shall have a completely centralized Government exerting despotic authority over our economic life as a whole.

"Authority Instead of Liberty."

"The new order is concerned with neither liberty nor individual opportunity. For liberty, it would substitute authority; for individual initiative and responsibility, Government planning. But it does stress security.

"The irony of it is that of all conditions to which men aspire, security is the one which the new order is least of all able to assure.

"Only in abundance can there be security. Planned and controlled economies under coercive governments are scarcity systems. They were the accepted type before our nation was born, and not one even succeeded in banishing famine.

"It was not until free enterprise came that the world knew the meaning of abundance."

Mills said no nation has achieved the ultimate goal of security, he said, but the United States was marching toward it until the depression.

"An Illusory Protection."

"Liberty, opportunity, security, reverence for the past and hope for the future, are all at stake if, following the example of foreign nations we surrender to adversity and seek the illusory protection of an authoritarian Government," he declared.

Citing Government efforts to control industry, utilities, employment and agriculture, Mills said: "Incredible to relate, the Government has dared impose criminal penalties on a farmer who grows for sale on his own farm more than the Government says he may. This is bureaucracy gone mad."

He said "no less a person than Gov. Franklin Roosevelt" in 1930 held home rule "is a fundamental necessity if we are to remain a truly united country," and centralized control is essential "to bring about government by oligarchy, masquerading as democracy."

WITNESS TELLS OF SHUSHAN'S JEWELRY BUYING

Government Seeks to Show Dredging Contracts 'Rebates' Were Not Political Contributions.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—The Government attempted today to show that Abraham L. Shushan, New Orleans Levee Board president, who is charged with income tax evasion, made large purchases of jewelry during the years in which his tax returns are under fire.

The prosecution, through an employe of Dimhofer Brothers, New York wholesale jewelers, sought to show disposition of funds which Shushan deposited in the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. of New York, which the defense has indicated it would attempt to prove were used for political purposes in Louisiana.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, chief of the Government's counsel, has charged that Shushan, political lieutenant of the late Huey P. Long, used his Chemical Bank for deposit of funds received from the Standard Dredging Co. of New York, under a "rebate" agreement whereby the defendant received 2 cents a cubic yard for dredging done for the Levee Board.

Stock Transactions.

The testimony relating to the jewelry purchases followed a sifting by the Government of the defendant's stock transactions by which the prosecution attempted to show additional unreported income for the years 1929-1933, during which Shushan's business with her firm ment of approximately $53,000.

Mrs. Sam Friedman, an employe of Dimhofer Bros., testified that Shusman's business with her firm was carried on their books as a "cash-sale" account. She said a payment of $3650 was made Sept. 28, 1929, for jewelry purchased by L. Shushan and "Joe" Shushan.

Mrs. Friedman testified that this payment represented the purchase of a platinum bracelet studded with 200 diamonds, priced at $1900. Her books, she said, also showed purchases by Shushan of a $575 diamond platinum ring, a $921.50 diamond bracelet and $1045 of miscellaneous purchases.

Woodcock informed the jury that Mrs. Friedman's testimony was not advanced in an effort to disclose additional unreported income.

Yesterday's Testimony.

The defense contention that the so-called "rebates" paid to Shushan were in the nature of "political contributions," bobbed up again yesterday. The day's testimony produced the following developments:

An effort by the Government to show that withdrawals from a New York bank account maintained by the defendant went for other than political purposes.

Charges by the Government that the records of Shushan Brothers & Co., Inc., New Orleans mercantile firm headed by the defendant, were "juggled" to conceal the true disposition of money which the prosecution charges comprised a portion of Shushan's unreported income.

Identification by a self-styled New Orleans gambler of four checks which he said he "believed" represented Shushan's winnings at his night club.

Identification of deposits aggregating $31,094 with Fenner & Beane, New Orleans investment brokers, by C. H. Kern, an officer of the firm, which he said represented stock purchases by the defendant.

Admission by a witness under cross-examination that a check for $1000, introduced into evidence by the Government, actually went to pay rent on the Municipal Auditorium here for a speech by the late Huey P. Long during his campaign for the United States Senate in 1930.

Attempts by the Government to show that Shushan used his firm's accounts as a "clearing house" for funds deposited in the New York bank, which the Government contends went to him as "rebate" or "graft" on Levee Board contracts.

CANADIAN MINISTER RESIGNS

W. D. Herridge's Appointment Was Issue in Recent Election.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16. — W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to Washington, has handed his resignation to the Government of the Liberal party, which was swept into power in Monday's general election. It will be effective when accepted.

Herridge's appointment as Minister had been the subject of debate between the Liberal party leader, MacKenzie King, and Premier R. B. Bennett.

HOW FEDERAL BORROWING INCREASES BANK DEPOSITS

Credit Set Up in Behalf of Treasury After Purchase of Government Obligations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Bank deposits have increased an estimated $8,000,000,000 since the low point touched during the banking holiday of 1933.

Wall street money experts point out the Government has spent more than $7,000,000,000 beyond its income since June 30, 1933, and had spent several billions in the same way prior to that time, and in a general way this money has been raised by borrowing, much of the money coming from the purchase of United States Government securities by the country's banks.

All member banks of the Federal Reserve System have increased their investments in holdings of Government bonds, $3,000,000,000 roughly, from June 30, 1933, to the corresponding date this year, or about 44 per cent. Banks not members of the system have bought perhaps another $2,000,000,000.

Gold imports of $2,000,000,000 have entered the country in 1934, and so far in 1935, more than offsetting a slight loss on balance in 1933. This money has not only become bank deposits as the yellow metal was sold to the Treasury here, but by heaping up further the amount of idle bank money—"excess reserves"—has encouraged banks to go on building deposits by lending to the Government.

A purchase of United States Government obligations by a commercial bank raises deposits because it is customarily paid for, not in cash, but by setting up a deposit to the credit of the Treasury in the purchasing bank.

MOCK AIR DEFENSE IN NAPLES

NAPLES, Oct. 16.—A mock defense against an air raid was carried out at this port yesterday.

With the coming of darkness, householders shrouded all lights. Closing of shops at 8 p. m., with the extinguishing of window and sign lights, made the darkness more pronounced. Street lights were dimmed and traffic moved with difficulty. Blue paper spread over automobile lamps diffused their beams.

ITALIAN QUITS HAITIAN POST

ROME, Oct. 16.—Gastone Del Frate, one of Rome's leading lawyers, has resigned as Consul-General for Haiti here because of that country's "particularly violent stand" against Italy at Geneva.

In a letter to President Stenio Vincent of Haiti, Del Frate declared, "your country would still be in a state of primeval savagery if Christopher Columbus hadn't discovered it. It owes its advanced civilization to Latin Catholic culture."

CHURCHES IN ECUADOR ORDERED NATIONALIZED

Clergy to Be Subject to Similar Government Decree, It Is Announced.

By the Associated Press.

QUITO, Ecuador, Oct. 16.—A Government decree nationalizing Ecuadorean churches was issued yesterday. It was announced that a decree nationalizing the clergy would follow.

The only hint that Ecuador's newest Government might be in conflict with the Catholic clergy was contained in a brief dispatch from Guayaquil Oct. 1, which said Federal agents had entered a Jesuit retreat and arrested Superior Francisco Borja Kueny, who was placed in jail, presumably to be expelled for political activities.

Last August, army authorities arrested President Jose M. Velasco, Ibarra after the President's alleged attempt to make himself a dictator, and installed Antonio Pons, former Premier, in his place. Later Ibarra was released and allowed to become an exile in Colombia.

There was trouble between state and church in 1927 and 1928. In the former year troops took possession of the Dominican monastery at Quito and the country barred foreign churchmen from entering its borders.

In December, 1928, the Ecuadorean Minister of the Interior warned Carmelite friars they would be expelled if they did not leave the country at once.

MEXICAN REBELS KILL TWO MAYORS AND POLICE CHIEF

Raiders Shoot Two Officials at Santa Ana—One at Sahauripa in State of Sonora.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16. — The newspaper La Prensa said today that Senators of Sonora in the Capital have received word of an attack on the town of Tonichi, Sonora, by an insurgent group. The report said the raiders killed the police commander and other persons. The Sonora Senators, the paper added, have appealed to President Cardenas to act.

By the Associated Press.

NOGLAES, Sonora, Mexico, Oct. 16.—Unconfirmed reports reaching here today said Sonora raiders rode into the little town of Sahuaripa late yesterday, shot down Mayor Pablo Cordova and rode away.

Further reports said raiding bands are forming in several sections of the state, following raids on Granados, Santa Ana and Sahuaripa by men dissatisfied with the Government's religious and agrarian policies. Sahuaripa, scene of the latest attack, is in Eastern Sonora, about 150 miles south of Granados.

Advices from Hermosillo, state capital, said Gov. Ramon Ramos has asked permission from President Cardenas to organize state volunteer troops to run down the rebels. Gov. Ramos also asked the Mexican War Department for guns and ammunition.

The reports from Sahuaripa said the Mayor was killed in the same manner in which Mayor Manuel Caudillo of Santa Ana was killed. The raiders rode up to his home, called him out and shot him.

Soldiers Guard Agua Prieta.

At Agua Prieta the few Federal soldiers there were stationed at strategic points. Deputized citizens and police took over abandoned trenches outside the town, guarding all approaches.

An all-night watch was maintained here by authorities, who disclosed that Mayor Enrique Aguayo had been warned by the raiders that they would attack the town.

At Santa Ana, where the Mayor and the Chief of Police were killed Monday by raiders, residents armed themselves with all available weap-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Statement of a Relief Recipient.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT was with a great deal of restraint that I refrained from expressing my innermost feelings after reading the letter signed "One Who Knows." I was thoroughly surprised and shocked to think that a person could be so utterly misinformed of the true situation of the relief recipient. Had this person been entirely dependent on relief, as I am, he or she would know that the majority of clients (90 per cent) on relief are absolutely destitute. As for the few chiselers, they will be found out eventually by the case investigator and dealt with accordingly.

The following is an authentic picture of the relief recipient, not only in my case but in hundreds of others, as I can prove if confronted: The amount of money allowed to a family of five for food is about $8 per week (varying slightly with the ages of the individuals). Out of this must come expenses for soap, tooth paste, brushes, shaving utensils, lunches for children, etc. One can readily see that most nourishing foods cannot be purchased, the net result being undernourishment, as is true of all members of our family.

As for Government meat being thrown into the garbage, and cans of soup being dumped, it might interest "One Who Knows" to learn that some of this food is not fit for consumption and, as can be proved, people have been made ill from eating some of this Government food. Now, as to paying $25 for a coat, one doesn't know how ridiculous this sounds to relief clients, since the relief agency does not allow such extravagances. They are not even paying gas and electric bills, much less providing clothes.

The person not on relief can never know the mental torture and physical ill-being of the relief recipient, and letters such as that written by "One Who Knows" only tend to aggravate our miserable and demoralizing existence.

RELIEF RECIPIENT.

Total Loss.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A. J. FRESCHI in his letter of Oct. 7, "A Defense of Italy," quotes figures as to what France and England got out of the war. What did any country get out of the slaughter but crippled and dead soldiers and a huge debt?

MRS. ERNA KLATT.

Patriotism by Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Massachusetts law requiring school children to salute the flag is defeating its own cause. You cannot force anyone to be patriotic by law, or religious. Of course, laws can be passed which may cause people to perform so-called patriotic or religious duties, but instead of making converts of the subjects, they create rebels against the cause.

A patriot is one who loves his country and guards its welfare. Loyalty signifies true allegiance to government or friends.

A flag is defined as a piece of cloth commonly bearing a device and attached to a staff, used as a standard, symbol or signal. To salute is to accost in welcome or reverence, to honor with an official salute; to kiss. Of course there is no valid objection to anyone bestowing all of these sentiments of respect on this piece of cloth if he so desires, but does it make him any less a patriotic citizen if from his religious belief he objects?

H. R. ROCKWELL.

A Few Queries.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CAN anyone throw light on the following questions?

Money has been appropriated for a new postoffice in this city; the foundation is completed, but work has been discontinued for several months. Money was voted for a soldiers' memorial several years ago, but the memorial has never been started; also for a new armory, but nothing has been done. The city claims arrangements have been made with the Terminal company for the use of Eads Bridge, but that ends it. We voted a $7,500,000 bond issue for river front improvement, with a promise that dirt would fly in 10 days; but did that dirt fly? Thousands are out of work, waiting. Is this a game of politics?

UNEMPLOYED.

No Longer Fears Socialism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER reading Mr. McClelland's letter "A Socialistic View of Tariffs," I have no further fear of Socialism. To be a Socialist, one must be an impractical thinker and no impractical thinker will ever run America.

Socialism, or as Mr. McClelland puts it, the perfect balance between consumption and production, is much the same as perpetual motion, a beautiful picture, but absurd in practice. Mr. McClelland can't even regulate his own wants from day to day, so how does he expect to regulate the wants of 120,000,000 others? And, say, Maj. Lambert would certainly like to see him about regulating traffic, and he can certainly get a job doing a little liquor regulating right here in town.

Oh, well, one of the burdens of capitalism is to support Socialism in the style to which it is accustomed.

FRANK MEADOWS.

WHAT KIND OF AMENDMENT?

The current (autumn) issue of the Yale Review carries the most realistic discussion we have seen of the problem posed by the demand—encouraged by the President's famous "horse-and-buggy" statement to newspaper correspondents after the Supreme Court's NRA decision—for an amendment to the Constitution to validate essential parts of the New Deal program. The article is by Howard Lee McBain, professor of constitutional law at Columbia University, New York, and one of the country's leading authorities in his field.

By no stretch of the imagination could Prof. McBain be described as a blind worshiper of the Constitution. To the contrary, he takes pains to point out the "economic mess" in which the country found itself at the beginning of the Roosevelt administration and to say that in this fact, and the demand of the people for action, there was much to justify the experimental measures, of dubious constitutionality, that were undertaken. "Man," he says, "is not made for a constitution, however past-worthy and venerable it may be." When the New Dealers came into power, "there was no time to invoke the tedious legal process of changing its (the Constitution's) letter, even if the New Dealers were prepared to propose appropriate changes, which they probably were not. They elected, therefore, to twist, relying upon hoped-for, if not confidently expected, succor from the Supreme Court. It was the only course open to them if they were to experiment upon any adequate scale."

That is water over the dam. Prof. McBain's article is concerned with the realities that confront any effort so to enlarge the Federal power by amendment as to "constitutionalize" the New Deal. There are those, he says, who will "admit the experimental fitness of some or all of the New Deal legislation, but who will, nevertheless, be hesitant to support an amendment" to bring it within constitutional bounds. This for a reason to which other students, as well, have called attention—the extreme difficulty, if not the impossibility, of framing an amendment that would accomplish the desired ends, the validation of certain specific enactments of the New Deal, without accomplishing too much, without changing, that is to say, the fundamental character of our present federal system of government. Prof. McBain writes:

> The fact is that it would be extraordinarily difficult to phrase an amendment adequate to the New Deal requirement thus far disclosed that will not confer upon Congress far larger powers than are at the moment in the offing for exercise. The problem is not like that of drafting an income-tax or prohibition amendment. Each of these dealt with a single and relatively simple subject of power. Its purport and its implications were fairly clear upon its face. . . . But here we encounter a far more comprehensive and far more complicated subject of power. Experimental and varied as the New Deal laws are, it would certainly not do, even if that were possible, which it is not, to draft an amendment or amendments that would authorize nothing more or less than these specific laws.
> Almost indispensably, any proposed amendment would have to be in the form of a generally phrased extension of the powers of Congress. Now, general phrases carry not only foreseen but also unforeseeable implications—often a whole congeries of implications. Witness, for example, the constitutional history of such phrases as the regulation of commerce, or due process of law. Even so apparently innocuous and specific a grant of power as that "to establish postoffices and post roads" involves . . . . a whole range of problems in the realm of social, economic and political philosophy—from birth control through air-mail contracts to the spoils system. Truly, the power of words to hatch power is nowhere more clearly demonstrated than in words granting constitutional power; and this despite the fact that such words are also sometimes inhibitionally construed and applied.

Space limits will not permit a full resume of Prof. McBain's closely knit argument. But one more point is too important to be omitted. He shows how naively mistaken are those who believe that the administration's embarrassment could be ended by a simple amendment giving Congress the power to regulate all commerce and not merely interstate and foreign commerce. "That mighty monitor of the Constitution, Due Process of Law," would still stand. The author shows that for the Supreme Court to invalidate the NRA it was necessary only to say that the business in question (in the Schechter case) was not interstate commerce and therefore not subject to congressional control. Pertinently, he asks whether the law would have been due process even if the Schechters' business had been interstate. "For Congress, in exerting its power over interstate commerce, cannot ignore the due process prohibition. Unless the Supreme Court is willing to overrule previous decisions, the only answer to this question is a rather emphatic No."

Prof. McBain shows, moreover, that the issue is not wholly an issue of state versus national rights, since there is "a midnight zone of powers" which neither the states nor the nation may constitutionally exercise. The issue is so complicated that "it cannot be smiled across to the people, although it may be admitted that to present it for adequate understanding will be well-nigh impossible."

The author wonders whether the administration has pondered the difficulties "ahead of its inchoate plan to repattern the Constitution to fit the New Deal." He believes that if there is any faint possibility that a proposal to amend the Constitution will be an issue in the coming campaign, "the best brains that the administration can command should be already hard at work."

The Post-Dispatch has already put the question implied in Prof. McBain's article. It repeats: What specific amendment, if any, has the administration in mind? Debate upon the terms of any such proposal cannot begin too soon.

OCTOBER DAYS AND NIGHTS.

The most beautiful sight in America, so Arthur Brisbane writes from New Jersey, is the changing colors of autumn foliage on the North Atlantic seaboard. Those of us who know the amber of Ozark sassafras, the crimson plumes which our sumacs flaunt to the sun, the hickory's lavish mint of purest gold and the bronzes and purples that come to the wayside oaks of the Mississippi Valley this time of year will have our doubts. Whether we live in Missouri or Illinois or Arkansas, we will have to be shown. But our autumn glory is more than painted hills along haze-steeped valleys, more than fires of red and yellow against green pines. It is the greater glory of perfect days and perfect nights—the clear, warm wine that pours from the blue bowl overhead as the sun swings leisurely across the sky; the silver flood that washes cornfields and bathes the trees and winding roads as the moon rises to full and Etruscan gold. Let Mr. Brisbane spend his Octobers where he will. Our choice is here at home, where the rich coloring which October brings to the countryside is only part of autumn's magnificence.

HERNDON, MOONEY AND THE SUPREME COURT.

The United States Supreme Court refused Monday to pass on two of the most celebrated of present-day cases, those of Tom Mooney, life-term San Francisco convict, and Angelo Herndon, Negro Communist, convicted at Atlanta, Ga., of inciting an insurrection. Short-sighted opinion may conclude that the Supreme Court is "against" these men. Actually, of course, the court's action means nothing of the sort in either instance.

Action by the Supreme Court in the Mooney case would be improper now for the reason that a decision is pending in the California courts on Mooney's petition for release under a writ of habeas corpus. This is the proceeding which Chief Justice Hughes in effect recommended last December in his carefully written opinion explaining why the Supreme Court could not act until Mooney had exhausted his rights in the California courts. Obviously, that proceeding should be terminated and found wanting before the petitioner again appeals to the Supreme Court.

Similarly, the refusal to pass on the Herndon case logically follows earlier action by the court. The Herndon case, like that of Mooney, was before the court during the last term. At that time, the court held that the constitutional question of invasion of civil rights had not been properly raised in the Georgia State courts and that the Supreme Court consequently was without jurisdiction to decide the case on its merits. With the situation unchanged in the Georgia courts, the Supreme Court could only stand by its previous rejection of the case in its present form.

Persons who find fault with these rulings by the Supreme Court and try to read political prejudices into them need to remember that the same court, save for only one change in membership—the late Justice Holmes then held the seat now occupied by Justice Cardozo—upheld the display of the red flag in California in the Yetta Stromberg case. They need to remember, moreover, that, in that decision, Chief Justice Hughes, speaking for the court, said that free political discussion was essential if government was to remain responsive to the will of the people, and "that changes may be obtained by lawful means, an opportunity essential to the security of the Republic, is a fundamental principle of our constitutional system."

Supporters of causes such as those of Tom Mooney and Angelo Herndon, whatever their political beliefs and whatever their color, have nothing to fear from a court which used those words. All they need to do is to comply with the rules of procedure—to demonstrate that they have a case in court, as Yetta Stromberg did. Then they will be heard.

HUNTING BY PHONOGRAPH.

Some inventive spirit, spurred by the new Federal rule against the use of live decoys in duck hunting, has rigged up a phonograph record reproducing the calls of wild ducks, from the raucous quack of the bull mallard to the dulcet love notes of Lady Teal. Thousands of hunters are preparing to take their phonographs into the blinds and, with the aid of this ingenious record, lure the ducks within shooting distance.

And what does the Bureau of Biological Survey think about this? The bureau does not know what to think. A phonograph is not a live decoy and is, therefore, admissible into anyone's blind. But does it violate the spirit if not the letter of the ruling, to play a record on which are reproduced the actual notes of wild duck calls? Under such prodding questions as this, the bureau, at first glumly silent, finally bursts into print with the announcement that it will not make a decision until the effectiveness of the device can be determined.

Meanwhile, with that feeling of pleasant malice always associated with outwitting officialdom, the phonograph is being packed in the duffel bag, along with boots and balbriggans.

LONG LIVE THE KING!

Whether the Canadian election points a prophetic finger towards the United States and '36 is a question to be left, perhaps, to the experts. The man in the street, however, is likely to sense some significance in the fact that the party in power for four years has been turned out and the Liberals placed in charge. Prime Minister Richard Bedford Bennett, leader of the Conservatives, makes way for William Lyon Mackenzie King.

Mr. King is a veteran of many political wars. He is now 61. He was 47 when first selected for the premiership, largely, it was said, by the Laurier influence. Through the mutations of fortune he has managed always to command the confidence of his party organization.

He has been a personage all along the years. In college he specialized in political science. A brief fling at newspaper work and he was back at his hobby, having won a fellowship in political economy at University of Chicago. While in that city, he made his home in Hull House, presided over by Jane Addams. Next he is seen at Harvard, where he won a traveling scholarship that took him all over Europe. He declined an offer of a professorship at Harvard to return home to the post of Deputy Minister of the Labor Department, which the Ottawa Government had recently created.

We have been hearing from critics of the Roosevelt administration how successfully other countries were coping with the depression. Canada has been cited as having made substantial progress toward recovery, in brilliant contrast to our own hesitant, dubious crawl. But you can't go behind the election returns. Canadians, obviously, have found the Bennett administration unsatisfactory and have turned to a different philosophy. One item of that philosophy is a distrust of the economic nationalism that has raised tariff barriers at all the gates of the world.

The political pendulum seems to be ticking, rather thunderously, the uncertainty of office tenure. "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

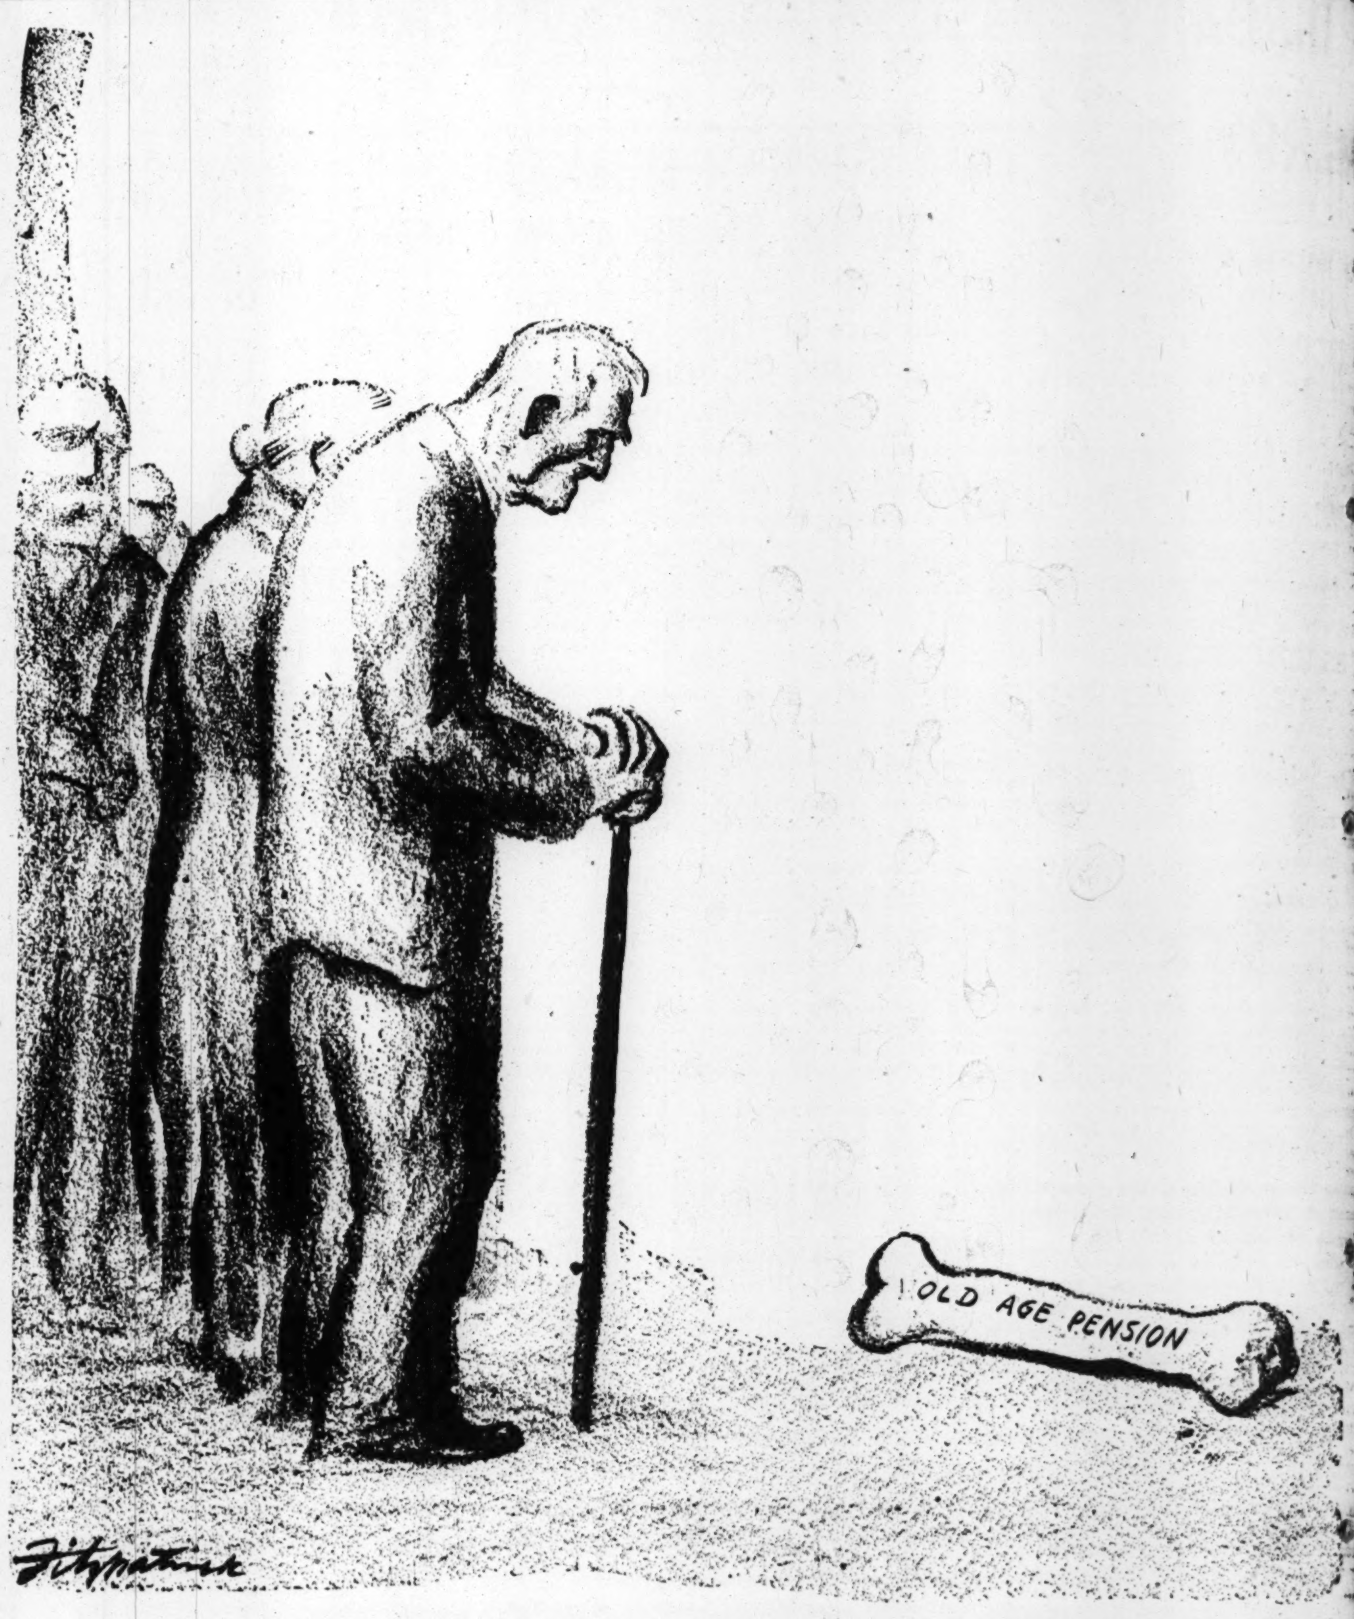
ANOTHER ADELPHI FUMBLE.

George Bernard Shaw is wrong again. He brackets Mussolini with "the village blacksmith who looked the whole world in the face and told it to go to hell." The village blacksmith who looked the whole world in the face was not addicted to profanity. Children coming home from school looked in at the open door and saw a sturdy, serene philosopher. They heard the anvil ring and the bellows roar, but they never heard a cuss word under that spreading chestnut tree. G. B. S. doesn't know our Longfellow.



THE LEGISLATURE TOSSED THEM A BONE.

A Profit-Sharing Plan

St. Louis industrialist suggests use of Federal taxing power to encourage corporations to share profits with employes; he believes this will improve purchasing power, create better distribution of country's wealth, induce happier relations between employers and employes and continue desirable features of NRA.

Full text of plan of Harry Brookings Wallace, outlined in "Income and Economic Progress," by Harold G. Moulton, President, the Brookings Institution.

WE have arrived at a state of economic maladjustment as is evidenced by the following facts:

Warehouses filled with foods, clothing and necessities of life.

Capacity to produce much more.

Millions and millions of our people in need; enormous capacity to consume without the ability to buy—willing to work, but no jobs.

Accumulated wealth and purchasing power concentrated in the hands of a very small percentage of our population, whose capacity to consume is limited.

Government paying out billions for relief and work relief.

The outstanding feature of this condition is not so much the amount of accumulated wealth as the lack of wealth or purchasing power upon the part of such a large percentage of our population.

Therefore, instead of continuing, by increased taxes on accumulated wealth, to supply relief to unemployed, we should concentrate our thought on an economic plan that will assure a larger and wider distribution of newly-created wealth through increased pay for human services as compared with the amount retained for ownership of natural resources, means of production and distribution.

* * *

We cannot ignore the fact that improved machinery, methods of mass production, etc., have greatly reduced the number of employes in practically every important industry per unit of production. Capital ownership of such improved machinery, etc., is today being paid instead of former employes.

Industries whose payrolls 30 years ago amounted to 40 per cent of their production find their payrolls today only 20 per cent of their production.

Service jobs can and will help to furnish employment to those whom machinery has replaced, as soon as there is an increased purchasing power widely distributed. Service jobs for automobiles, radios, refrigerators, air-conditioning, restaurants, amusements, etc.

Greater and broader purchasing power must come either from relatively increased pay or profit-sharing, or combination of both. There is economic danger in advancing our labor cost basis too rapidly, but there is no danger in profit-sharing—only good.

Along with these economic maladjustments, there has developed a class feeling between capital and labor which is bad from a social, humanitarian or economic point of view.

Experience has demonstrated that no such class feeling exists in companies which have fairly shared their profits with all of their employes. A feeling of partnership has developed. An interest in the profits has greatly eliminated waste and inefficiency. Unfortunately, very few companies have shared their profits with all of their employes, though many have paid large bonuses to the officials. Such action has not been pleasing to the remaining employes, who have been ignored.

I am of the opinion that a universal profit-sharing plan would serve the double purpose of effecting a wider distribution of newly-created wealth by corporations and greatly improve the relations between capital and labor.

Minimum wages and maximum hours have laid a necessary foundation for any profit-sharing plan.

The decision of the Supreme Court relative to the NRA has annulled the enforcement of minimum wages, maximum hours and the abolition of child employment. A plan to continue these features of the NRA is desirable.

A universal profit-sharing plan, embracing and including these features can be made effective as follows:

* * *

Increase the Federal income tax of corporations to 25 per cent.

Make provisions that any corporation—

First, that pays as extra compensation to all of its employes in proportion to their salaries or wages an amount equal to 10 per cent of its profits, up to but not in excess of 50 per cent of the salaries or wages paid;

Second, that maintains minimum wages and maximum hours and child labor regulations satisfactory to the Federal Government, shall pay to the Federal Government a tax of 13¾ per cent, as at present. Such corporations to be exempted from the remaining 1¼ per cent.

Corporations accepting the above provisions will receive a certificate authorizing them to use the universal profit-sharing emblem.

The Internal Revenue Department of the Treasury is in position to administer this plan without creating any new organization.

The 10 per cent profit-sharing to employes suggested above may or may not be adequate. Congress has the power to fix and change the amount.

Higher corporation income taxes are inevitable. Would it not be better for corporations to pay part of their profits to those who have helped create them than all of the amount taxed to the Government?

A 10 per cent distribution of corporation profits would have been:

For the year ending June, 1929.	1,165,300,000
For the year ending June, 1930.	642,800,000
For the year ending June, 1931.	368,300,000
For the year ending June, 1933.	286,495,400

It is the principle of profit-sharing, for the purpose of effecting a broader and greater purchasing power; a wider distribution of newly created wealth; better relations between capital and labor; a continuation of minimum wages, maximum hours and child labor regulations; and the suggested means of accomplishing it universally, that I submit for consideration.

POSSIBLE COMPROMISE.

From the Toledo (O.) Blade.

Compulsory Motor Insurance

From the New York Herald Tribune.

CHARLES A. HARNETT, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has returned to his pet insistence that New York State make the liability insurance of automobiles compulsory. In his speech to the annual convention of volunteer firemen, he buttressed his argument with hair-lifting statistics of injuries and deaths from motor accidents. These were impressive enough, but even without them there can be no answer to his point that every operator of a motor car should be equipped with the ability to pay for whatever injuries or damage his car may cause. Financial responsibility will not prevent accidents; it will not restore the dead to life or mend broken bones, but it will help to provide for the surviving victims of reckless driving whose number and helplessness have created a first-class social problem.

The present so-called financial responsibility law merely imposes the obligation of liability insurance on those motorists who have had an accident or have been convicted of traffic violation. It subjects them to excessive premium charges and, of course, provides no coverage for whatever damage they may have caused beforehand. In Mr. Harnett's words, it "locks the barn after the horse is stolen." Some 23 states have laws of this kind. Only one, Massachusetts, compels the motorist, no matter what his record, to take out insurance as a prerequisite to obtaining a license.

The Massachusetts law is not perfect, but it points the way. Mr. Harnett would improve on it. He would have each policy make provision for property damage as well as personal injury. He would put the regulation of premium rates in the hands not of a single public official, but of a board of three, one of whom should represent the private insurance companies. He would establish a state insurance agency to which motorists might apply if they pleased instead of to the private companies. He would establish a board of appeals to adjudicate the cases of applicants who had been denied coverage.

These provisions and others he sponsors will suggest the type and strength of the opposition his proposal will encounter if and when it comes before the Legislature. But they will persuade the disinterested citizen that he is on the right track. In any event, no one not hardened in selfishness will attempt to refute his main contention that financial responsibility on the road should be made universal and that the Legislature should do something about it.

WAR ON THE SHYSTER.

From the Chicago Tribune.

THE announcement that the American Bar Association intends to offer assistance to the state bar associations to bring about the elimination of unethical practitioners, shysters, is another evidence that the profession is taking its responsibilities in the field more seriously.

There has been too much laissez faire in respect to the practices of irresponsible lawyers. Reputable lawyers are busy men, and it takes personal sacrifices and irksome activity to censure malpractice. But a sense of the serious discredit to the calling of the law for which a small class is responsible has grown, and much work is being done to weed out undesirables.

The national association can help practically in many cases, especially to awaken state and local associations to effective action. Its prestige should give weight to its influence for inspiring vigorous and persistent effort and tone up the professional morale to a militant treatment of the lawyer criminal evil.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.

ACCORDING to inside word received by the Navy Department, Mussolini has given strict instructions to Italian naval commanders to avoid a clash with British shipping at any cost. This is considered significant.

Obviously, the last thing Mussolini wants is war with Britain, and knows that nothing is more likely to fan British opinion to white heat than tampering with a vessel flying the Union Jack.

Probably, therefor, British vessels carrying munitions to Ethiopia under the lifted League embargo, will be able to land their cargoes at the terminus of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railway without hindrance.

Ambassador Dodd.

THE State Department is saying nothing about it, but the German Foreign Office has made some sub-rosa complaints about the political activity of Martha Dodd, daughter of the American Ambassador in Berlin.

Cause of complaint was some articles contributed by Miss Dodd under her own name to the Communist paper, "New Masses." Anything savoring of this ism is anathema to the Nazi Government.

On one occasion Propaganda Minister Goebbels made a public reference to the fact that Miss Dodd publicly exhibited sympathy for persecuted Jews.

German Armament.

AMERICAN Embassy dispatches from Berlin indicate that the Germans are rubbing their hands in glee over the League quarrel with Italy. It all plays into Hitler's hands.

Meanwhile the American military attache in Berlin reports more military training in the Reich than ever was seen in the days of the Kaiser.

After You, Alphonse.

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER recently wrote his long-time friend Senator Borah urging the desirability of starting immediate work on an agricultural plank for next year's G. O. P. platform.

"It should be as specific and appealing to the farmers as that of the administration," the veteran Kansas Republican leader prompted.

The answer of his Idaho colleague follows:

"Dear Arthur:

You are absolutely right. We should lose no time in beginning work on a farm program. I think you are just the man to do it and when you have it finished please send me a copy. BORAH."

30,000,000 Housewives.

AT last the Roosevelt Administration is beginning to get consumer-conscious. That is the chief inside reason behind the extreme lack of enthusiasm upon the part of Henry Wallace and his AAA cohorts to put across potato crop control.

Thirty million housewives are more than Horny-Handed Henry cares to face.

There was a day, not long ago, when not merely Henry Wallace, but Gen. Johnson and other Recovery administrators trod rough-shod over the rights of consumers, spurned the Consumers' Councils theoretically established to protect them.

But now the Administration is worried. The possibility of a housewife-consumer revolt is no idle threat.

Wallace and his lieutenants remember only too vividly the recent food strikes in various cities and the delegation of angry Detroit women who stormed Washington.

Also, from Labor Department figures the AAA knows that the consumers no longer are an unorganized mass. A recent survey by the department disclosed that there are close to 1000 consumer co-operatives in the United States with their number and membership increasing weekly by leaps and bounds.

Spuds are produced in more than 30 states, with the number of growers, according to Census Bureau figures, approximately 3,000,000. Of this total, however, less than 200,000 are so-called commercial growers. In Maine, practically all the commercial growing is done in one county—Aroostook.

Two hundred thousand, or even 1,000,000 organized farmers is a potent force. It was sufficient to jam the crop control law through Congress.

But when it comes to enforcement, the farmers are no match for 30,000,000 housewives.

Potato Changes.

AAA chiefs are not advertising the fact, but they plan drastic modifications to the administration of the Potato Act.

Their plan will (1) limit operation of the law to growers producing 50 or more bushels; (2) do away with the stamp tax on sales direct from farmer to consumer; (3) eliminate consumer liability in the purchase of "bootleg" potatoes; (4) require a two-thirds vote of all potato growers to make the law operative.

Gen. Johnson's Article

Tieup With Young Col. Roosevelt and Old Dr. Townsend Makes Borah's Presidential Chances Slim.

By GEN. HUGH. S. JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.

IT IS too bad about Senator Borah. Taking at its face value all that even his opponents may say, he remains our greatest elder statesman—the grand old man of our political life. His head may have been in the clouds at times, but his feet were always on the ground.

If he had not recently uttered a word, then on his public record of many years he would have been the outstanding Presidential candidate on an intelligent, liberal Republican platform—a replica, let's say, of the Democratic platform of 1932.

This seems so plain as hardly to need argument. The form of our political alignment is still "Republican" and "Democratic" but a large part of the substance of political thought or instinct, just now, classifies as Right, Left and Center.

As between Borah, plus his legislative record, plus such a centrist platform, and the President, plus his New Deal record and prospect —with no other alternative—the Senator would carry the Right, unanimously. He would take most of the Center. He would have a good fighting chance in the Left.

Pile that consideration on top of the fact that there are more Republicans than Democrats and you have what looks like something far better than a fighting chance.

He teams up with Old Man Townsend's plan. That is crazier than Huey and "Share the Wealth."

Now "trust-busting" turned out in practice to mean just tooth-and-fang competition and survival of the fittest—an economic policy exploded here and in every other civilized country. In effect it resulted in the greatest concentration of wealth and power and the most ruthless slaughter of independent business in the history of this or any other country. It is the most reactionary principle in politics.

Straddled so wide between these twin absurdities, the Senator can't run—not unless he gets his two feet together again.

URSULINES TO CELEBRATE 400 YEARS OF TEACHING

Observance of Anniversary to Continue for Week at Order's Academy in County.

The 400th anniversary of the founding of the Ursuline Order will be celebrated for a week starting Saturday by the Ursuline Academy, 800 East Monroe avenue, Oakland.

A solemn triduum in which bishops and visiting clergy will take part, will continue from Saturday morning till Tuesday. A historic pageant, "Daughters of Victory," written by the Rev. Daniel Lord, S. J., of St. Louis University, will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at St. Louis University Auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard.

The Ursuline Order is assigned to teaching, and was founded by St. Angela Merici in 1535 at Brescia, Italy, and spread to France, Germany, Poland, Holland, Austria, Africa, India, and China. Missionaries of the order came to Quebec in 1639 and they lived among Indians for 40 years. The Ursulines came to St. Louis in 1840, living first on Fifth street, but in 1850 they established a school at 2113 South Twelfth street. After 76 years in this location, they erected the Ursuline Academy in Oakland, where a high school is conducted.

CITY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL SESSION

Organization Formed in 1817 With 142 Members Now Has 21,218.

The 118th annual session of the St. Louis Baptist Association will be held tomorrow and Friday at Compton Heights Baptist Church, 3641 Russell boulevard. The association's membership has increased from 142 members in 1817, when it was organized, to 21,218 members with 42 churches at present, according to S. E. Ewing, statistical secretary for the association.

Tomorrow evening, following a report on St. Louis Baptist Mission Board, there will be addresses by S. E. Ewing and Dr. A. M. McDonald, superintendent of Chicago Baptist Association, Friday night the closing speech will be made by Dr. John Lake, who has worked among the lepers in China, where he has worked all his life as a missionary.

Baron and His Fiancee

WHO will be married Oct. 30 at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church. He is a former secretary of the German embassy at Washington and a nephew of the assassinated Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria. She is an instructor of Maryville College and a daughter of a former rear admiral in the Imperial Austrian Navy. The baron encountered difficulties with immigration authorities at El Paso, Tex., on his way to St. Louis from Mexico. After an appeal to Washington, he was admitted as a visitor.

ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY TO TOUR 10 STATES

Concerts in 22 Cities on Schedule of the Orchestra This Season.

Three tours, covering 22 Middle Western and Southern cities in 10 states, will be taken by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in the approaching concert season. This will be one of the most ambitious and extended series of out-of-town engagements ever undertaken by the orchestra, the management announced today.

The entire orchestra of 86 musicians will participate in all the tours. Vladimir Golschmann, returning as conductor, will lead the orchestra in each of the concerts.

Four universities and two colleges were on the itinerary, given by Arthur J. Gaines, manager, as follows: First tour: Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 13; University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Jan. 14; Toledo, O., under auspices of Toledo Museum of Art, Jan. 15.

Second tour: Chicago, in Orchestra Hall, home of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Sunday afternoon Feb. 16; Illinois State Normal University, Normal, Ill., Feb. 17; University of Illinois, Urbana, fifth annual engagement, Feb. 18; Peoria, Ill., under auspices of the Amateur Music Club, Feb. 19; University of Iowa, Iowa City, Feb. 20; Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 21; Davenport, Ia., Feb. 22; Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 23; University of Missouri, Columbia, third annual engagement, Feb. 24. The concerts at Davenport, Ottumwa and Des Moines will be under the direction of the Civic Music Association.

Third tour: Birmingham, Ala., under auspices of the Music Study Club, March 13; New Orleans, under direction of the Philharmonic Society, March 14; Houston, Tex., under auspices of the Saunders Concert Course, March 16; San Antonio, Tex., March 17; Austin, Tex., with the Amateur Choral Club, March 18; Dallas, Tex., under auspices of the Civic Music Association, March 19; College of Industrial Arts, Denton, Tex., March 20; Oklahoma City, Ok., under direction of the Hauser Concert Courses, March 23; Tulsa, Ok., under auspices of the Hyechka Musical Club, March 24; Joplin, Mo., all-star concert series, March 25.

The concert in Chicago will be Golschmann's first appearance there as conductor and the orchestra's second appearance there in its 56 years of existence. The orchestra played in Chicago about 20 years ago when the late Max Zach was conductor.

Eighteen pairs of concerts will be given in St. Louis, starting Nov. 8 and 9 and ending April 3 and 4.

"Inestimable advertising is gained for St. Louis through the out-of-town appearances of the orchestra," said Manager Gaines, in his announcement. "Great prestige and esteem also are acquired by the orchestra wherever it appears and newspapers in the different cities invariably, in editorials, praise St. Louis for maintaining such an institution as the Symphony Orchestra."

ADMIRAL BYRD TO LECTURE IN AUDITORIUM WEDNESDAY

Proceeds Will Be Added to Scholarship Fund of Mary Institute Alumnae.

Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd will give two illustrated lectures on his recent trip to the Antarctic next Wednesday in the opera house of the Municipal Auditorium, under the auspices of the Mary Institute Alumnae Association. Proceeds of the benefit will be added to the scholarship fund. Admiral Byrd will speak Oct. 23 at a 3 o'clock matinee for which Supt. SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS PHOEBE ANDREW WEED will be presented to society this afternoon at a tea to be given by her mother, Mrs. Hugh H. C. Weed, at her home on Ridgewood road, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Weed and her daughter will receive their guests before a background of flowers.

The debutante will be gowned in blue slipper satin, made on close-fitting lines with a slight train and a spray of gardenias across the square neckline in front. Mrs. Weed will be in a gown of dark blue lace. It is made with a jacket and three-quarter-length sleeves.

The tea table in the blue and white dining room of the Weed home will be decorated with a large white bowl filled with yellow roses and chrysanthemums and dark blue tapers set in white holders. The debutantes serving will be: Miss Laura Baumgarten, Miss Lydia Ann Allen, Miss Vera Angert, Miss Blanche Fischel, Miss Mary Chambers, Miss Virginia Moser, Miss Elizabeth James, Miss Ruth Stevens, Miss Sally Bridge, Miss Judith Oliver, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Carroll Jones, Miss Ann Shapleigh, Miss Ann Russe and Miss Bliss McConnell. A small group of Mrs. Weed's friends will assist her.

Miss Weed is a graduate of the John Burroughs School and attended Les Fourgeres School in Lausanne, Switzerland. She spent three years at Smith College and will return next year for her degree. Several additional parties have been planned for the debutante.

At a luncheon today at their home, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Marian Megginson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Megginson, 28 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, and Harry Coleman Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Chapman, Tulsa, Ok.

The romance began here while Mr. Chapman was a student at the Law School of Washington University, from which he was graduated. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta, social, and Phi Delta Phi, legal, fraternities. He is associated with the law firm of Moss & Young in Tulsa.

Miss Megginson is a graduate of Mary Institute and Briarcliff School at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., and Washington University where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

About 20 of Miss Megginson's close friends were invited to the luncheon which was served buffet style from a chrysanthemum-trimmed table. As each girl entered the house, Miss Megginson's sister, Miss Eloise, gave her a gardenia to which was attached a card bearing the names of the bride-to-be and Mr. Chapman.

The wedding will take place the last of November.

Miss Louise King, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. King, 7331 Dorsett avenue, and Russell Hall Riley, 1029 Goodfellow avenue, son of Gilbert W. Riley of Cleveland, were married at noon today in the chapel of St. Michael and St. George's Church. The Rev. Dr. Karl Morgan Block, with the assistance of The Rev. Dr. Loren M. Edwards of the Grace Methodist Church, performed the ceremony. Only members of the two families witnessed the service. It was followed by a small reception in the church parlor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece traveling suit of brown wool trimmed with brown fur and an egg shell colored satin blouse. Her hat was of brown velour and she wore a corsage of orchids. Miss Jane King, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was in an afternoon dress of wine-colored silk crepe trimmed with brown fur. She wore a brown hat and brown accessories with a corsage of tea roses.

Herbert Bartholomew was Mr. Riley's best man.

Mr. Riley and his bride will take an extensive motor trip in the South, visiting in Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., and New Orleans. They will live at 621 Westwood drive, Clayton, on their return.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gilbert Moore, Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, all of Baltimore, relatives of the bride.

The betrothal of Miss Virginia Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Grace, 246 Spencer road, Webster Groves, and James Lee Loomis Jr., of Granby, Conn., was announced at a late afternoon tea today at the Grace home. The party was planned for Miss Virginia Wagner, who is to marry William Bryan, Oct. 26.

Tea was served informally from two tables, one in the living room and another on the sun porch. The announcement was made by Miss Grace's two sisters, Miss Barbara and Miss Anne. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Grace is a graduate of the John Burroughs School and after attending Smith College for two years returned to St. Louis and was graduated from Washington University where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She spent last summer in Europe. She met her fiance three summers ago on one of his frequent visits to St. Louis.

Mr. Loomis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Loomis of Granby. He prepared at the Taft School in Connecticut and was graduated from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., last June. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi. At present he is in business in Hartford, Conn., where he will take his bride to live.

Goodbye smoke and soot
Hello clean cheap Automatic heat

AUTOMATIC HEAT WITH COAL offers you these 5 great advantages:

Smokeless Automatic Heat is produced only by an automatic burner, and is a matter — not of the kind of fuel you burn — but of the kind of equipment you use for burning it. The automatic coal burner gives you trouble-free automatic heat with coal, the economy fuel.

Enjoy Modern Heating Service with Amazing Economy

Coal, the economy fuel priced within reach of every purse, burned in an automatic coal burner, gives you that greatest of modern luxuries...clean, cheap, trouble-free automatic heat, while saving you an amazing amount of money. No longer need you deny yourself this luxury that scientific progress has now made so cheap and so clean.

Learn about this modern way of home-heating at the Automatic Heat Show, a free exhibition which is demonstrating in actual practice how you can get the greatest value out of your heating dollars while enjoying the advantages of smokeless automatic heat. If you are planning to build or remodel, by all means visit the Heat Show and see for yourself the tremendous advances that have been made in the design of 1935 coal heating equipment.

1. SMOKELESS HEAT
Now you can have clean, smokeless, automatic heat without excessive cost — in fact, at a saving — with an automatic coal burner. These modern conveniences are low in price, trouble-free, surprisingly economical to operate, and may be purchased on convenient terms. See them in operation at the Automatic Heat Show.

2. CHEAP HOT WATER

3. AIR CONDITIONING
With modern coal heating equipment, you can also have summer air cooling and conditioning with the money saved on winter fuel. See the furnaces of the future — automatic heat in winter; automatic cooling in summer; air conditioning all the year around — at the Heat Show.

4. CLEANLINESS and SAFETY
Coal, properly handled and automatically fired, gives the cleanest heat of all. The automatic coal burner burns Illinois coal without smoke or soot. Walls, drapes, furniture, curtains, stay clean months longer. There is no film deposit — no odor — no danger. Coal is a perfectly safe fuel.

5. NO MORE "COLD 70"
"Cold 70" is that stratified condition of heat illustrated here, which can be overcome in warm air furnaces only by heating with coal in an automatic burner. Only automatically fired coal provides a continuous "coasting" fire — always heat in the furnace, fire never goes out — INSURING CONTINUOUS AIR CIRCULATION, thus preventing the formation of a cold strata of air near the floor and providing the healthful floor-level heat needed particularly by children.

ons. Reports of raids on several nearby ranches supported rumors that the band was encamped within striking distance of the city.

Official Minimizes Uprising.

In Mexico, D. F., a Government official minimized the Sonora insurgent movement in confirming previous reports that five prominent Americans whose hunting firearms were seized by the rebels had been released unharmed.

Although the Americans have not returned to the border, various sources have reported them safe. Members of the party are J. H. Durrell, vice-president of the National City Bank, New York; James Bruce, vice-president of the National Dairy Products Co., New York; Lee Paull of Wheeling, W. Va., insurance executive; Jack Durrell, San Francisco representative of the Chase National Bank, and Dr. W. S. Fulton. Wheeling.

The official said the rebels did not number more than 50 men, and that the uprising soon would be put down by Federal forces.

Governor's Ouster Demanded.

Raiding bands, which have attacked Rio Granado, Santa Ana, San Miguel and several other towns in the interior of Sonora, are reported to be aroused against the Government's agrarian and religious policies, and are demanding the removal of Gov. Ramon Ramos.

A persistent rumor was heard at Agua Prieta that a spokesman for the rebels rode into the town yesterday, demanded a large amount of money from the officials and told them the rebels would take the town if the money were not provided. The rumor was that city officials defied the rebels and were expecting an attack at any moment.

The Municipal Palace was heavily guarded and officials remained until a late hour last night in the President's office in direct communication by telephone with the office of Gov. Ramos in Hermosillo.

Alfredo Molina, representing Gov. Ramos in Agua Prieta, confirmed reports that full squadron of Mexican army planes had been dispatched from Hermosillo to search the hills for the rebels.

A detachment of 50 Federal troopers stationed here has been ordered out to guard the city and border and civil guards have been increased.

$1,000 For Baby Baptized by Cardinal

Stark's Rural Following.

In finally deciding on Stark, Pendergast apparently chose the man who would be likely to give him the most trouble as an anti-boss candidate. Stark has been campaigning assiduously for the greater part of three years and has built up a strong following in the rural sections of the State, so strong that Pendergast seemingly picked him as the man whose independent strength, coupled with the strength the boss could throw him, would make him a certain victor.

The remainder of the Democratic State ticket which will receive the Pendergast support, unless he changes his mind, which he rarely does, means continuance in power of almost the entire present office holding group at the capital, contingent, of course, on the Democrats carrying the State next year.

The list includes Judges Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico and John C. Collet of Salisbury for renomination as Judges of the Supreme Court; Lieut. Gov. Frank H. Harris of Columbia for renomination; Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown of Poplar Bluff for renomination; State Auditor Forrest Smith of Richmond for renomination; and Robert W. Winn of New London for the nomination for State Treasurer to succeed Richard R. Nacy, who is ineligible under the Constitution to a second term. The office of Attorney General is the only one open on the slate, and, according to rumor, that is to go to Roy Hamlin of Hannibal.

With the exception of Brown, who comes from the southeastern section of the State, and Smith from the northwestern, the entire Pendergast slate is confined to candidates from the northeastern quarter of Missouri. There is no one on the slate from St. Louis or Kansas City. Brown is the only one from south of the Missouri River.

Some Ambitions Wrecked.

The political ambitions which Pendergast apparently wrecked in his selection of Stark were those of Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller of St. Louis; Harris who wanted to be Governor but who must be content with again having the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor; Pross Cross of Lathrop, chief counsel for Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench in her recent trial; Dan Nee of Springfield, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Western District of Missouri; McKittrick, and John D. Taylor of Keytesville.

Pendergast first offered his support to James P. Aylward of Kansas City, chairman of the Democratic State Committee; Mayor Bryce B. Smith of Kansas City and Charles M. Howell of Kansas City, insurance lawyer, but all refused to run.

Stark is 48 years old and was born on the farm in Pike County, on which the Stark Nurseries are located, and on which his great-grandfather settled 119 years ago.

He graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1908 but resigned from the Navy in 1912 to take over executive duties at the Stark nurseries. When the United States entered the World War he volunteered and was commissioned a captain in the Field Artillery, being promoted to Major two months later. He participated in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne battles. He is active in American Legion affairs.

He served as chairman of the Citizens' Road Committee, which managed the successful campaign for a $75,000,000 State road bond issue in 1928. He is married and has two sons and two daughters.

Lieutenant-Governor Harris, who was shunted aside by Pendergast in the approval of Stark, said at Columbia today that Stark would have his hearty support. Harris' daughter is the wife of Stark's brother.

DRIVERS ASKED TO USE CARE IN PASSING SCHOOL BUSSES

New Illinois Law Provides 10-Mile Speed Limit When Children Are Entering or Leaving.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 16.—Ernst Lieberman, Chief Highway Engineer, Tuesday sent out an appeal to motorists of Illinois to exercise due care in passing school busses stopped along the highways to discharge or receive passengers. Revised motor vehicle laws of the State provide that motorists overtaking and passing a school bus must not drive in excess of 10 miles an hour, he said.

On this measure, the traffic code states: "The driver of a vehicle upon a highway outside of a business or residence district upon meeting or overtaking any school bus which was stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children shall drive at a speed which is reasonable and prudent, and with due caution for the safety of any such children and in no event in excess of 10 miles per hour in passing such school bus.

"This section shall be applicable only in the event the school bus shall bear upon the front and rear thereon a plainly visible sign containing the words 'School Bus' in letters not less than four inches in height which can be removed or covered when the vehicle is not in use as a school bus."

DIDN'T YOU KNOW the bargain night rates now begin at 7 P.M.?

NOW . . Low Long Distance Night Rates Begin at 7 P.M.

Tonight, and every night after 7 o'clock, most "station-to-station" calls cost about 40 per cent less than during the day.

Formerly this lowest night rate did not begin until 8:30 p. m. Moving it up to 7 makes "voice-visiting" more convenient . . . you are not delayed if you're going out in the evening, and the person you are calling is more likely to be at home.

It's easy to make a "station-to-station" call. Just tell the long distance operator that you will talk with any one who answers at the called number.

Enjoy tonight a short, inexpensive voice visit by telephone with an out-of-town friend or relative. It's surprising how little it costs, and it's easy to do; the service is fast and you hear as clearly as on a local call. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

These reductions do not apply on "person-to-person" calls, which cost the same at all hours.

SOVIET HAS DEVELOPED NO NEW DRESS STYLES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LENINGRAD, Oct. 16.—Dress is one subject about which the Soviet dictatorship has been rather uncertain. In theory there has been a sort of declaration of independence from the laws of fashion, but in practice there has not been much of a break with Western styles. Instead of trying to develop a dress as distinctive as its political philosophy, the tendency has been toward imitation with limited materials and an even more limited pocketbook.

There is compensation for some of the deficiencies in the architecture of Leningrad. Probably neckties and felt hats are numerically as scarce here as in Moscow, and neither hats nor stockings are any more frequently worn by women. The graceful gray buildings, wide streets and neat parks of the city are European, however, and the crowd which moves across them absorbs their atmosphere.

LENINGRAD, Oct. 16.—Dress is one subject about which the Soviet dictatorship has been rather uncertain. In theory there has been a sort of declaration of independence from the laws of fashion, but in practice there has not been much of a break with Western styles. Instead of trying to develop a dress as distinctive as its political philosophy, the tendency has been toward imitation with limited materials and an even more limited pocketbook.

There is compensation for some of the deficiencies in the architecture of Leningrad. Probably neckties and felt hats are numerically as scarce here as in Moscow, and neither hats nor stockings are any more frequently worn by women. The graceful gray buildings, wide streets and neat parks of the city are European, however, and the crowd which moves across them absorbs their atmosphere.

Children Carefully Guarded.

The effect is especially noticeable where children are concerned. The youngest generation shows much more care in dress than the older ones. The children playing in the Toilers' Gardens, which stretch from the Winter Palace past the old Admiralty, are not very different in appearance from those in Central Park or the Tuileries.

Those who are out to enjoy the autumn sun in the small park between St. Isaac's Cathedral—now an anti-religious museum—and the equestrian statue of Nicholas I are equally well dressed. The woolen suit in tan, red or blue, set off by a stocking-cap with a bright pompom, is the prevailing style. A few wear fur coats.

The parks are a peculiar mixture in some ways. By far the greater number of children are playing under the care of mothers or individual nurses, yet always in the background are a few squads from a community nursery being taken out for regimented play.

Perambulators Rare.

There is another striking difference between the morning scenes in these parks and in other places. Perambulators are rare. To count six in a morning is unusual. Mothers and nurses have to carry children. Children below the walking age are wrapped in complicated arrangements of blankets until they look like Indian papooses, but they are carried in the arms.

The swaddling evidently is done with an eye for appearances. A mother's blue coat often will be matched by a wide blue stripe in a blanket, or a brown coat by a blanket of subdued red.

The very few toys are likely to be old-fashioned red wagons or simple hoops. Volley ball is the most popular game among the late teens and early twenties.

SEEKS LIFTING OF BAR ON SALES OF UTILITY'S STOCK

Martin Davis, Chicago, Asks Missouri Secretary of State to Revoke Order Suspending Permits.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 16. — Martin Davis, Chicago, Tuesday made his second appearance before Russell Maloney, State Securities Commissioner, in an attempt to induce the Secretary of State's office to lift without a formal hearing its July 31 order suspending securities sales permits of the American Gas and Electric Co.

Charging Howard C. Hopson, dominant figure in the American Gas and Electric system, drew "huge profits" while Missouri stockholders of that company were "paid no dividends," Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown ordered the suspension following testimony given during a recent Senate lobbying inquiry into profits allegedly drawn by Hopson. Davis admitted Hopson drew profits approximating $2,500,000 from payments of $8,000,000 to four Hopson-owned management companies for the American Gas and Electric system from 1929 to 1933, in additon to 60,000 annual salary.

Davis said the payments for service were "not excessive." Asker if any dividends for stockholders were forthcoming, Davis replied that "none were in sightiuntil company earnings justified it." The American Gas and Electric system has two subsidiaries that operate in a number of southeast and southwest Missouri towns. Davis is a representative of B. B. Robinson Co., midwest correspondent for the American Gas and Electric system.

Democrats Urged to Bar Negroes.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 16.—The wholly Democratic Legislature moved yesterday to exclude Negroes from the national Democratic convention. Both houses adopted a resolution stating "it is the sense of white Democrats of Texas that the Negro should not be recognized or seated as delegates in the 1936 national convention."

'BACK SEAT DRIVER' DEFINED BY PENNSYLVANIA JUDGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 16.—Back-seat driving is back-seat driving, even though the offender may be sitting in the front seat alongside the man at the wheel, says a Pennsylvania Court decision reported here by the West Publishing Co.

Judge James of the Superior Court in his opinion in Winters vs. York Motor Express Co., in discussing the charge of the lower court telling the jury to "also bear in mind that the law does not look with favor on back-seat drivers," said:

"The term 'back-seat driver' is not restricted to one sitting in the rear seat, but is usually applied to a highly nervous passenger whether sitting in the rear or by the driver, who by unwarranted advice and warnings interferes in the careful operation of the car, and in the sense in which it was used by the Court, taken in connection with the entire charge, we do not believe it gave the jury a false impression of the duty which a guest passenger owes to the driver of warning against threatened danger."

MRS. GEORGE E. HENSIEK DIES

Wife of City Fireman Succumbs to Results of Hip Fracture.

Mrs. George E. Hensiek, 57 years old, died yesterday at Missouri Baptist Hospital of complications resulting from a fractured hip suffered Sept. 23, when she fell down stairs at her home, 4200 Warne avenue. She was the wife of a city fireman.

PROWLER CAUGHT IN GROCERY

Has Mill Tokens and Tobacco; Escaped From Training School.

Policemen discovered the windows broken in the grocery of Peter Dickhart, 3510 Penrose street, early today, and entered the store. Crouched behind a counter the officers found Gilbert Cheanye, 20 years old, who escaped from the St. Louis Training School last night. His pockets contained mill tax tokens and tobacco, which he had picked up in the store. A Negro, who escaped from the Training School with him, fled when police approached the store.

OKLAHOMA HORSE WINS THREE-GAITED EVENT

Fine horses and skillful riders contributed to closely contested events last night at the St. Louis National Horse Show at The Arena, the gaited classes attracting especial interest.

Attendance at the second night of the show, which will close Saturday, was announced as 9000.

One of the outstanding events was the three-gaited class in which the etnrants were shown at a walk, trot and canter. The judges take into account performance, conformation, quality, style and manners.

Five-Gaited Mares.

Another close event was the class for five-gaited saddle mares, which presented a field of champions, won finally by Belle Le Rose, exhibited by Miss Mary Ballard of French Lick Springs, Ind. My Golden Dawn, from Mrs. Fletcher's stables, was second, and Anita Rose, owned by Miss Frances M. Dodge of Detroit, third.

Miss Dodge, who maintains stables at her Rochester, Mich., residence has 13 horses in the show and thus far has won four firsts, five seconds, six thirds, two fourths and a fifth place.

In the harness pony class, King of the Plain, owned by Miss Dodge, said to be the champion hackney pony of the world, obtained revenge on Braishfield Sonnet, of the Heyl Pony Farm, Washington, Ill., which defeated the King at Springfield recently.

The only spill of the evening occurred during the school horsemanship class when Miss Judith B. Davis, student at The Principia, took a tumble. She jumped up and remounted to continue in the event which was won by Miss Mary Doris Peters of Hosmer Hall.

The show, which includes nightly exhibition drills by a crack troop from the Fourteenth Cavalry, of Fort Dodge, Ia., will begin at 7:45 o'clock tonight with the hunt team class.

IDENTIFICATION BY JAWBONES

Dr. C. O. Simpson Says X-Ray Shows No Two Are Alike.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 16.—Detectives of the future are going to get some valuable assistance from the fact that an X-ray picture of a man's jawbone is about as good as a fingerprint for identification purposes, Dr. C. O. Simpson of St. Louis said today.

Dr. Simpson, professor at Washington University School of Dentistry, told the Western Pennsylvania Odontological Society he has studied 250,000 X-ray photographs and concluded that: "No two jawbones and teeth structures are identical."

WRIT BARS A. G. BLANKE AND SON FROM SELLING LAND

Receiver of Coffee Firm Gets Injunction in Suit Over Texas Oil Property.

A temporary injunction was issued today by Circuit Judge Max G. Baron preventing Albert G. Blanke and his son, Albert G. Blanke Jr., from exercising power of absolute ownership of 15 tracts of land in Texas.

The order was granted on petition of Chilton Atkinson, receiver of the C. F. Blanke Tea & Coffee Co., formerly in business at 904 South Fourteenth street, who alleged that the receivership estate has an 80 per cent interest in the property, which has been appraised at $152,490. However, it was said to have a potential value in excess of $1,000,000 due to the fact that valuable oil wells recently have come in, in the surrounding area. The receiver has a suit pending to enjoin the Blankes from transferring title.

The elder Blanke said he holds title to the land as trustee, having purchased the property at foreclosure, but he admitted the Blanke firm owns the interest claimed by the receiver. Certain leases, he said, were sold to his son for a consideration. The son denied that the receiver had an interest in the leases.

In granting the injunction Judge Baron found that the forms through which "a consideration was pretended were a sham and fraudulent" and that the Blankes were "dealing with the lands in a manner dangerous to the interest of the estate." The main consideration was $10 and a one-eighth interest in royalties from any oil produced. The various leases embraced nearly 800 acres.

ILLINOIS WOMAN, SON INDICTED IN KILLING OF HER HUSBAND

Youth Said to Have Admitted Shooting Stepfather, Throwing Body Alongside Road.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ill., Oct. 16.—The La Salle grand jury yesterday indicted Charles Ranzany, 19 years old, and his mother, Mrs. Cora Catherine Solio, 42, on a charge of killing her husband, Louis, 46.

Police officers said Ranzany confessed he shot and killed his stepfather and with his mother hid the body in a shed for a day, then took it in an automobile to Aux Sable Creek, eight miles east of Morris, and threw it alongside State Highway 7.

LONG FIGHT TO COLLECT LIABILITY INSURANCE LOST

Supreme Court Refuses Review to St. Louis Man; Auto Accident Not Disclosed in Application.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Dan C. Hesselberg, St. Louis salesman, has lost his long legal fight to compel the Aetna Insurance Co., to continue a $10,000 life insurance policy which included disability provisions.

The Supreme Court recently refused to review the case. Cancellation of the policy by the Eastern Missouri District Court because Hesselberg's application and medical examination did not disclose an automobile accident had been affirmed by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hesselberg asked the Supreme Court to review the case on the ground that lower courts had ignored a Missouri law which binds an insurance company on acts and knoweledge of its agents. The company contended Hesselberg's policy was by a broker, not an agent.

The salesman admitted he did not read certain papers before signing them, but contended two insurance firm officers and the examining doctor knew about the accident, which occurred after his first application Jan. 6, 1931, but before his medical examination. Hesselberg also contended he did not know his injuries were severe until more than a year later when he claimed total disability and asked $100 a month and waiver of premiums.

LONG FIGHT TO COLLECT LIABILITY INSURANCE LOST

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Dan C. Hesselberg, St. Louis salesman, has lost his long legal fight to compel the Aetna Insurance Co., to continue a $10,000 life insurance policy which included disability provisions.

The Supreme Court recently refused to review the case. Cancellation of the policy by the Eastern Missouri District Court because Hesselberg's application and medical examination did not disclose an automobile accident had been affirmed by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hesselberg asked the Supreme Court to review the case on the ground that lower courts had ignored a Missouri law which binds an insurance company on acts and knoweledge of its agents. The company contended Hesselberg's policy was by a broker, not an agent.

The salesman admitted he did not read certain papers before signing them, but contended two insurance firm officers and the examining doctor knew about the accident, which occurred after his first application Jan. 6, 1931, but before his medical examination. Hesselberg also contended he did not know his injuries were severe until more than a year later when he claimed total disability and asked $100 a month and waiver of premiums.

Total of 50 Cash Prizes,	$300.00

Here Are the Simple Rules:

The Football Knowledge Test is open to everyone except Post-Dispatch employes and members of their families. A brief explanatory letter must accompany each entry. Prizes will be awarded to participants whose entries are most accurate and whose explanations, in the opinion of the Football Scores Editor, are most logical and convincing.

The games on which the competition is based will be listed daily in the Post-Dispatch Sports Section up to and including Thursday, October 17. The competition will close at midnight, October 17, and entries must be postmarked before that time.

It is not necessary to use the entry form in the Post-Dispatch. Any piece of paper of approximately the same size will do.

You do not have to buy the Post-Dispatch to enter. Copies may be examined at public libraries or in the business office of the Post-Dispatch.

Only one entry may be submitted by each participant.

In the event of a tie for any award, the full amount of the award tied for will be paid to each tying participant. Names of successful participants will be published in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday, October 23.

The Football Scores Editor will be the sole judge of entries submitted and his decision must be accepted as final.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

We are expanding our operations in St. Louis and our progress calls for a number of new men of good character and adaptability. This is a permanent opportunity at substantial pay, and a good future with a financially strong, old company.

Inasmuch as there is nothing similar to our product, we cannot get men experienced in our system of sales work, so we require ability to learn, as well as diligence and responsibility.

Men selected will have to take the time to learn and acquire skill and, during this time, will have to be satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $100 to $135 per month.

No deposit nor investment, but good references required if we are to back you. Married men of good character, 23 to 50 years, given preference. Men selected will be given complete training without charge.

If you feel you can qualify, and if you really would appreciate the opportunity this position offers, call for personal interview Thursday morning, between 10 and 12:30, at 7363A Manchester Ave., Room 206, Maplewood, Mo. Men living in Maplewood, Richmond Heights, Webster Groves and vicinity given preference.

PAID DAILY $17.00 and $29.00 PAID DAILY

SUDDEN BREAK IN WHEAT OF 1 TO NEARLY 4 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Indications of a change in the Canadian Government policy of holding wheat for higher prices pitched wheat values downward in Chicago today. An extreme break of nearly 5 cents a bushel at one stage was witnessed in wheat prices here. Trading in Chicago was on a big scale.

Wheat closed flurried, 1⅞@3⅝c under yesterday's finish, Dec. $1.00⅜@⅝; corn, ⅜@⅞c down; Dec. 60¼@⅜c; oats, ⅜@⅝c off, and provisions varying from 22c setback to 12c advance.

For the first time since the wheat market collapse of July, 1933, "privileges" trading in grain future was resumed today. Closing bids in wheat ranged as much as 2½ cents below the market close and offerings were as much as 2 cents above.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 26,656,000 bushels, corn 4,215,000. Open interest in wheat was 123,637,000 bushels and in corn 26,848,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 16.—Grain futures, following the trend at Chicago, closed lower. December wheat was bid 3½c lower while December corn was offered ⅝c off.

Winnipeg wheat opened ¼@⅝c higher. The close was 3c net lower.

Liverpool wheat opened ½@⅝d higher and in one cable was 1@1¼d higher. The close was ⅝@⅞d higher.

Local wheat receipts, which were 40,500 bu, compared with 31,500 a week ago and 9000 a year ago, included 20 cars local and 7 through. Corn receipts, which were 6000 bu, compared with 7500 a week ago and 19,500 a year ago, included 3 cars local and 1 through. Oats receipts, which were 6000 bu, compared with 6000 a week ago and 18,000 a year ago, included 3 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1@2c lower; corn unchanged to ½c lower and oats steady.

MILL FEED FUTURES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 16.—Mill feed futures were weak and lower Wednesday, due to sharp decline of grain options. Trading was slow. Closing price changes for local deliveries were: Bran, 35@45c lower; gray shorts, 20@35c lower. For Chicago deliveries: Bran, 35@55c lower; standard middlings, 20@45c lower. Sales totaled 700 tons.

SUDDEN BREAK IN WHEAT OF 1 TO NEARLY 4 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Indications of a change in the Canadian Government policy of holding wheat for higher prices pitched wheat values downward in Chicago today. An extreme break of nearly 5 cents a bushel at one stage was witnessed in wheat prices here. Trading in Chicago was on a big scale.

Wheat closed flurried, 1⅞@3⅝c under yesterday's finish, Dec., $1.00⅜@⅝; corn, ⅜@⅞c down; Dec. 60¼@⅜c; oats, ⅜@⅝c off, and provisions varying from 22c setback to 12c advance.

Strength of the Liverpool market induced buying of wheat in the first part of the session but sentiment changed suddenly.

December wheat in Chicago showed at one stage a break of more than 4 cents a bushel from today's top point. Chicago May wheat dropped to below $1. October wheat at Winnipeg sold at 88⅝c, off 3 cents, the maximum decline permitted for one day's trading.

For the first time since the wheat market collapse of July, 1933, "privileges" trading in grain future was resumed today. Closing bids in wheat ranged as much as 2½ cents below the market close and offerings were as much as 2 cents above.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 26,656,000 bushels, corn 4,215,000. Open interest in wheat was 123,637,000 bushels and in corn 26,848,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE. Oct. 16.—Grain futures, following the trend at Chicago, closed lower. December wheat was bid 3½c lower while December corn was offered ⅝c off.

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅛@⅝c higher. The close was 3c net lower.

Liverpool wheat opened ½@⅝d higher and in one cable was 1@1¼d higher. The close was ⅜@⅞d higher.

Local wheat receipts, which were 40,500 bu, compared with 31,500 a week ago and 9000 a year ago, included 20 cars local and 7 through. Corn receipts, which were 6000 bu, compared with 7500 a week ago and 19,500 a year ago, included 3 cars local and 1 through. Oats receipts, which were 6000 bu, compared with 6000 a week ago and 18,000 a year ago, included 3 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1@2c lower; corn unchanged to ½c lower and oats steady.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION FOR WEEK ENDED OCT. 12

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Daily averages gross crude oil production in the United States increased 62,150 barrels in the week ended Oct. 12, totaling 2,781,750 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 47,450 barrels to 2,139,550 barrels.

Refineries representing 89.5 per cent of estimated total capacity, operating at 75.1 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,558,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 89.5 per cent of total, operated at 74.0 per cent of capacity, was 2,519,000 barrels.

Finished gasoline stocks at refineries totaled 24,427,000 barrels against 25,204,000. Unfinished gasoline stocks totaled 5,256,000 barrels against 5,415,000 barrels.

Daily average cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.9 per cent of total charging capacity was 559,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week by refineries representing 95.9 per cent of total was 582,000 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 751,000 barrels, a daily average of 107,286 barrels, against 953,000 barrels, a daily average of 136,143 barrels for the previous week. Daily average receipts in bond for re-export six months ended August, 1935, were 53,300 barrels, while the daily average imports for domestic demand last six months of 1932 were 98,000 barrels.

COTTON CLOSE UNCHANGED TO 2 UP, BARELY STEADY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Early advances on continued trade buying and covering met somewhat increased hedging and realizing and were followed by moderate afternoon reactions. December, after selling up to 10.92, was ruling around 10.86, with the general market about 3 to 4 points net higher in the late trading.

Futures closed barely steady, unchanged to 2 higher. October, 10.87; December, 10.84-85; January, 10.84; March, 10.91; May, 10.95; July, 10.99n; spot, steady; middling, 11.25.

Hedging was comparatively light and the market worked up slightly after the call on a continued trade demand for domestic and foreign account. December sold at 10.89 and May at 11.03, with active months showing net gains of 6 to 10 points at the end of the first hour.

The weekly weather report indicated that picking and ginning had made good progress in most sections.

Prices continued steady to firm later in the morning. Trade buying was accompanied by reports of a continued active demand in the South and some firming of the basis in some sections. December sold up 10.91 and May to 11.04, making net advances of about 9 to 11 points, and the market at midday was steady within a point or two of these figures.

STOCK RISE IS CHECKED BY SLUMP IN GRAINS

Market Rallies Under Lead of Carriers, Following Opening Sag, but Final Trade Is Marked by Mixture of Gains and Losses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A slump in Chicago and Winnipeg wheat acted as a check on the stock market today. Shares tried to rally for a time under leadership of the rails, after absorbing a flood of profit-taking early, but turned irregular again in the late trading. The final dealings were marked by a mixture of gains and losses, some of as much as a point or two. Transfers approximated 2,200,000 shares.

Most of the motor shares held firmly, although Chrysler slipped back a couple of points. Others off a point or two included such recent strong spots as Westinghouse, du Pont, Case, National Steel and Air Reduction. Anaconda lost about a point, and other coppers were soggy. In rails, Union Pacific rose 4 points, then lost most of its gain. Miscellaneous issues still up a point or two in the final trading included Schenley, Pullman, Container Corp. "A," Spiegel May Stern, American Can and Celanese.

Grain and Exchanges.

Wheat futures at Chicago closed 1⅞ to 3⅝ cents a bushel lower. Other grains held up better, with corn off only ⅝ to ¾ of a cent. Export copper, recently quoted as high at 9.15 cents a pound, was down to 8.75 cents. Domestic held at 9.25 cents. Cotton futures were about steady, closing unchanged to 10 cents a bale higher.

The Italian lira ruled .01 of a cent higher at 8.14½ cents. Gold currencies were mixed. The Swiss franc sagged with the Holland guilder for a time, and ruled .02 of a cent lower at 32.56 cents. French francs were steady, around 6.59¼ cents and sterling at $4.91¼ was up ½ cent.

On News of the Day.

The Edison Electric Institute reported power production in the week ended Oct. 12, had climbed to another record high at 1,867,127,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 12.7 per cent over the comparable 1934 week.

"Iron Age" found that, while steel output has apparently risen as much as it can without the benefit of heavy automobile tonnage, "the current week offers convincing evidence that the desired support from the motor car makers is commencing."

It was noted that "the well sustained requirements of farm implement makers and the steady movement of steel products into miscellaneous consumption are doing much to maintain ingot production."

Carloadings and Earnings.

Early estimates of freight car loadings for the past week—the official figures will be published Friday—place the total at around 750,000 cars. This would be the highest aggregate since October, 1931, and would compare with 706,877 in the previous week and 635,639 in the like week of 1934.

Bright earnings statements of some corporations continued. Among the latest were: Westinghouse, third quarter, net profit of $2,557,500, or 96 cents a share, against a loss of $332,100 in the same period last year; du Pont, $1.48 a share in the September quarter against $1.24 last year; Caterpillar Tractor, nine months, $2.29 against $1.56 in the 1934 period.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Packard 5¾, up ½; Gen Motors 49⅛, unchanged; Chrysler 81, down 1½; Nat Distill 31¾, up ⅛; Celanese 28⅞, up 1¼; Murray Corp 18⅝, up ½; N Y Central 22¾, unchanged; Bendix Avia 23½, up ⅜; Radio 7⅞, down ¼; Western Union 57, up ½; Nat Dairy Prod 18, up ¼; Hudson Mot 15¼, up ¼; Anaconda 20⅞, down ⅞; Allied Strs 7½, up ⅛; U. S. Steel 45¼, down 1.

JEFFERSON BANK AND TRUST BOND EXCHANGE PROPOSAL

A special meeting of the stockholders of Jefferson Bank & Trust Co. has been called for Dec. 16, to vote on a proposal of the board of directors to sell the $150,000 outstanding capital notes "A" now held by the RFC and to issue to the RFC revised capital notes "A" in exchange of the same amount and with the same maturity date. The new issue would bear interest rates of 5 per cent to March 31, 1934; 4 per cent to Jan. 31, 1935; 3½ per cent to Jan. 31, 1940 and 4 per cent thereafter.

Another proposition to be voted on is the selling of $100,000 "B" capital notes now outstanding.

PIANO SHIPMENTS INCREASE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Piano shipments for September showed a 39 per cent increase over August and a 41 per cent increase over September, 1934, W. A. Mennie, secretary of the National Piano Manufacturers Association, reports.

Shipments of pianos for the first nine months of 1935 were the largest of any making in similar period since the association began monthly reports in January, 1931. Shipments for the period were 23 per cent ahead of 1934, 91 per cent ahead of 1933, 115 per cent ahead of 1932 and 6 per cent above 1931.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—International affairs and the forthcoming general elections restricted business on the Stock Exchange today. Investment buying helped to firm the prices of gilt-edged securities, base metal shares and some industrials. Wall Street reports also helped oil stocks but other sections dropped and the market closed irregular.

PARIS.—Suez Canal and Egyptian shares slumped on the Bourse today along with other international issues. Speculators withheld from the market due to the uncertainty over the international situation. Rentes declined while industrial issues moved irregularly. The market closed heavy.

BERLIN.—Prices were weak throughout today's session on the Boerse with few supporting orders.

A part of the cash required for the redemption will come from the proceeds of the company's recent sale of a portion of its interest in the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. to the Atlas Corp. and banking firm of Lehman Brothers.

Frank E. Seidman, Chicago, today asserted furniture sales were "pointing sharply upward" for the first time in eight years. Addressing the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, Seidman said: "During the first three-quarters of 1935, the industry's activity rose some 33 per cent above 1934, and present prospects indicate that the industry will attain a 1935 volume of somewhere around $300,000,000 in 1934. The 1935 volume should closely approach that for 1931 when about $320,000,000 of business was garnered."

TEXTILE MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Cotton gray goods were fairly active Wednesday with higher prices paid on narrow sheetings. Wash goods were in heavy demand from wholesalers. Raw silk was advanced as much as 3 cents a pound by some dealers, while others left lists unchanged. Silk fabrics were in moderate call. Wool goods were steady. Rayon cloths were sold in fair quantities, with prices firm. Burlap was quiet, with prices slightly easier.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)—All grades of territory wools had a call at firm to slightly higher prices. Average to good French combing 64s and finer territory wools brought 77-78 cents scoured basis. Choice French combing and average strictly combing together of similar grade sold at 78-79 cents scoured basis. Fall Texas wools moved at around 70 cents. Ohio and similar fleece wools were slow because of the limited quantities available, and quotations were very firm.

Newspaper Advertising Record.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—"Printers' Ink" reported today that actual newspaper advertising lineage increased in September from August but that the magazine's index declined to 75.5 per cent of the 1928-32 average in September from 78.6 per cent in the previous month. In September, 1934, the index was at 71.8. "September newspaper advertising normally registers a pick-up over August, and, although actual lineage for September of this year exceeds August, the decline in the adjusted index shows that the gain for September is smaller than the normal seasonal increase," it said.

'IRON AGE' REPORT ON STEEL OUTLOOK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—"Steel production has apparently risen as high as it can without the benefit of heavy automobile tonnage," says the Iron Age. "Ingot production this week is unchanged at 52 per cent of capacity, the level from which it has not fluctuated more than half a point in the last six weeks. This period coincides almost exactly with the low point in automobile assemblies occasioned by the fall change to new models.

"The current week offers convincing evidence that the desired support from the motor car makers is commencing. Heavier releases for sheets, bars and strip steel are reported in all districts serving the automobile industry, and the week's most significant gains in steel production are reported from Cleveland and the valleys. Production is unchanged at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Wheeling, but a net gain in national output was prevented by a three and one-half point drop to 55½ per cent of capacity at Chicago.

"The November change to new models still remains an experiment, and the fact that so few important innovations in design have been made has led to the belief that winter selling may not be as easy as it now looks. However, the steel industry stands to benefit in the long run as new models are 50 to 175 pounds heavier. The adoption of steel tops alone adds 30 pounds per car and may add 35,000 tons to the industry's requirements next year.

Farm and Rail Outlook.

"The well sustained requirements of farm implement makers and the steady movement of steel products into miscellaneous consumption are doing much to maintain ingot production. Heavy demand is reported from makers of kitchen utensils, refrigerators, washing machine tubs, stoves and barrels. This has led to higher sheet and strip mill output in some districts, and cold finished bar makers have stepped up production sharply in response to increased activity in the machine tool and machinery industry.

"Railroad buying still is lacking, but prospects are much better in the Middle West, where a shortage of freight cars is becoming more pronounced. Some of the carriers finally have admitted that they must either buy rolling stock or undertake large repair programs. In the East, however, the situation is not so encouraging. One large road has 85,000 tons of rails on its right of way and others have relatively large amounts. Nor is a shortage of freight cars apparent in that section.

Shipbuilding, Construction.

"While shipbuilding activity has been largely confined to Navy work, private initiative has appeared with plans for the construction of an ocean liner which will require 15,000 tons of plates. Three car ferries at New York will take 3600 tons and a number of shipyards are busy on repair work and the construction of smaller craft. New Navy projects include two floating drydocks to be built on the Pacific Coast which will take 43,120 tons of steel.

"Demand for construction steel continues at a relatively low ebb, although the amount of pending work involving large tonnages continues to grow. Fabricated structural steel awards this week total only 5400 tons, compared with 20,100 tons last week, while new projects call for only 9100 tons, compared with 47,365 tons. The Passamaquoddy power project in Maine will require 20,000 tons of sheet steel piling.

"Steel piling makers are also figuring on a number of other public projects. . . . 1400 tons for an ocean terminal at Morehead City, N. C., is likely to be bought in Germany on a bid 15 per cent under United States quotations. This is in accordance with a PWA ruling of last May.

Finished Steel Stronger.

"The finished steel price structure is generally stronger. Shading is still reported on billets, the price of which was advanced Oct. 1, but plate quotations are more regular and the wide variance in jobber prices on reinforcing bars is being corrected by the distributors.

"Establishment of quantity differentials on merchant bars seems to have mollified the larger buyers who brought pressure for lower quotations after the code went into the discard. The Iron Age composite price of finished steel is unchanged at 2.130c a pound.

"Scrap prices are steady in line with steel ingot operations. Purchase of 30,000 tons by a Chicago district consumer reaffirmed the prevailing level there, but few tests of the market have been offered in other important districts. The Iron Age composite scrap price is unchanged at $12.67 a ton. Pig iron buying continues active with prices strong. The composite price is holding at $17.84 a ton."

CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS CORP. ABSORBS ILLINOIS STEEL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Illinois Steel Co. has notified the committee on stock list of the New York Stock Exchange of the terms of merger of the new Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, subsidiary of U. S. Steel Corporation, the Exchange announces.

It was revealed by the committee on stock list that Illinois Steel on Oct. 1 sold to Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation its South works at South Chicago, Ill., its Stockton property in Lake County, Ind., and its electric power transmission lin between its South works and Buffington, Gary, Ind.

The sale was made in consideration of 199,218 shares of the capital stock of Carnegie-Illinois par value, $100.

Illinois Steel Co. also leased its Joliet works to the Carnegie-Illinois for a rental equal to the sum of the depreciation growing out of its use by the lessee, 4 per cent upon the amount of the net book value of the investment of Illinois Steel Co. in the leased property and all taxes and assessments on the leased property.

United States Steel owns or controls the entire capital stock of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said yesterday construction of a $20,000,000 semi-continuous shear plate mill at Homestead will be started Jan. 15. Plans call for completion of the new division of the Homestead plant by May 30, 1936. The American Bridge Co., another subsidiary of the United States Steel, received the contract for construction of the plant as a part of a $140,000,000 expansion and rehabilitation program. The construction plans call for 10,000,000 man hours of work, 4200 carloads of materials and use of nine acres of ground.

Purchase of 30,000 tons by a Chicago district consumer reaffirmed the prevailing level there, but few tests of the market have been offered in other important districts. The Iron Age composite scrap price is unchanged at $12.67 a ton. Pig iron buying continues active with prices strong. The composite price is holding at $17.84 a ton."

CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS CORP. ABSORBS ILLINOIS STEEL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Illinois Steel Co. has notified the committee on stock list of the New York Stock Exchange of the terms of merger of the new Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, subsidiary of U. S. Steel Corporation, the Exchange announces.

It was revealed by the committee on stock list that Illinois Steel on Oct. 1 sold to Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation its South works at South Chicago, Ill., its Stockton property in Lake County, Ind., and its electric power transmission lin between its South works and Buffington, Gary, Ind. The sale was made in consideration of 199,218 shares of the capital stock of Carnegie-Illinois par value, $100.

Illinois Steel Co. also leased its Joliet works to the Carnegie-Illinois for a rental equal to the sum of the depreciation growing out of its use by the lessee, 4 per cent upon the amount of the net book value of the investment of Illinois Steel Co. in the leased property and all taxes and assessments on the leased property.

United States Steel owns or controls the entire capital stock of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said yesterday construction of a $20,000,000 semi-continuous shear plate mill at Homestead will be started Jan. 15. Plans call for completion of the new division of the Homestead plant by May 30, 1936. The American Bridge Co., another subsidiary of the United States Steel, received the contract for construction of the plant as a part of a $140,000,000 expansion and rehabilitation program. The construction plans call for 10,000,000 man hours of work, 4200 carloads of materials and use of nine acres of ground.

CURB QUIET AND IRREGULAR; SOME MODEST GAINS MADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Curb market stocks were quiet and irregular today, with losses predominating among metals, oils and utilities. Specialties and industrials made modest progress. Trading was less active and changes were in most cases small.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Raw sugar was unchanged today. There was a further buying interest at last paid prices of $3.60 for spots and a sale confirmed of 9000 bags of Philippines from store with storage paid to Nov. 3 to a local refiner.

Futures opened unchanged to two points decline and after the call showed net loses of one to three points under increased trade and commission house liquidation. Later there was a renewal of covering and trade buying against sales of actuals and nearly all the decline was recovered. December sold from $2.49 to $2.50 and May from $2.11 to $2.13, or unchanged to one point net lower, with the market at midday ruling around the higher levels.

Refined was unchanged at $5.30 for fine granulated.

Futures No. 3, closed steady, unchanged to 1 lower; sales 6050 tons. Dec., 2.49b; Jan., 2.12b; Mch., 2.10b; May, 2.13b; July, 2.17b; Sept., 2.21b.

OUTPUT OF ELECTRIC POWER AT ALL-TIME RECORD HIGH

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—For the second successive week output of electric power soared to an all-time record high. The Associated Press adjusted weekly index of electric power production remained unchanged at 101.6. A year ago the index stood at 93.4.

The index, based on 1929-30 as 100, is adjusted for seasonal and long term trends. The range of recent years follows:

Low	94.1	91.9	80.2

The Edison Electric Institute reported today that electricity production for the week ended Oct. 12 totaled 1,867,127,000 kilowatt hours, an upturn of 1.6 per cent over the preceding week and 12.7 per cent over the corresponding week of 1934. The fact that the index did not change indicated that the rise over the preceding week coincided with the seasonal trend.

Power output in all sections of the United States made gains over the like week last year. Percentage gains were: New England, 13.9; Middle Atlantic, 7.6; Central Industrial, 18.7; West Central, 11.5; Southern States, 5.8; Rocky Mountain, 29.6, and Pacific Coast, 6.5.

200,000 New Gas Customers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Manufactured and natural gas companies gained nearly 200,000 customers during the first eight months of this year, the American Gas Association reports. The association also states that 640,000 gas ranges were sold in the country during the first eight months, an increase of 30 per cent over the sales for the corresponding period last year.

GOVERNMENTS LEAD ADVANCE IN BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—U. S. Government issues supplies leadership for an advancing movement in the bond market today. Closing around their best levels, Treasury loans were 2-32ds to 9-32ds of a point higher, while the guaranteed group showed gains ranging from 4-32ds to 8-32ds.

Corporate classifications were steady to firm over most of the list. In some cases support petered out in the late trading and early gains were shaded or canceled, but the closing range showed a majority of advances.

Final prices were one to five points higher for loans of Missouri-Kansas-Texas, New Haven, Postal Telegraph, American Writing Paper, New York, Ontario & Western, Southern Railway and Murray Body. Kansas City Southern 3s weakened in the late trading, closing down 3⅝. Some of the secondary utility loans closed at moderate net declines.

Raw Hide Futures.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Raw hide futures closed barely steady, 2 to 5 lower.

The following is merely a brief outline of certain information contained in the Offering Prospectus and is subject to the more detailed statements in the Offering Prospectus and the Registration Statement, which also include important information not outlined or indicated herein. The Offering Prospectus, which must be furnished to each purchaser, should be read prior to any purchase of these Bonds.

THE COMPANY Illinois Bell Telephone Company, over 99% of the stock of which is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is one of the associated telephone companies comprising the Bell System. The Company, incorporated in Illinois on January 14, 1881, is engaged in the telephone business in the State of Illinois (except a portion adjacent to St. Louis) and in two counties in the northwestern part of the State of Indiana. The Company's properties consist principally of telephone instruments and facilities for their inter-connection, the latter consisting chiefly of central office switching equipment and connecting lines. The business of the Company is subject to regulation, within their respective jurisdictions, by the Federal Communications Commission, the Illinois Commerce Commission, and the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

CAPITALIZATION	Outstanding as of June 30, 1935
First and Refunding Mortgage Five Per Cent. Gold Bonds, Series A, due June 1, 1956 ($50,000,000 of this series authorized)	$48,726,200.00
Common Stock (1,500,000 shares, par value $100 per share, authorized and outstanding)	150,000,000.00

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The net proceeds to the Company from the contemplated sale of the $45,000,000 Series B Bonds, after deducting the estimated expenses of the Company in connection with such sale, are expected to approximate $44,967,000, and are to be applied, together with funds to be obtained from the Company's current cash and temporary cash investments, to the retirement of the Series A Bonds which the Company is calling for redemption on December 1, 1935, at 105% and accrued interest.

EARNINGS The Income Statements in the Offering Prospectus (which must be read in conjunction with the notes thereon and appended thereto) show the following as the Company's Operating Revenues, Total Income (the amount available for Fixed Charges), Fixed Charges (all interest charges and amortization of discount on funded debt), and Net Income, during the three and one-half years ended June 30, 1935:

Years Ended December 31	Operating Revenues	Total Income	Fixed Charges	Net Income

†Six Months ended June 30.

The 1934 figures reflect substantial adjustments in the accounts, made after the decision in the Chicago Rate Case, and described in notes appended to the Income Statements appearing in the Offering Prospectus. The 1934 figures must not be used for comparative or other purposes without giving consideration to the notes so appended.*

SERIES B BONDS The Series B Bonds, in the opinion of counsel for the Company, will be secured by a lien on substantially all of the physical property owned by the Company in the State of Illinois and appertaining to or useful in the transaction of its business in that State. Upon the redemption of the Series A Bonds, the Series B Bonds will constitute the only then existing indebtedness secured by lien on such property, other than taxes and assessments.

Series B Bonds are limited to the amount of $45,000,000 now authorized. The Mortgage, however, permits the issuance of additional bonds of other series, which would rank pari passu with the Series B Bonds.

The Mortgage permits the Company, in certain instances, to dispose of property covered by the Mortgage without a release from or notice to the Trustee, and also provides for releases and substitutions of such property. No notice is required to be given to bondholders in connection with any such disposal, release or substitution.

There is to be paid to a trustee to be used as a sinking fund in purchasing Series B Bonds, but only if obtainable at not exceeding their principal amount and accrued interest, the sum of $250,000, on April 1, 1936, and semi-annually thereafter; provided, however, that any unexpended balance in the fund on any semi-annual payment date is to be credited on account of the payment due on that date.

UNDERWRITING Subject to certain terms and conditions, certain underwriters named in the Offering Prospectus have severally agreed to purchase an aggregate of $43,700,000 of these Bonds from the Company at 100½%, or a total of $43,918,500, plus accrued interest. Such Bonds are to be offered to the public at 102½%, or a total of $44,792,500, plus accrued interest. The underwriting discounts are 2% or a total of $874,000. It is expected that delivery of such Bonds to the underwriters, and payment therefor, is to be made on or about October 22, 1935. There is no firm commitment for the remaining $1,300,000 of Bonds, but the Company expects to sell such Bonds on or before December 1, 1935, without underwriting discounts or commissions, to the Trustee of Pension Funds established by the Company and by other companies of the Bell System, at 100½%, or a total of $1,306,500, plus accrued interest.

Price 102½% and Accrued Interest

The Underwriters have agreed to purchase $43,700,000 of these Bonds when, as and if issued, and subject to the approval of Messrs. Davis Polk Wardwell Gardiner & Reed, counsel for the Underwriters, and Messrs. Cutting, Moore & Sidley, counsel for the Company. It is expected that delivery of Bonds in temporary form will be made at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. on or about October 22, 1935, against payment therefor in New York funds.

Further information, in particular financial statements, is contained in the Registration Statement on file with the Commission, and in the Offering Prospectus which must be furnished to each purchaser and is obtainable only from such of the undersigned as are registered dealers in securities in this State.

RIVAL WELSH MINERS FIGHT 800 FEET BELOW SURFACE

Union Officers Meet to Decide Whether to Extend "Stay Down" Strike to 176,000 Workers.

By the Associated Press.

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 16.—Men rioted far underground in the Wales coal fields today while meetings were held here to decide whether the coal strike should be extended to include 176,000 men.

Rival miners fought with their fists 800 feet below the surface at Trelewis, Glamorgan, and several suffered minor injuries. Crowds marched from Trelewis and Bedlinog to the pits, but reinforced police held them in check, although baton charges were ordered at several points. Several demonstrators were injured and a villager fell dead from over-excitement.

A conference of union officers here was expected to decide tonight whether to extend the strike — which now includes 2400 miners who were remaining underground. The "stay down" strike was begun by 150 miners at the Nine-Mile Point colliery at Newport, Monmouthshire, last week.

Good-bye COLD!

When This Famous Tablet Gets on the Job!

It's just too bad for a cold when you take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. For this famous tablet soon has the cold on its way. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine acts quickly and decisively because it is expressly a cold tablet and because it gets at a cold from the inside.

Quick relief is had with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine because it is a definite treatment. It does four important things. It opens the bowels, combats the infection in the system, relieves the headache and fever and tones and fortifies the system. Don't be satisfied with anything less than that. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist's. Ask for it by the full name and resent a substitute.

U. S. ALCOHOL AGENCY RE-DEFINES LIQUORS

Drafts Tentative Regulations and Will Hold Hearings on Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Federal Alcohol Administration re-defined whisky tentatively today to "conform with the march of science in distilling."

The new definitions were contained in tentative regulations issued by Franklin C. Hoyt, Federal Alcohol Administrator. Hearings on the proposed new rules will be held Oct. 30 and 31, after which the final draft will have the effect of law.

The definitions include:

Straight whisky, a product which has been aged in charred oak barrels for a minimum of one year before bottling. By June 30, 1936, the FAA hopes to extend this aging requirement to two years.

Blended whisky, a product containing at least 20 per cent of one-year-old straight whisky.

The single word whisky will be used to label "all distillates from grain distilled at more than 160 degrees proof, regardless of age, and all of the immature distillates distilled at less than 160 proof and aged for less than a year."

Labels on whisky stating the age will be required as in the past.

Gin means gin and there are, in the tentative regulations, no more distinctions between "distilled" and "compound" gin, on the ground that "the product is substantially the same whether distilled or compound."

The standards of identity for Scotch whisky, Irish whisky, brandy, rum, cordials and liqueurs "have not been substantially altered," the FAA said.

Indecent advertising and "statements with reference to the therapeutic or curative effects of the product," which would mislead the customer also are barred in the proposed rules.

Officials explained that when the new administrator took office three weeks ago definitions set up by the old Federal Alcohol Administration had been outmoded by new stills perfected by science.

"Our old regulations for straight whisky would fit alcohol as now manufactured," an official said.

Aging requirements are stiffened in the new rules with the explanation that "shortly following repeal there was no appreciable stock of aged whisky in the country and therefore, in former standards of identity, this fact had to be taken into consideration."

800 STRIKERS BACK AT JOBS IN HARTFORD, ILL., TANNERY

Settlement Arranged in International Shoe Co. Walkout, Called May 20.

About 800 workers who have been on strike since May 20 returned to their jobs today at the International Shoe Co. tannery at Hartford, Ill. It was agreed that the cases of former employes who are objectionable to the company shall be presented by company representatives to Col. R. W. Davis of Carbondale, representative of Gov. Horner.

The dispute over the employes was the only question that stood in the way of a final settlement of the strike. An attempt to reopen the tannery Oct. 2 failed when hundreds of strike pickets turned back all workers seeking to enter the plant.

The strike was called by the United Leather Workers' International Union, Local No. 31, following a dispute over the company's refusal to re-employ a union member who had been laid off. The company contended the worker's place had been taken by a man with a longer service record.

HAMILTON STATE BANK LIQUIDATORS SEEK RFC LOAN

Asks for Authority to Borrow $40,000 for 20 Pct. Distribution to Depositors.

Authority to borrow $40,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make possible a 20 per cent distribution to creditors of the closed Hamilton State Bank was sought in a petition filed in Circuit Judge Baron's court today by Oscar Wibbing, Deputy State Finance Commissioner in charge of liquidating the bank.

The court ordered a hearing Oct. 29. Present approved claims against the bank total $318,594, according to William H. Biggs, attorney for the liquidator, who said the RFC loan would be augmented by funds already on hand in making the distribution.

A 10 per cent payment of $32,677 was made in March, 1934, after the bank borrowed about $80,000 from the RFC. This loan has been paid off, Biggs said.

LORIUS PARTY CLEW FAILS

Transient Released at Fort Wayne After Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 16.—Authorities released a transient shelter resident today after Federal agents said investigation indicated he had no connection with the mysterious disappearance in New Mexico last May of four Illinois tourists. Officers said transient shelter records showed he was living here when the tourists disappeared. The tourists were Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius of East St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Du Quoin.

The Necessity Of Spiritual Instruction

Discussion of Parents' Duty in Teaching Children About Goodness.

By Elsie Robinson

I DON'T know what we can do about it, or even what we ought to do about it, but it seems to me dreadful that our children should grow up without any spiritual instruction.

Mind you, I'm not saying "religious instruction." For it's plain that any effort to provide such courses in our public schools would start endless, bitter controversy. But it's appalling that youngsters should be allowed to grow from infancy to maturity without some sort of daily contact with the things of the spirit — some daily glimpse of those shining visions which have lifted men above the beasts.

Elsie Robinson

Things weren't any better a generation ago, as far as the schools went. But the whole atmosphere of life was different. There was a sort of social conscience then — a general attitude about honesty and courage, purity and tenderness, that no child could escape. As if goodness were a going business in which everyone was a partner. It wasn't confined to the "nice" people or the "nice" places. It was everywhere. You couldn't any more dodge that side of life than you could dodge the air or the rain.

Of course, most of us went to Sunday school too. Sunday school took the place of all sorts of modern diversions—movies and automobiling. It was our social as well as our religious center. But I doubt if, in the long run, it was any more instrumental in civilizing us youngsters than the general social attitude.

I'm always amazed when I read these explosive denunciations of youthful criminals. What else can we expect? We've trained them since they were babies to function in a purely materialistic world. We've advocated shrewdness, power—eulogized men and women who "made good." And, to the simple mind of the average tenement child, what can "making good" possibly mean but making money? Lots of money—as rapidly and ruthlessly as possible. Then why, I repeat, should we be surprised when that child puts our preaching into practice at his or her first opportunity?

Or the girls. We're horrified when a girl "goes wrong." But attend any movie house for one month and try to imagine yourself into the mind of 12-year-old Bessie, creeping away from the cluttered sordidness of some modern apartment, to dream of Prince Charming. What answer does the modern film give to that young dream? Who lives in those glamorous penthouses, those enchanting villas—and how do they contrive to live there? And how does it all add up for shabby little Bess?

And the story of Jesus—A child growing up and never knowing of His friendliness—how brave He was—how kind to little children. Never knowing Him!—even the thought of it fills me with a sense of loss. Not religious at all. But a terrible lack, like never having had a friend—or a dog. Or never seeing the mountains—or the sea! Yet there are thousands of youngsters like that. It's getting so that it's odd to find one who does know Him!

All these amazing new departments of education—all those floods and floods of scientific information—but never a word, in all the day, of that lovely, mysterious world of the spirit which lies like a shining sheath around the small, dark kernel of our materialism. Then we wonder why they're little barbarians—those babies of ours—charming, intelligent but spiritually blind, deaf and dumb!

Isn't there something we can do—we older ones? Get together, somehow—lay aside our intolerance and suspicion, remembering only the small ones cradled in those tender arms, and the stern voice crying down the years—"WHOSOEVER SHALL OFFEND ONE OF THESE LITTLE ONES . . . IT IS BETTER FOR HIM THAT A MILLSTONE WERE HANGED ABOUT HIS NECK AND HE WERE CAST INTO THE SEA."

Anti-Monarchist Clash in Athens.

ATHENS, Oct. 16.—Five persons, including a policeman, were wounded last night in an outbreak of shooting on Constitution Square during an anti-monarchist demonstration. Communists and supporters of the exiled leader Venizelos shouted "Long live the republic."

Of course, most of us went to Sunday school too. Sunday school took the place of all sorts of modern diversions—movies and automobiling. It was our social as well as our religious center. But I doubt if, in the long run, it was any more instrumental in civilizing us youngsters than the general social attitude.

I'm always amazed when I read these explosive denunciations of youthful criminals. What else can we expect? We've trained them since they were babies to function in a purely materialistic world. We've advocated shrewdness, power—eulogized men and women who "made good." And, to the simple mind of the average tenement child, what can "making good" possibly mean but making money? Lots of money—as rapidly and ruthlesly as possible. Then why, I repeat, should we be surprised when that child puts our preaching into practice at his or her first opportunity?

Or the girls. We're horrified when a girl "goes wrong." But attend any movie house for one month and try to imagine yourself into the mind of 12-year-old Bessie, creeping away from the cluttered sordidness of some modern apartment, to dream of Prince Charming. What answer does the modern film give to that young dream? Who lives in those glamorous penthouses, those enchanting villas—and how do they contrive to live there? And how does it all add up for shabby little Bess?

And the story of Jesus—A child growing up and never knowing of His friendliness—how brave He was—how kind to little children. Never knowing Him!—even the thought of it fills me with a sense of loss. Not religious at all. But a terrible lack, like never having had a friend—or a dog. Or never seeing the mountains—or the sea! Yet there are thousands of youngsters like that. It's getting so that it's odd to find one who does know Him!

All these amazing new departments of education—all those floods and floods of scientific information—but never a word, in all the day, of that lovely, mysterious world of the spirit which lies like a shining sheath around the small, dark kernel of our materialism. Then we wonder why they're little barbarians—those babies of ours—charming, intelligent but spiritually blind, deaf and dumb!

Isn't there something we can do—we older ones? Get together, somehow—lay aside our intolerance and suspicion, remembering only the small ones cradled in those tender arms, and the stern voice crying down the years—"WHOSOEVER SHALL OFFEND ONE OF THESE LITTLE ONES . . . IT IS BETTER FOR HIM THAT A MILLSTONE WERE HANGED ABOUT HIS NECK AND HE WERE CAST INTO THE SEA."

Leadable Sequence

By
Ely Culbertson

WHEN a suit is headed by three adjacent honors, the question of which card to lead is simplified. You lead the top of any sequence except with an ace-king, for which the proper lead is the king.

Ely Culbertson

The problem is far more complicated when you hold a suit headed by only two honors: King-queen, queen-jack, or jack-ten. Take an apparently innocuous suit, queen-jack-6-2, and suppose, willy-nilly, you have to lead from this dreadful suit? Should you lead, against trump or no trump bids, an honor or a low card? You undoubtedly will gain by leading the queen if the king is on your left and your partner is fortunate enough to hold the ace and ten. But in many other cases you will lose by leading the queen and gain by leading the low card. The problem of which card to lead in such cases is enough to tax the ingenuity of a mathematician. It is, of course, impossible to try to remember the dozens of various combinations in which you should choose between top or bottom lead. Life is too short, and, personally, I detest trying to memorize anything. I much prefer to find some underlying principle and then recreate the situation. The principle exists here, also, and works pretty well. The key to the problem is: How strong is the card next to the two touching honors? If I hold queen, jack, 9, 2, I lead the queen; but with queen, jack, 8, 2, I lead the fourth best, in this case the deuce. In the first case, if my queen is captured I still hold a tenace, jack-nine, against declarer's possible ten-small. With jack-eight, where I miss both the ten and the nine, I have no tenace. Hence the following simple rule applicable to leads against trump or no trump.

When your three, four, or five card suit is headed by two touching honors, with a third card one step lower, lead the top. In other cases lead the fourth best. For instance, with king, queen, 10, 7, 2; queen, jack, 9, 5; or jack, 10, 8, 7, 2, the proper lead is the top; but with king, queen, 9, 7, 2; queen, jack, 8, 2, or jack, 10, 8, 7, 2, the fourth best is the lead, since the suit is not working on all cylinders and misses not only one but two beats.

As usual, there are two or three annoying exceptions. Against trump bids, for instance, you lead the king if the trick is important to save the game. Also, with six card or longer suits, you shut your eyes and lead the top.

The play of an unnecessarily high card sometimes may deceive an opponent, for it is not natural to waste a high card when a lower card would serve the same purpose. There are cases in which the defending side should use this means of deception, which is called false-carding, automatically.

1 Sp.	Pass	2 Hts.	Pass
2 Sp.	Pass	3 Cl.	Pass
3 Ht.	Pass	4 Ht.	(Final bid)

Opening lead, diamond king by East.

East's diamond king won the first trick, and West played the diamond eight, "a come on" signal. East continued with the diamond ace, and on this West played the nine. Now East led a low club. This was won by dummy's ace, and the three of hearts led. West played the six, North finessed the queen, and East dropped not the deuce but the nine. This play made North think that East might have held the ten and nine alone. So North led a club to the ace and played the jack of hearts, thinking that West would cover with the king and East's ten would drop, making North's heart eight the high heart. If he had not thought East held a doubleton ten-nine of hearts, North would simply have led out the heart ace, dropping West's king, and the jack would have cleared the suit without loss. The way he played it after East's clever false-card, North lost a heart trick, two clubs and a spade.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the proper opening lead against a contract of three no trump from ♠ Q J 10 7, ♥ 5 3, ♦ 3 7, ♣ J 8 6 4 2? No suit has been bid by any player.

Answer: The proper opening lead is the queen of spades. In this case the stronger suit is preferred to the long, weak suit. If the club suit were stronger (say Q 10 x x x), it would be better to open the fourth highest club than the spade suit.

First Day Sale Of Centennial Stamps Nov. 1

THE Postoffice Department has announced that the Michigan Centennial stamp will be released for first day sale Nov. 1. This stamp will commemorate the centennial of the State of Michigan. It will be of the special delivery size in horizontal format. The stamp is to be surrounded by a double lined border and will be printed in light purple.

The central subject of the stamp will be a large reproduction of the State of Michigan's official seal draped at the side and base by the nation emblem and the Michigan State banner on the left and right sides respectively. The staffs of the flags will extend to the upper corners. In a narrow panel with white edges and a dark background along the top edge of the stamp is to be the wording "1835 Michigan Centennial 1935" in white roman type. In each lower corner in square panels with a dark background is the denomination "3c" in white lettering. In a horizontal panel in a dark background in the center of the lower edge are the words "U. S. Postage" in white letters. In the space between the lower half of the central subject and the sides of the stamp is a forest and lake scene on the left, and on the right is a scene representing commerce and industry.

The stamp will be placed on sale for first day cancelation at the Lansing, Mich., Postoffice Nov. 1, and at offices throughout the country within a few days after Nov. 1. To obtain first day covers send to the Postmaster not more than 10 self-addressed and sealed covers with a postal money order for the correct amount. To insure perfect covers free from wrinkling stuff covers with a letter sheet or card.

No unusual requests will be fulfilled by the Postmaster nor will orders for uncanceled stamps be filled. These can be obtained from local Postoffices or the Philatelic Agency.

A fact that few people know is that the late Enrico Caruso, famed opera singer, was also a stamp collector of note. His collection is just being broken up by a dealer in Philadelphia.

Dunbar, W. Va., will be included as a stop on route A. M. 25 operating from Washington, D. C., to Chicago. A special cachet will be furnished by the Postmaster at Dunbar to be applied to all mail carried on this first airmail flight. To obtain this official cachet send self-addressed envelopes franked with the necessary airmail postage.

New Issues.

YUGO-SLAVIA—On the twelfth birthday of King Peter II, Sept. 6, a set of six stamps bearing his portrait was issued. They are 50p orange, 75p green, 1d50 red, 1d75 burgundy and 3d50 ultra-marine.

MOZAMBIQUE COMPANY — A set of 10 triangular stamps will be placed on sale shortly. The design shows a plane flying over the city of Mozasbique. The values are 5c blue and black, 10c red and black, 15c carmine and black, 20c yellow green and black, 30c green and black, 40c green blue and black, 45c light blue and black, 50c violet and black, 60c carmine and brown and 80c carmine and black. This series of stamps is to commemorate the inauguration of a regular air service.

NIGERIA—A new series of regular postage stamps is being prepared. The denominations will be from ½d to one pound. The designs will consist of views of the colony with a medallion of the King.

ST. LUCIA—A landscape series of 12 values from ½d to the 10-shilling value will be issued within a few weeks.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA — The 2d stamp in the large Victoria Falls type has been reissued with the addition of the words "Postage and Revenue."

SPANISH GUINEA — The 50c orange of the 1931 series is to be printed in dark blue without control number on the back and released.

Lamb Fricassee in Potato Border

- Two pounds breast of lamb
- Six cups boiling water
- Four small onions
- Four small carrots
- Two white turnips, quartered
- One teaspoon salt
- One-fourth teaspoon pepper
- One-fourth cup all-purpose flour
- One-fourth cup cold water

Cut lamb into small pieces, place in kettle, add water and cook slowly until tender, about two hours. Prepare vegetables and put them in the kettle with the meat after it has cooked for one hour. Add salt and pepper and continue to cook until meat and vegetables are tender, lift meat and vegetables to serving platter. Make a paste of the flour and cold water, add it to the stock and cook until thickened, about five minutes. Pour it over meat and vegetables on platter.

Health Officials Still Fighting Bubonic Plague

Logan Clendening, M. D.

ON a spring day in 1934, a motor truck could be seen moving around the roads of Kern and Tulare counties, California. The crew which manned it evidently had it in for the ground squirrels. They shot down several hundreds during their few days' campaign, but what they seemed most interested in was picking up the bodies of squirrels which had died of natural causes.

Dr. Clendening

Or, rather, a natural cause, because these squirrels were found to be infected with bubonic plague. Not only was this true of the animals found dead, but a good amount of plague was found in the squirrels which were shot.

The plague has visited mankind many times since that far day in the reign of the Emperor Justinian, when it made its first grand invasion of Europe. The second great pandemic of plague, known as the "Black Death," began at the time of the Crusades and did not abate until the discovery of a new trade route from Europe to the Orient, around the Cape of Good Hope, eliminated the endemic centers of Asia Minor.

The third great pandemic of plague began in 1871 and we are still in it. Although the activity of public health officials seldom allows it to spread beyond seaport towns, there are few parts of the world where it has not made its appearance at seaports. Hamburg, Glasgow and Marseilles have each had an experience since the beginning of the century.

Knowledge of the fact the disease is spread by rodents and their fleas has been the most important weapon in combating its spread. In the United States the disease is most frequent in California, due to the infection of the ground squirrels. Louisiana, Texas, Florida, and the state of Washington, have all had a few cases, but no other states.

Eternal vigilance in the extermination of these animals is the price of safety. Plague slumbers in rodent reservoirs, and breaks out again and again. In 1914 a public health authority said, "It is believed the statement can be safely made that all discoverable plague has been eradicated from the state of California, and that danger of its further spread has been removed."

In spite of this optimism, it is found that 20 years later the ground squirrel population is again heavily infected, and the work of extermination must be done all over again.

It is a credit to the vigilance of the public health service that they are alert to the situation and are working steadily to eliminate the source. Such work is not as dramatic as getting in the limelight and preventing a war, but it is just as saving of human life.

Let us hope that sentimental considerations for the ground squirrel will not make it less effective.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening, can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

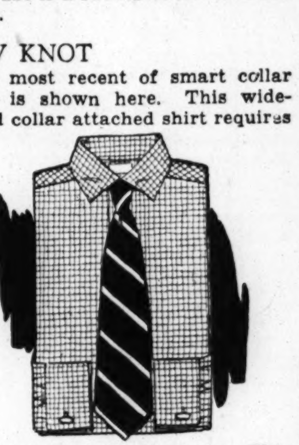
THE MAN of FASHION

By ESQUIRE

FEW of us will ever have the experience of being valeted and so the selection of proper shirt and tie is something that must be left to our own devices. ESQUIRE verbally "lays out" a few well-selected shirt and tie combinations with suggestions as to their appropriateness. With all due modesty, we doubt if a Jeeves could do much better.

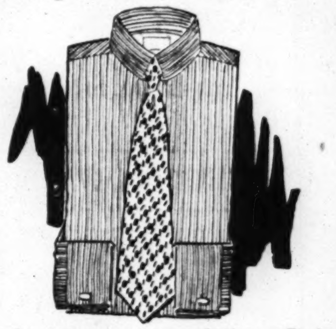
NEW KNOT

The most recent of smart collar styles is shown here. This wide-spread collar attached shirt requires a larger knot to fill the space. This combination of shirt and tie might be chosen for wear with a suit of herringbone or striped pattern, preferably of cheviot, shetland or flannel.



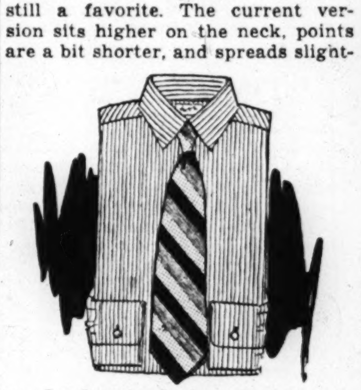
KEEPING TABS

Tab collars combine all the comfort of unstarched collars with the pleasing neatness so much desired in business or town clothes. It is smartest in typical British stripes of broadcloth or madras. The rather definite checked tie is a new note that compliments the severity of darker fall suits of worsteds, in a much desired manner.



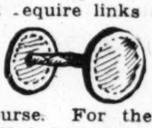
POINTS SHORTER

The attached pointed collar, is still a favorite. The current version sits higher on the neck, points are a bit shorter, and spreads slightly. In deeper shades of plain colors of oxford, broadcloth or madras, it is an ideal shirt for wear with saxony finish suits of checks or plaids. The tie should be a deep toned rep silk stripe.



LEATHER LINKS

More men are preferring double cuffs that require links as a matter of course. For the informal sort of cuffed shirt, links of leather have been made in the manner illustrated.

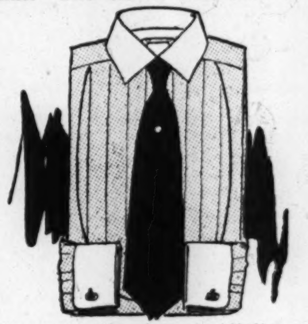


PEARL PIN

Mentioned before for wear with solid color neckwear, the pearl stickpin is much favored as a relief from the over simplicity of this kind of neckwear. Inasmuch as deep plain colors of silk rep are much in fashion, it is an important detail, conservative and smart in effect.

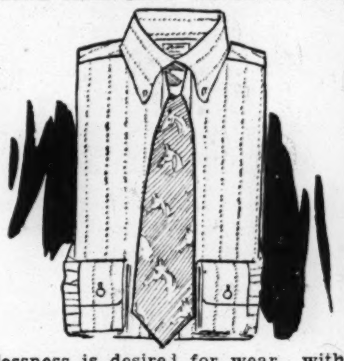
COLLAR CONTRAST

For the finishing touch of formality, much in keeping with clear cut worsted patterned suitings, this deep colored pleated bosom shirt is worn with a wide-spread white laundered collar. The tie in this case is of plain rep silk, its simplicity set off by a pearl stickpin. White cuffs are consistent detail.



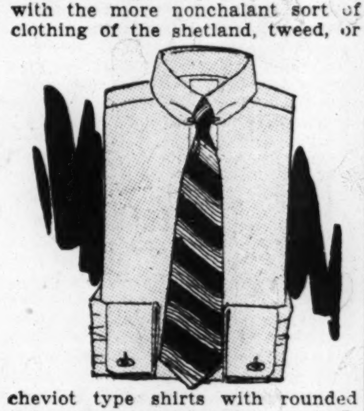
BUTTON BUTTON

The collar style most favored by university men is the solid color oxford weave or candy stripe button down collar shirt. Its air of carelessness is desired for wear with odd jackets or tweeds. It should show a definite roll over the knot of the tie, which in this case is of printed wool in a sporty animal design.



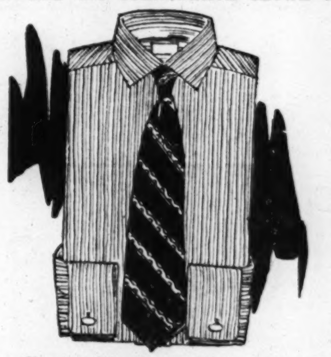
ROUNDED CORNER

Particularly adapted for wear with the more nonchalant sort of clothing of the shetland, tweed, or cheviot type shirts with rounded collars are permanently smart. It is a practical collar style for the heavier type of cheviot and flannel bolder pattern shirtings.



STARCHED IN STYLE

The wide-spread collar makes an admirable starched matching collar and the combination shown is excellent with the suitings of clear cut worsteds in diagonal, broken herringbone or sharkskin weaves.



Junior League And Its Rules Of Membership

How to Transfer Family's Name From One Social Register to Another.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

WILL you please explain in detail the procedure for (1) becoming a member of the Junior League of New York, and (2) for having one's name listed in the Social Register? My family is from X——, where it is listed in the Social Register, and I'm sure I would be in the Junior League there, but we don't know what to do here in New York.

Emily Post

Answer: (1) In your particular case it would be best if members of the Junior League in your city would write for you to friends of their own who are members of the league in New York. They in turn would, I imagine, have to meet you and write letters for you themselves. At all events, the requirements (as you must know) are, first of all, the same as those for joining every club: the candidate must be put up by one member and seconded by another. And then she must have at least three letters of recommendation written for her by other members. Three enthusiastic letters from reliable members would be much better than a dozen letters that are perfunctory or from those inclined to write without thinking.

Otherwise, the question of how you as a stranger—or any young girl who has not all her life known plenty of members of the league—is to obtain the necessary sponsors, is not easy to solve since it is impossible to ask any but a most intimate friend, "Will you put me up?" or, "Will you second me?" But with these two sponsors obtained, the three letters of recommendation are easy enough to secure, since you can perfectly well ask any members who are friendly to you to write them, or your proposer will ask intimate friends of her own to do this.

Unlike other clubs in which approval by the board of governors is all that is necessary, a successful candidate for election to the Junior League is put on probation. After that she takes a serious course in one or another branch of social welfare, and after that she must pass a far-from-easy written examination. On occasion it does happen that a young girl, who is in every other way eligible, fails to pass this examination, and that of course, means the heart-breaking thing that such disappointing results must inevitably be.

(2) Write to the Social Register Association and ask them to transfer your name from the X—— Register to the New York one. With this request you should inclose two letters of recommendation from friends who are in the New York register.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I MUST write to you for advice. I am 30 years old and have been married 10 years and am very happy. We get along wonderfully. But there is one thing which sometimes makes me very blue and distressed—that is, my people. I work every day, but my husband now is out of work, the first time in 17 years, but my people always are after us for money, which, of course, just now is pretty scarce. We always gave when we had it, though they never would do me a good turn or favor.

My husband says I should stay away. That would be best, I know; but I like to go home once in a while. His people are so nice to us. My mother is a great gossip and it was through this that we never had a nice home. Please tell me what to do.

WITHOUT A MOTHER'S LOVE.

Unless you are a glutton for punishment and want this "stick" held over you all the rest of your life, you should tell your mother plainly that you are sorry, but that you and your husband have not a cent to give away, especially as he is out of employment. If she gets angry, it will be best to remain away for a little while. You can then go back gradually and let it be known that you expect other members of the family to take their turn.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WOULD like to question a popular expression in the quotation "M. G. L." offered to "Three P. M." in the edition of Sept. 25.

Most well-informed people agree that big business is selfish, banking is still vicious, politics still rotten, etc. Likewise, some agree that one's spirit must be in tune with the spirit of our economic life, if one wishes really to climb in that direction. Spinoza, a philosopher of the seventeenth century, wrote, "To love the things that perish is to be in continual trouble and disturbance of passion; it is to be full of envy and hatred toward those who possess them; it is to be ever striving after that which, when we attain it, does not satisfy us; or lamenting over loss of that which inevitably passes from us; only love for an object that is infinite and eternal, feeds the soul with changeless and unmingled joy. But again, love rests on our knowledge; if we saw things as they are we should love only the highest object. It is because sense and imagination give to the finite an independence and substantiality that do not belong to it that we waste our love upon it as if it were infinite."

So, will you, "M. L. G.," or anyone who professes to believe in Christianity and the unselfish motive, please explain the reasoning, if any, behind the popular expression, "Ambition and the ability to get somewhere?" C. A. G.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a boy 15 years old. I have two sisters, one 10, and the other 7. I am in my first year of high school. Do you think it is my place to wash and dry the dishes every other night? R. A. K.

I don't think every OTHER night is bad at all. Probably these little sisters think that, with a big, strong brother like you, it is only fair he should do half the work. You know one of the best qualities a man can have is to do any kind of work that is before him; he makes the work high class if he wishes. Only the backsliders and lowbrows are ashamed of their work. You must be right important in that household—and that's something.

At all events, the requirements (as you must know) are, first of all, the same as those for joining every club: the candidate must be put up by one member and seconded by another. And then she must have at least three letters of recommendation written for her by other members. Three enthusiastic letters from reliable members would be much better than a dozen letters that are perfunctory or from those inclined to write without thinking.

Otherwise, the question of how you as a stranger—or any young girl who has not all her life known plenty of members of the league—is to obtain the necessary sponsors, is not easy to solve since it is impossible to ask any but a most intimate friend, "Will you put me up?" or, "Will you second me?" But with these two sponsors obtained, the three letters of recommendation are easy enough to secure, since you can perfectly well ask any members who are friendly to you to write them, or your proposer will ask intimate friends of her own to do this.

Unlike other clubs in which approval by the board of governors is all that is necessary, a successful candidate for election to the Junior League is put on probation. After that she takes a serious course in one or another branch of social welfare, and after that she must pass a far-from-easy written examination. On occasion it does happen that a young girl, who is in every other way eligible, fails to pass this examination, and that of course, means the heart-breaking thing that such disappointing results must inevitably be.

(2) Write to the Social Register Association and ask them to transfer your name from the X—— Register to the New York one. With this request you should inclose two letters of recommendation from friends who are in the New York register.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I MUST write to you for advice. I am 30 years old and have been married 10 years and am very happy. We get along wonderfully. But there is one thing which sometimes makes me very blue and distressed—that is, my people. I work every day, but my husband now is out of work, the first time in 17 years, but my people always are after us for money, which, of course, just now is pretty scarce. We always gave when we had it, though they never would do me a good turn or favor.

My husband says I should stay away. That would be best, I know; but I like to go home once in a while. His people are so nice to us. My mother is a great gossip and it was through this that we never had a nice home. Please tell me what to do.

WITHOUT A MOTHER'S LOVE.

Unless you are a glutton for punishment and want this "stick" held over you all the rest of your life, you should tell your mother plainly that you are sorry, but that you and your husband have not a cent to give away, especially as he is out of employment. If she gets angry, it will be best to remain away for a little while. You can then go back gradually and let it be known that you expect other members of the family to take their turn.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WOULD like to question a popular expression in the quotation "M. G. L." offered to "Three P. M." in the edition of Sept. 25.

Most well-informed people agree that big business is selfish, banking is still vicious, politics still rotten, etc. Likewise, some agree that one's spirit must be in tune with the spirit of our economic life, if one wishes really to climb in that direction. Spinoza, a philosopher of the seventeenth century, wrote, "To love the things that perish is to be in continual trouble and disturbance of passion; it is to be full of envy and hatred toward those who possess them; it is to be ever striving after that which, when we attain it, does not satisfy us; or lamenting over loss of that which inevitably passes from us; only love for an object that is infinite and eternal, feeds the soul with changeless and unmingled joy. But again, love rests on our knowledge; if we saw things as they are we should love only the highest object. It is because sense and imagination give to the finite an independence and substantiality that do not belong to it that we waste our love upon it as if it were infinite."

So, will you, "M. L. G.," or anyone who professes to believe in Christianity and the unselfish motive, please explain the reasoning, if any, behind the popular expression, "Ambition and the ability to get somewhere?" C. A. G.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a boy 15 years old. I have two sisters, one 10, and the other 7. I am in my first year of high school. Do you think it is my place to wash and dry the dishes every other night? R. A. K.

I don't think every OTHER night is bad at all. Probably these little sisters think that, with a big strong brother like you, it is only fair he should do half the work. You know one of the best qualities a man can have is to do any kind of work that is before him; he makes the work high class if he wishes. Only the backsliders and lowbrows are ashamed of their work. You must be right important in that household—and that's something.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

CAN you tell me how to bring to the surface of a table a high polish? There are a few slight marks and scratches and finger marks on it, too. Thank you.

T. A.

Wash with damp chamois, then use floor wax (paste). Do not put too much on at first. When dry, polish with electric floor waxer. Several waxings will be required for a high polish.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I JUST couldn't resist writing you, when I read what "Mickey and Bob" had to say in your column. Please print our answer, and here's hoping they may read it.

As long as we have been going out with boys, what we wanted and admired most, we could not find in the boys we met. Those two fellows have it. Here's hoping they will stay like that—and more power to them. Thank you.

TOTTS AND BOB.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MY brother and I have been separated about 30 years. He was put in an orphans' home and I in one in another place. He is now 36 years of age. His name is Albert Kolb. When we were babies we were put in a home in Farmington, Mo. I thought maybe you could locate him for me.

MRS. L. M.

You should put a message to him in the "Personals" column in the paper. Of course if he writes me, I shall let you know; if you will send me an addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THANKFUL

Almost any dictionary has a list of English given names, sometimes with the foreign equivalents. The Webster high school dictionary has a very good one.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THIS is in answer to Hopeless, whose husband left her three months after they were married and now he is married again and she says she still loves him. You say, HOW can she still love someone who has treated her so terribly and acted in such a disgraceful manner?

Mrs. Carr, I'm sure you know there is "so much good in the best of us and so much bad in the worst of us." Now, because a person has some weakness and does a dishonorable thing, that does not mean that love goes out of our heart. I have a great strength of character and yet I love someone who has treated me unfairly. I do not know why I do, but I do. I will say that I do not admire him so much, he is neither so intelligent, kind or unselfish, but I do love him beyond all reason or question and I do not want to do it. Love has no choice, it seems. You cannot bid it go here or there, nor to remain. It is a thing that IS. That is real love. I think sometimes there are few who really experience it, and it does bring as much misery as joy. It seems to me that people seek happiness. If they are not happy right away they want a divorce. There is no perfect happiness anywhere, so why not make the best of everything?

Human behavior is a strange and uncontrollable thing, and I doubt not that much of our trouble arises from the fact that we do not know our own minds and hearts and are not able to know just what love is. To want to get married isn't love, to want to be happy isn't love, and to want a home isn't love. Yet I do feel that people marry with nothing more at stake than those things. But to love in spite of yourself, to love when you're miserable, to love and be happy when you have nothing else, then that is love and I believe it will some way always win through.

A READER.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Suggestion For a Dinner Without Meat

Eggs Prepared in an Unusual Way Are Feature of Menu.

By Gladys T. Lang

Clear Soup With Nut Balls.
Windsor Eggs.
Chilled Tomatoes With Blackstone Dressing.
Pinehurst Chocolate Whip.

Clear Soup With Nut Balls.

For six servings heat one and a half quarts of rich, well seasoned stock. Make nut balls as follows and drop into the boiling soup three minutes before serving.

Beat to a foam two eggs, season with salt, pepper, chopped parsley and a dusting of nutmeg. Stir into this one-fourth pound of blanched and ground almonds or pecans and cracker dust sufficient to handle. With buttered hands roll into small balls and drop into the boiling soup.

Windsor Eggs.

Windsor Sauce.

Melt three tablespoons of butter, add three level tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on gradually one cup of highly seasoned chicken stock and one-half cup of cream. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season with salt and pepper. Remove from fire and beat in one slightly beaten egg yolk. Surround eggs and over sauce scatter chopped chives and parsley.

Blackstone Dressing.

One-half cup of chili sauce.
One tablespoon of lemon juice.
One teaspoon of walnut catsup.
One riced hard boiled egg.
One-half cup of cream, beaten stiff.

Pinehurst Chocolate Whip.

Line parfait glasses with lady fingers or thin slices of sponge cake. Into one and a half cups of heavy cream stir three tablespoons of confectioners' sugar, three tablespoons of cocoa and one and a half teaspoons of coffee essence. Chill, then whip mixture until stiff. Fill the lined glasses with the cream mixture and chill. Garnish with shavings of sweet chocolate or preferably if obtainable thin chocolate leaves.

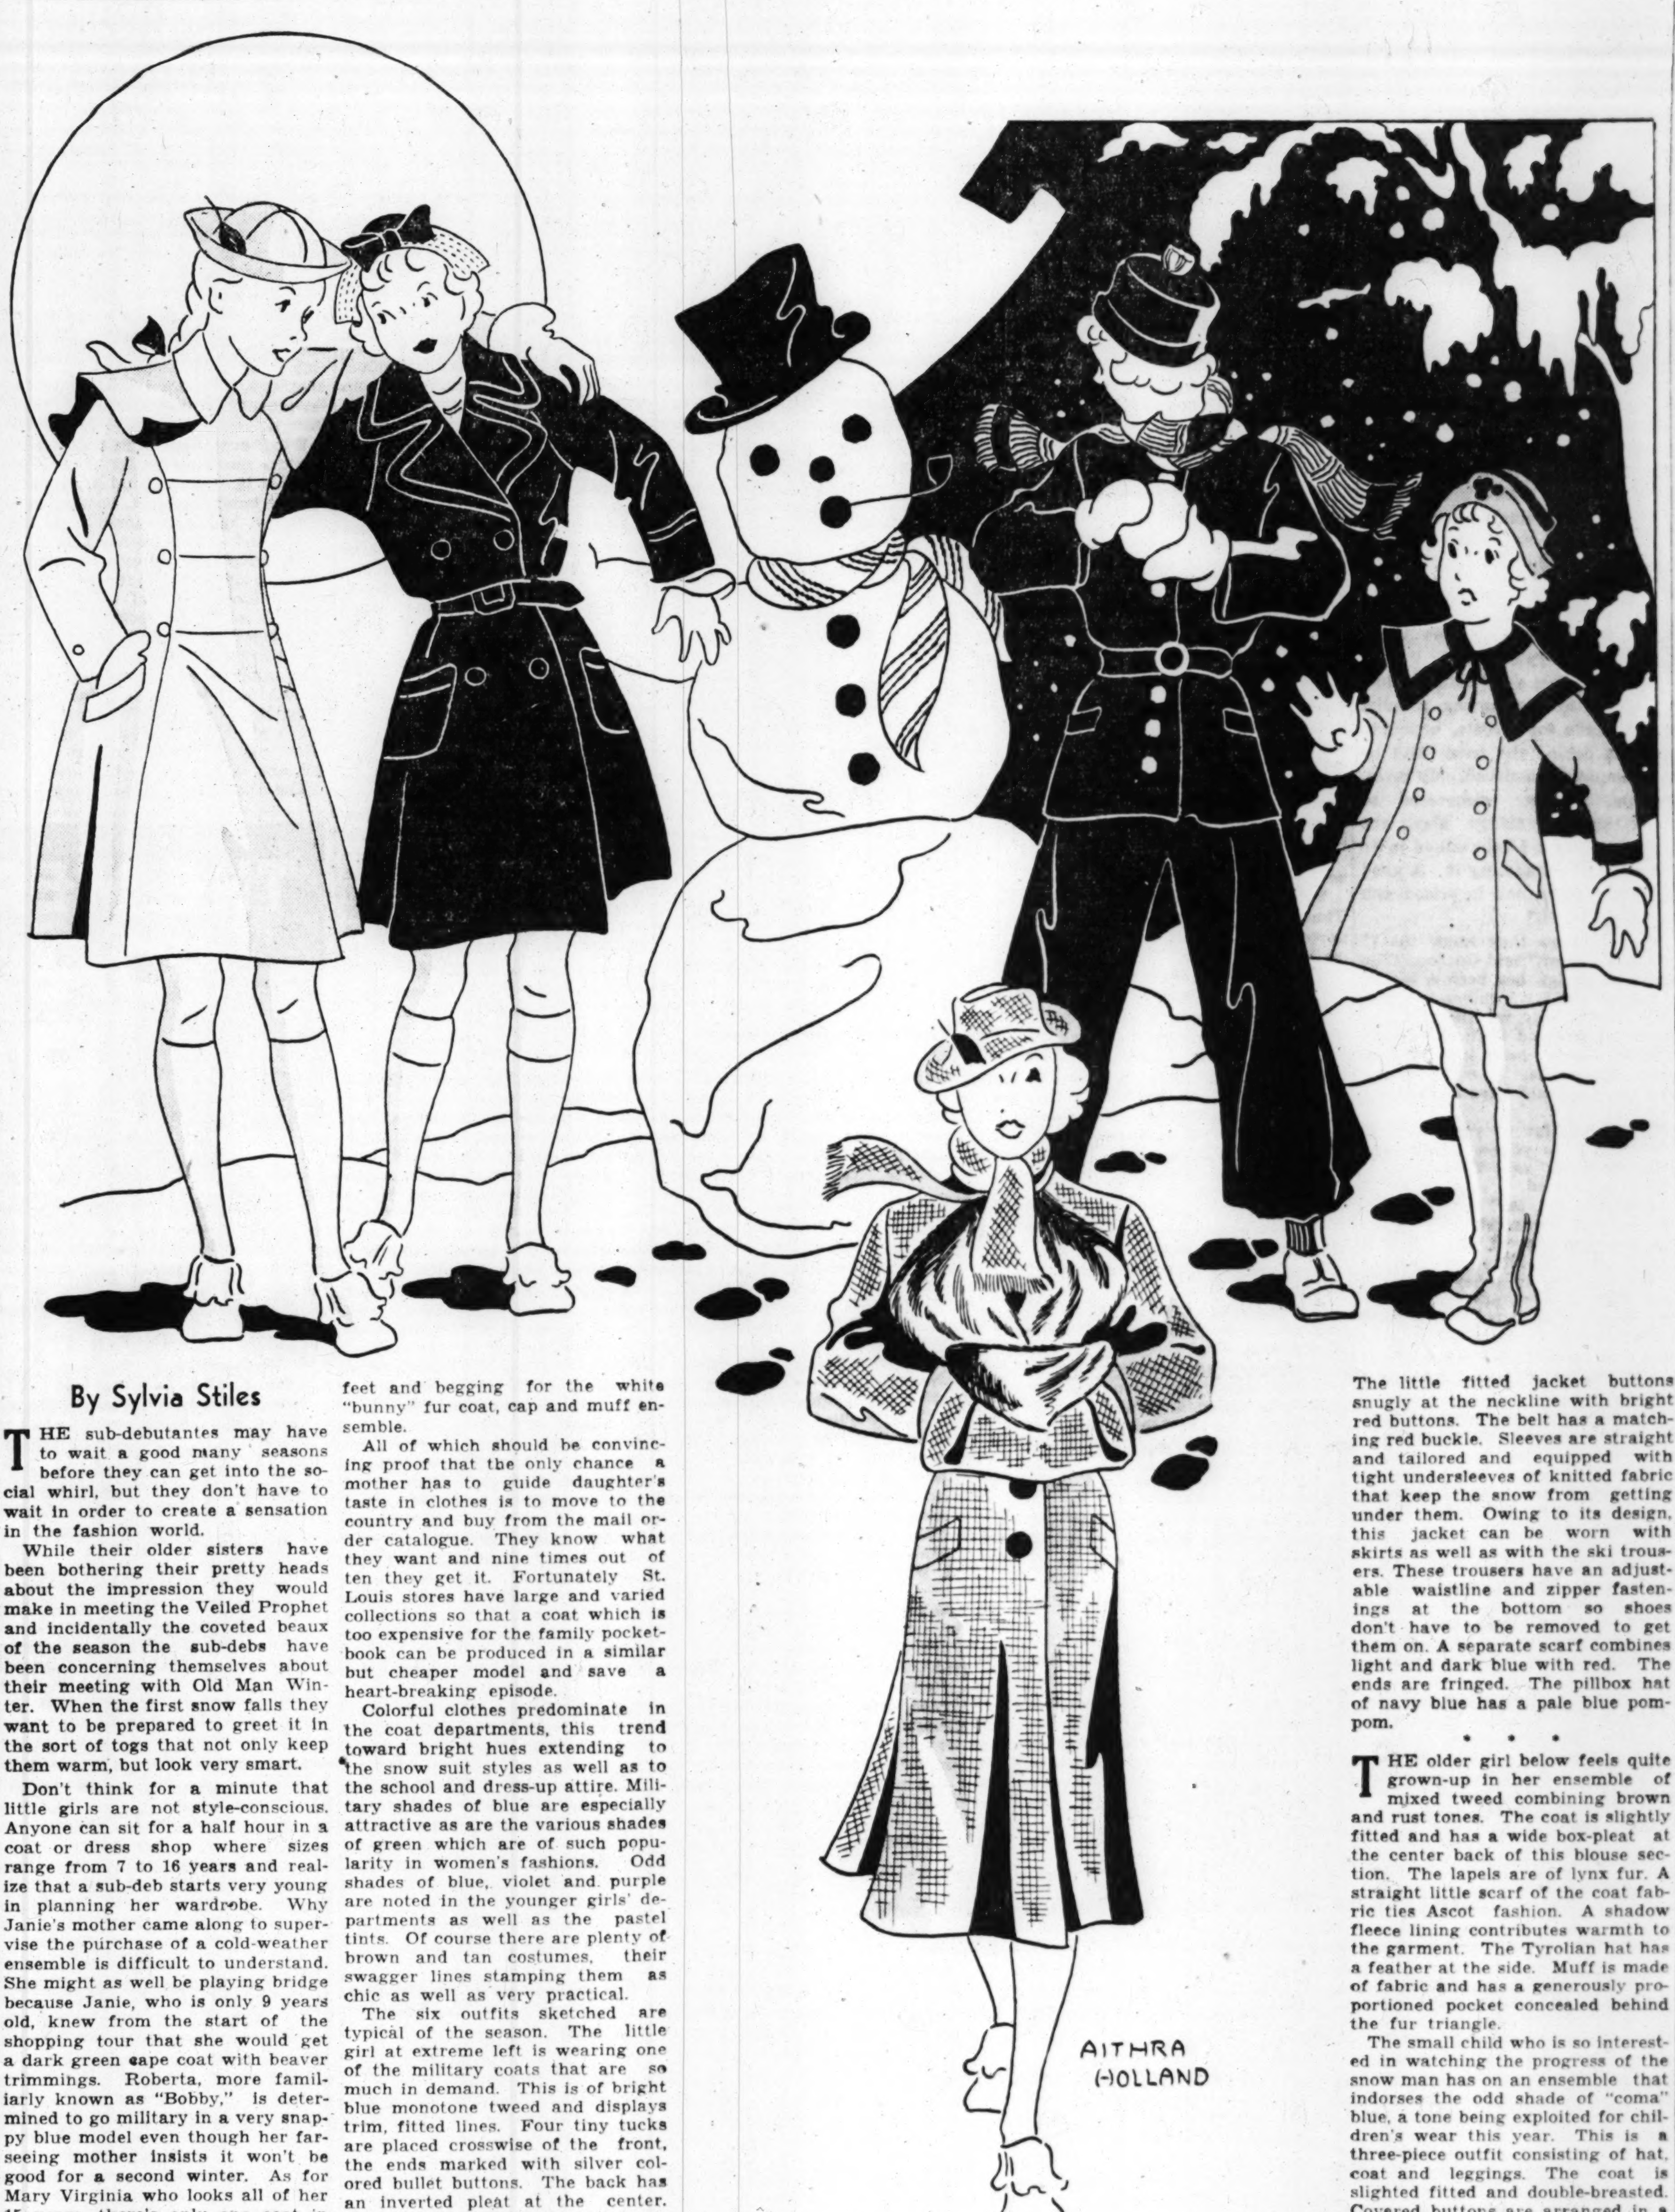
WINTER TOGS for the YOUNGSTERS

Fashions for Girls as Seen in the St. Louis Stores



By Sylvia Stiles

THE sub-debutantes may have to wait a good many seasons before they can get into the social whirl, but they don't have to wait in order to create a sensation in the fashion world.

While their older sisters have been bothering their pretty heads about the impression they would make in meeting the Veiled Prophet and incidentally the coveted beaux of the season the sub-debs have been concerning themselves about their meeting with Old Man Winter. When the first snow falls they want to be prepared to greet it in the sort of togs that not only keep them warm, but look very smart.

Don't think for a minute that little girls are not style-conscious. Anyone can sit for a half hour in a coat or dress shop where sizes range from 7 to 16 years and realize that a sub-deb starts very young in planning her wardrobe. Why Janie's mother came along to supervise the purchase of a cold-weather ensemble is difficult to understand. She might as well be playing bridge because Janie, who is only 9 years old, knew from the start of the shopping tour that she would get a dark green cape coat with beaver trimmings. Roberta, more familiarly known as "Bobby," is determined to go military in a very snappy blue model even though her far-seeing mother insists it won't be good for a second winter. As for Mary Virginia who looks all of her 15 years, there's only one coat in the entire lot which is sufficiently grown up for her to consider.

The same battles are being fought in the little folks' department. Judith, who will soon be 5, likes a rust-colored outfit and her mother is determined she is getting old enough to wear something dark and practical. A curly-headed child not more than 4 is stamping her feet and begging for the white "bunny" fur coat, cap and muff ensemble.

All of which should be convincing proof that the only chance a mother has to guide daughter's taste in clothes is to move to the country and buy from the mail order catalogue. They know what they want and nine times out of ten they get it. Fortunately St. Louis stores have large and varied collections so that a coat which is too expensive for the family pocketbook can be produced in a similar but cheaper model and save a heart-breaking episode.

Colorful clothes predominate in the coat departments, this trend toward bright hues extending to the snow suit styles as well as to the school and dress-up attire. Military shades of blue are especially attractive as are the various shades of green which are of such popularity in women's fashions. Odd shades of blue, violet and purple are noted in the younger girls' departments as well as the pastel tints. Of course there are plenty of brown and tan costumes, their swagger lines stamping them as chic as well as very practical.

The six outfits sketched are typical of the season. The little girl at extreme left is wearing one of the military coats that are so much in demand. This is of bright blue monotone tweed and displays trim, fitted lines. Four tiny tucks are placed crosswise of the front, the ends marked with silver colored bullet buttons. The back has an inverted pleat at the center. Especially attractive is the hood-like cape collar lined with bright red woolen. The coat lining also is of red. The blue fabric hat to accompany this coat has an upturned brim and a jaunty feather tucked into the side of the crown.

The second little girl is wearing an ensemble of dark green "gora-van" which has a very wooly surface. An invisible cross-stripe of lighter green lightens the tone of the fabric. Incidentally the material is showerproof and wrinkle proof. The coat is a double-breasted belted model with convertible collar and ragland shoulders. The upper part of the lining is silk and the lower part a plaid fleece. The hat has a stitched brim turned up at the front and held with a flat bow of grosgrain ribbon.

The girl who is building a snow man is displaying the latest style in snow suits. This is made of the regulation woolen used for these outfits and is dark blue in color. The little fitted jacket buttons snugly at the neckline with bright red buttons. The belt has a matching red buckle. Sleeves are straight and tailored and equipped with tight undersleeves of knitted fabric that keep the snow from getting under them. Owing to its design, this jacket can be worn with skirts as well as with the ski trousers. These trousers have an adjustable waistline and zipper fastenings at the bottom so shoes don't have to be removed to get them on. A separate scarf combines light and dark blue with red. The ends are fringed. The pillbox hat of navy blue has a pale blue pompom.

THE older girl below feels quite grown-up in her ensemble of mixed tweed combining brown and rust tones. The coat is slightly fitted and has a wide box-pleat at the center back of this blouse section. The lapels are of lynx fur. A straight little scarf of the coat fabric ties Ascot fashion. A shadow fleece lining contributes warmth to the garment. The Tyrolian hat has a feather at the side. Muff is made of fabric and has a generously proportioned pocket concealed behind the fur triangle.

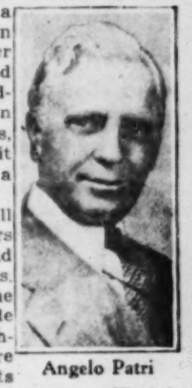
The small child who is so interested in watching the progress of the snow man has on an ensemble that indorses the odd shade of "coma" blue, a tone being exploited for children's wear this year. This is a three-piece outfit consisting of hat, coat and leggings. The coat is slighted fitted and double-breasted. Covered buttons are arranged in a double row at the front. The collar is of the Dutch type and has wide appliqued bands of matching blue velvet. Sleeves have velvet cuffs. The fabric hat is banded with velvet and has a cluster of tiny velvet buttons holding the brim flat against the crown at the side front. Zipper fastenings are a feature of the leggings.

Bad Manners, A Child's Sign Of Weakness

Traits of Politeness Serve as Protection for All in Daily Grind.

By Angelo Patri

AN indignant mother writes me a long letter in which there is this paragraph: "On his report card the teacher writes in the space for character traits, 'Bad manners.' Now what I want to know is this: has anybody a right to reflect on a child's character because of bad manners? I'll admit that my son has bad manners, but I won't admit that he has a poor character."



Angelo Patri

It is hard to tell where manners leave off and character begins. It seems to me they just shade one into the other. Manners are habits, and habits are what make character. That is why the teacher made a note of the child's progress in good form, under the item "character." They both mean pretty much the same thing. The bad-mannered boy is in danger. It's the law of mental growth that what you think you are, and what you do you become.

Manners are ways of doing things. They are ways of living. They are cushions that soften the shocks of the rough and tumble of daily life. In other words, they are the rules we have set up for orderly living. The one who disregards the rules is out of the game. Nobody will play with him. The doors to pleasant places are shut to him. The people with whom he needs to associate refuse to have anything to do with him.

It is natural to be selfish. Each of us wants his full share and more of the good things of life, and as little as possible of the bad ones. It requires self-control and a gracious spirit to forbear and permit our neighbor to have his share of happiness.

Isn't this mother protesting because the teacher does not indorse her boy, does not approve him? Why is she worried? Not because the teacher's word on a report card is so important, but because the disapproval is a sign of danger, a sign of weakness in the child's makeup. If that be true it will not help her boy to succeed. When she protests she admits her boy cannot afford to be bad-mannered.

Why not follow the rules? It is polite to let another person finish what he is saying before speaking in reply. It is polite to listen quietly with interest and not to interrupt. It is polite to return thanks for a favor that is shown you. It is proper that children never speak first to an older person. They wait to be spoken to and then they reply promptly and as best they can. It is good manners to speak in gentle tones no matter what provocation there is to shout. Shouting at another person is an affront. It's like a slap in the face, unpardonable. None of us tell all we know or say or do all we wish to do. We are too polite, too considerate, too confused, too much afraid to do so. We must be screened. Without the protection of good manners we couldn't stand the every-day grind.

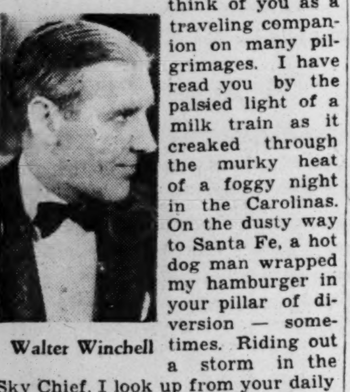
DAILY MAGAZINE

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

Dear Walter: I have never met you, tho you are an old friend of mine. But can you take it? I wonder. Anyway, your column and I have been around together, and I think of you as a traveling companion on many pilgrimages. I have read you by the palsied light of a milk train as it creaked through the murky heat of a foggy night in the Carolinas. On the dusty way to Santa Fe, a hot dog man wrapped my hamburger in your pillar of diversion — sometimes. Riding out a storm in the Sky Chief, I look up from your daily essay to see a rainy dawn clamber over the Rockies with the grotesque hesitancy of a cripple. I mean, I have been looking over your history of Broadway's seedy grandeur for a long time. The other night as you hurried from the Stork Club I wanted to tell you this, to say hello for the first time to an old friend. I plucked at your sleeve, and you nodded politely with the curt quickness of those who are incessantly annoyed by strangers. I stood there alone and a little drunk, and away you went on your midnight merry-go-round where the crowds are thick, the music sweet and low, and the lights are kind to ladies with crow's feet. I do not blame you for your courteous rudeness. I guess you meet so many uninteresting people.



Walter Winchell

You are a fortunate man, Walter, because you have a microphone to listen to your three cheers—a column where your scallions grow—a pulpit from which to preach your sermon of the night. I look at life, too, Walter, see what I see, and say nothing. I am silent because my hoots, my hoorays, my petty philosophies, my minor angers must be unheard—like a pagan's prayers. You see, I have no jug from which to pour my vinegar, no rostrums from which to denounce the flimflammer and the phoney, no column to pin my medals on the chests of those who rate them. So I said: I will write this Winchell guy a letter and tell him a few things. If he prints any part of it, I will be a mute who has been given the power of speech. He will take a marcher out of the parade and sit him in the reviewing stand. He will let a reader become a writer.

It was once written that when reporters lose their minds—they become dramatic critics. I can believe that after reading some of the notices on "Paths of Glory," a starkly magnificent mural of the World War. You guys complained that it depressed. I guess war will always be depressing, until the movies do one with Dick Powell as Mars. If I had your column, fellow, I'd have made more of a holler about Max Baer running out on his pals who bet on him. I understand you and the other critics of the shows are getting together—to put the Pulitzer Prize Play Committee in its place. And that you all will select the year's best play. And that you all had a conference—about whether to give the author of the winning play $2000 or a gold medal, to which you each contribute $15. And it was decided to give a medal. Now ain't that something? You each will chip in a few dollars for the damn thing. Why don't you, who champion this and that, hold out for the big money award instead? Look at it this way: So long as you critics destroy hopes of authors—why not pay them well with cash—when they are good enough to deliver the best show of the season? Not all the prize plays made money for the authors—or does the subject of giving money away bore you?

I could go on using the "velvet-knock" like this—but you probably won't even see it. That Girl Friday of yours no doubt inspects every missive carefully—and for fear of offending little Walter—or upsetting his routine—she probably flings it to the wicker. Well, it doesn't matter. I've wanted to have a heart-to-heart gab with you for a long time, brother. Perhaps, you will see this thing, and decide to use it for a holiday. It's an even bet you won't, too. Even if you don't run it, and some of it sinks in, and helps you in any way, then I haven't wasted my time or yours or the doll with the Baby Stare in your Lair.

Don't try to check me, please. I used to work on a sheet here in town. There's nothing individual about me, I'm known only to my few friends, and get up early most mornings, and have little time for night life. But I've been around. If you print any part of this affidavit, maybe I'll post you some more—and, of course, no name. Just make it "Prince Charming." Some day I'll tell you, of course, and perhaps it'll make you grin. Oh, yes. About Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone. They probably are nice guys. But do them a favor. Tell them they are violating the code when they work as actors 24 hours a day. And don't be too busy to read such capables as Meyer Berger, who takes up the career of a widow in the New Yorker's last number, or Gene Fowler's blast in Wilkerson's coast paper about the treatment accorded Skolsky, and Churchill of the Times' movie page. It's sock writing—and a reading might improve your marksmanship.

—Prince Charming.

THERE'S MURDER IN THE AIR

A New Serial

By ROY CHANSLOR

CHAPTER XXI.

"I WAS invalided out of the army, still very weak. I went down to Spain to convalesce. There I met—Carlotta. She was an American girl, of Spanish extraction, an orphan, with a small legacy, studying dancing in Madrid.

"She was very sweet and kind and gentle. I—I fell in love with her, and she with me. I told her my story, and asked her if she could share the life of a man who might always be in the shadow of death.

"She not only said yes, but she showed me how I could outwit my enemies. It was really very simple. I no longer resembled James Moridon that they knew. Therefore I would take a new identity. We were married in Madrid; and when we returned to New York it was as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gordon."

He paused and made a little gesture.

"So—there you are," he said. "I went into partnership with my friend Grahame. Then he and his wife were both lost in a wreck at sea. I adopted Doris. I never heard of Gaudio again, and never had a moment of anxiety—until that bomb was found in my car. Then I was afraid that he had caught up with me at last, though I couldn't be sure. Because the underworld did have cause to hate me."

"When did you begin to finance this campaign against the gangsters?" asked Tyler.

"Several years ago," said Gordon. "It began by my having a quiet search made for Gaudio, hoping to put him behind the bars. But he had completely vanished. My investigators, however, discovered so many shocking things about the underworld that I determined to do my share in combating it. A good many gangsters, now in prison, can blame me for it."

"I don't know," said Gordon. "The whole campaign has been a secret, of course. But those things can leak out. That's why we thought the bomb attack—and even the others—might have been inspired by gang vengeance. I couldn't see how Gaudio could have learned my identity."

"Which, as far as you know, is known only to yourself, your son and your wife," said Tyler.

Gordon nodded.

"And now by you," he said. "You can see why I was reluctant to tell anyone—even you. I knew that if Gaudio were still alive and ignorant of my identity, in other words, if these attacks were not directed by him, that I was at least safe from that source. But that if my identity were ever made known, none of my family would ever have a moment's security again."

"But now you are convinced that he is behind the whole thing?" asked Tyler.

"He must be," said Gordon. "Who else would think of striking at me through my daughter? That's like him."

• • •

"Mr. Gordon," he asked, "how long have you lived in this house?"

"Since it was built," said Gordon.

"Is there any possible way for some one to get into the house without passing through the regular doors or windows?" Tyler asked.

"How could there be?" demanded Gordon.

"I mean—any secret passages?"

"No," said Gordon. "I supervised the building myself. There's no such nonsense as secret passages or sliding doors. It's—just an ordinary house."

"Then," said Tyler, "you must see that there are only three possibilities. One, both Doris and Helene just happened to switch off their alarms. . . . . Two, some one inside the house switched them off, deliberately, to allow the assassin to enter. Three—the assassin is one of your immediate household."

"All three are preposterous!" said Gordon hotly.

Gorden turned eagerly.

"How are the patients?" he asked.

Dr. Grace glanced first at Tyler.

"The boy's all right," he replied. "Impatient to be up and about." He turned troubled eyes to Gordon. But Helene—" he went on, then shook his head gravely. "Paul, she's had a tremendous emotional shock. I—I'm worried about her."

"She's still—" Gordon began.

Dr. Grace nodded.

"She's even—worse," he said.

"What—what do you advise?" Gordon asked huskily.

Dr. Grace ran his hand through his hair.

"Paul, I don't know what to advise," he said. "This is a little out of my line."

Gordon turned quickly to Tyler.

"What about your friend Dr. Karasc?" he asked hopefully.

"I'm sure he can't take charge of her personally," said Tyler. "But I can telephone him, ask his advice. Probably he can recommend some one."

"That's a good idea," said Dr. Grace. "I'm no sharp at that sort of thing."

Tyler looked at Gordon.

"By all means telephone him," he said.

"I'll do it this morning," said Tyler. He glanced at Dr. Grace. "Under the circumstances, I don't suppose it would be wise to press Helene—about last night?" he asked.

"If you mean asking her a lot of questions, I'd strongly advise against it, at this time," said Dr. Grace. "Dr. Karasc, of course, may think differently."

"Then I'll wait," said Tyler. "I suppose it's all right to talk to Benson now?"

"Certainly," said Dr. Grace.

"Then I'll have a talk with him now," said Tyler.

• • •

HE excused himself and went to the house. He was raising his hand to knock on the door to the room where Nat had slept, when he saw Doris come out of David's room, where she had spent the night. She stepped back quickly into the room.

Tyler rapped lightly on the door, heard Nat's "Come in," and entered. Nat was propped up in the bed. To Tyler's question he said he was feeling fine, except for the slight pain and the considerable stiffness of his right side.

"I'm getting up as soon as the doctor okays it," he said.

"Just what happened Nat?" he asked.

"I saw the pistol and made a dive for the curtains," Nat said. "I heard the shot, felt the bullet hit me, grabbed at the curtains for support. Helene began to scream. I half-turned, saw you come through the windows. Then the curtains gave way. I fell into this room."

"What did you see?" asked Tyler.

Nat did not answer. Tyler repeated the question. Still Nat hesitated.

"I saw—Doris, standing in the door to the hall," he said. "Then—I guess I passed out."

There was a light knock at the door. The two men glanced at it. Then Tyler called, "Come in." The door opened to reveal Doris. She looked hesitantly from Tyler to Nat. "Come in," Tyler repeated. She came in, quickly, closed the door. She went directly to the bed, looked down at Nat.

"Nat!" she cried. "You don't think I did it?"

He raised his eyes then.

"Of course not—dear," he said.

"Oh, you do, you do!" she said. "I can't bear that. Whatever anyone else thinks, I can't stand it—if you—" she turned to Tyler. "Mr. Tyler, I—I think the world of him! You know I didn't do it!"

"Of course I do, child," said Tyler soothingly.

He observed her keenly. Her breast heaved.

"Let me show you something," she said intensely.

"Do you know where that door leads to?" she demanded.

Tyler nodded. "To Mrs. Gordon's room."

"Yes," she said. "And here's the truth about last night: That door closed as I opened the other one. I heard the key turn in the lock—from the other side! That's how this—this person got away!"

• • •

NAT was staring at Doris. Tyler forced himself to speak very calmly.

"But Mrs. Gordon told us she was in her room when she heard the shot," he said.

Doris met his look directly.

"Then you can draw your own conclusions," she said.

"You realize that you are practically accusing her of attempted murder?" Tyler asked.

"It's she or I!" said Doris. "And if she did try to kill Helene—and shot—Nat, I want her—destroyed!"

She drew in her breath with a rasping half-sob. Then she covered her face with her hands. Her whole body shook with emotion.

"But even if the killer did escape through her room, that doesn't prove it was she," said Tyler.

"I don't know," said Tyler. "Perhaps—Johnson."

"You don't seriously think that your—that Mrs. Gordon"— Nat began.

"I only know I saw that door close, heard that key turn," she said. "Who but Carlotta could have done that?"

"It would have been barely possible for someone else to do just that," said Tyler. "Here's the situation: the would-be killer, knowing about the alarm, either himself turns the switches in your room and in Helene's, or bribes someone in the house to do it. He intended to kill Helene and either escape by the balcony or make it appear that he had. Now just suppose that Johnson"—

"Why should he, of all people, want to kill Helene?" demanded Doris.

"Why should anyone want to kill her?" asked Tyler. "Why should Mrs. Gordon?"

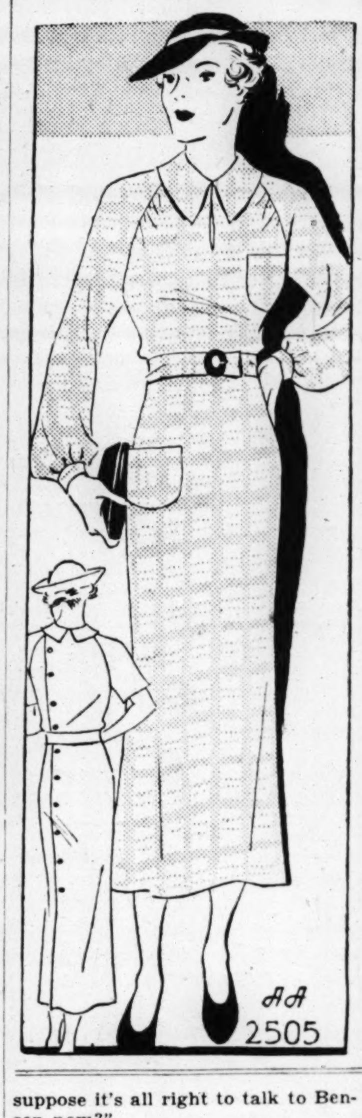
TODAY'S PATTERN



Sports Frock

BUTTONS, buttons, everywhere, this season! There's scarcely a frock that can't boast at least one or two. Note the smart young sports frock pictured here, that appears to have none at all until it turns its back, and lets you see a most unusual side-line treatment, accented solely by—Buttons! There isn't a college girl who won't fall for those easy-action sleeves of raglan cut, or a home or business girl who won't love its tailored simplicity. Made of wool plaid, a wool-appearing cotton, jersey or velveteen, it's a "must have" that no smart girl will be without. Short sleeves are optional.

Pattern 2505 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 2½ yards 54-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Important to send for your NEW ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK FOR FALL AND WINTER! It pictures the newest styles and glorious new fabrics and shows how you can outfit yourself and your family—easily and inxpensively. Gives pattern-designs for lovely gifts, and tells how to look more charming by suiting your clothes and accessories to your own personality. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY - FIVE CENTS.

Three Things In the Recipe For Happiness

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

AN English statesman has been telling us how to be happy, giving us a new recipe. At once we prick up our ears, for who does not want to know the secret of a happy life, if there be any secret?

Three things are necessary for happiness, he tells us. Not only so, but he hints that no matter how rich a man may be in gifts and blessings, he cannot have a lasting happiness without these three things.

What are they? Can any of my readers guess—if so let them have a try at it. Some would say money, a good home, comfort, books, work, a hobby, health, freedom from the grind, and a lot of other things.

No, happiness, he tells us, cannot possibly depend merely on things, else millionaires and other unfortunates might be reckoned happy. Happiness, to be real, depends not on things but on qualities.

In other words, happiness is not something added to us, but something that proceeds from us. It is not a state of life, but a state of mind, not an outside, but an inside job, and all human facts prove it.

The three things that make for happiness are these: Interest, Enthusiasm and Service. It is a wise recipe, as much for what it omits as for what it includes. If we ponder it a bit it becomes clear.

What is work if we have no interest, no enthusiasm—it is just a dull, deadening grind. The same is true of a hobby, a sport, or anything else—if there is no enthusiasm there is no full and happy life.

One may have health, home, money, books, friends, and what not, but if he has no vivid interest and no end to serve, it is all in vain. Contentment is not happiness—one is negative, the other positive.

Some folks have all that life can give, and are neither content nor happy. They are restless, unsatisfied, seeking without finding, going without arriving, trying to find something interesting to live for.

No one can be happy until he finds something to awaken interest and enthusiasm, and give him something to serve besides himself—not if he go to the ends of the earth and back again. How can he find it?

1.—According to Groves and Ogburn in their "American Marriage and Family Relationships," there have been some curious trends in the ages at which people marry. The last accurate statistics were in the 1930 census, which shows that the percentage of the entire population in the younger years who were married, had increased since 1890 as follows: Age 15 to 19, 2.2 per cent; age 20-24, 7.3 per cent; age 25-34, 4.9 per cent. But after age 34 there has been a decided decrease. Young people are marrying more frequently and older people less frequently. Whether younger people are feeling the urge to marry more than formerly and older people care less about it can only be surmised.

2.—Paraphrasing a course of the Institute of Family Relations, Los Angeles, one school of thought holds that the progress of civilization has been largely due to nagging wives. Men were too lazy to make the attempt on their own initiative, but, driven by the nagging of wives who insisted that conditions must be improved, they were forced to "get busy." Thus, behind each advance of civilization there has been some creative genius and behind him, in turn, a wife with a rolling pin. The authors think this

The authors think this must be taken with a grain of salt and yet that it may hold a grain of truth.

3. —A German psychiatrist, Dr. Kretchmer, has stirred up worldwide interest by his claims that if you are fat, tall, short, slender, athletic, etc., it indicates whether or not you will be jolly, gloomy, optimistic, pessimistic, etc., and what type of insanity and mental problems you will have. I have examined his "evidence" with great care, but it leaves me cold. While some responsible scientists seem "sold" on his theories, it seems to me such psychologists as Sheldon, Naccarati, Paterson and others have pretty thoroughly discredited it.

Point of View

By Charles Philip Riley

BOB FLEMING closed the door on the last customer of the day and slid over the bolt. He was glad the day was over, because it had been an effort to concentrate upon the stationery business with his mind so preoccupied with his own affairs.

Bob was nothing if not thorough. As great as was his haste to go home to the comfortable house on Elm street where he lived with his widowed mother and his sister Nora, he carefully put away the stock upon the counters and threw a cloth over a display table.

As he walked homeward he wished that his father had not, even if it was inevitable, died so suddenly. Or rather, that the easy-going head of the family had been a bit more explicit or confiding about the condition of his affairs.

What the will he had left contained, the family was entirely ignorant of, beyond mere speculation. Uncle Jed and the family lawyer, old Jackson, would probably be at the house when he arrived, Bob thought, with the will that Uncle Jed had brought to light.

An involuntary wrinkle formed in Bob's brow at the mere thought of Uncle Jed. There had never been any cause for distrust, but somehow he had never liked his father's brother.

Bob stopped for a moment in the cool hall and let his eyes become accustomed to the comparative darkness of the house after the still bright sunlight of the street. He could hear voices coming from the living room.

"Hello, young Fleming," old Jackson greeted as Bob entered. Uncle Jed merely cleared his throat and nodded. Bob noted with a bit of surprise the similarity of the two men, a sameness of impression they both gave.

"I'm so glad you've come at last, Robert," his mother sighed. "Nora and I have both been so nervous all day, waiting for Mr. Jackson to read the will."

"Why, that was silly, mother," Bob laughed, "there was nothing to worry about. Naturally father would have left everything to you, this house and what money he has in the bank."

"Of course, Nelly," Uncle Jed's thin lips smiled, "it is a mere matter of form to read a last will."

"As to that I can't say," interposed Jackson. "Jed here informs me that the will was given to him sealed and, as you can see, the seal is still intact."

"Who drew up the will?" questioned Bob. "Wasn't it a bit unusual for father to let anyone but you handle his legal affairs?" Jackson coughed deprecatingly.

"Your father entrusted the matter to the assistant I had several years ago, who has since left my employment. But if you will let us get on with the reading. I am sure it is a perfectly legal document, young man."

Jackson hemmed importantly and broke the wax seal which fastened the few sheets of legal paper. A hush fell upon the room. Unfolding the sheets, Jackson scanned them rapidly. "They are dated Sept. 1, 1930," he announced. Bob's surprise was evident upon his face. He wondered why his father had made no later will, knowing that he was a sick man.

"'Last will and testament of William Fleming. By these presents, may all men know that I, being of sane and sound mind' . . . we'll just skip the preamble," Jackson observed.

• • •

"'TO MY wife, Nelly, I give and bequeath, without let or hold,' continued the lawyer, 'the house and property at 42 Elm street, together with the sum of $1000.'"

"But he left almost $15,000!" Bob broke in. "Strange that he should leave mother so little!"

"Wait, young feller!" Jackson snapped. "'To my son, Robert, and to my daughter, Nora, I give and bequeath the sum of $1500 each.'" Both Nora and her mother gasped at that.

"'And to my brother, Jed, I direct that the sum of $10,000 be paid from my estate, in return for the numerous services he has rendered me in the past.'"

Bob took the unfolded papers and glanced carefully through them. "You're right," he admitted at last, "and he named you as the executor." Jackson bowed slightly and clasped his hands together nervously as Bob's mother began to weep softly. Jed scowled and drummed his fingers upon the table.

"It seems almost unbelievable, mother, but that is what the will reads." Bob walked to the window, rereading the will in the narrow shaft of sunlight which fell upon the Western side of the room. His grasp suddenly tightened upon the papers he held in his hand.

"Are you certain all these signatures are genuine?" he sharply queried Jackson.

"I am positive," affirmed the lawyer.

In the midst of an astonished silence, Bob strode to the door, locked it and put the key in his pocket. Picking up the telephone from its stand in the corner, he called the police department.

"Why, what's the meaning of this?" expostulated Jed.

"You'll have a few years of idleness to think it over, the both of you," returned Bob shortly. "The light in the window showed up the watermark in this paper. And I happen to know from my business experience that this watermark was not manufactured until two years after the date of this forged will."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

DRANK 90 GLASSES OF BEER A DAY—On display in an honored position at Mutt & Jeff's Beer Garden in Richmond Hill, New York, is the mug from which George Rudroff (Mutt of the firm) drank 90 glasses of beer each day for eight solid years. Before prohibition, Rudroff tested beer in New York breweries and every day for the entire eight years he was so employed he consumed 30 pitchers of beer, equalling 90 glasses—a total of 224,640 glasses, or 1560 half barrels of beer—all from the same mug.

And He's Rocked to Sleep

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

This anachronism of barbarism is a relic of savagery and superstition of the days when prehistoric man went to bed in a tree.

When the porter takes away the ladder he is not quite in bed and not quite in jail.

With a fair modicum of good fortune, the man in the upper terrace will be discovered in the morning by a searching party.

Otherwise, he must stay there until a Stanley or a Russian ice-breaker hears his cries and locates him by means of the latest range-finding devices.

PROPOSAL TO CUT TRADE WITH ITALY HITS SNAG

SWISS DELEGATE RAISES THE ISSUE

Poland Wants to Know What Will Be Done About Barter Pacts——Committee Adjourns After Two-Hour Session.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Oct. 17.—Possible parliamentary revolts against sanctions dampened League of Nations discussions of the British "buy-nothing-from-Italy" proposal today. After a two and a half hour session, the committee for economic sanctions adjourned without a decision.

Walther Stucki, spokesman for the Swiss delegation, pointed out to the committee that his Government would have to face the Swiss Parliament before the end of the year and be prepared to justify any commitments made to the League. He said that if Switzerland joined the "buy nothing" campaign and Italy retaliated by stopping its trade with Switzerland, the Swiss working classes might suffer severely and unemployment might increase. "What can we say to Parliament?" he asked.

Poland Makes Inquiry.

Poland also was anxious, but not about Parliament. The Polish spokesman informed the committee that Poland is having ships built in Italy and is paying for them with coal. Poland, he said, needs ships. "Did sanctions against Italy mean Poland would not get the ships?" was his question.

Maxim Litvinoff of Russia agreed that there might be special cases such as that of Poland which would have to be taken care of by the cooperating nations.

France favored the creation of a special subcommittee to take care of such cases, that is, to study what provision should be made for the exemption of certain transactions with Italy. It was agreed that this subcommittee should be created. France also proposed the creation of a joint subcommittee to watch over the enforcement of economic and financial sanctions.

Sweden Backing Proposal.

The committee definitely accepted a list of "key" products, possible of use for war purposes and the exportation of which to Italy would be prohibited in the proposed key products embargo. The committee tentatively added a second key products' list, including coal, gasoline and copper, but this list requires further study.

While the main list is on products controlled mainly by League members, the second list is of items only partly controlled by League states.

Non-League Members a Factor.

League officials explained that a definite embargo on the exportations to Italy of such things as coal, gasoline, copper, and cotton could not be declared until the committee determined whether Italy would be in a position to get these raw materials from such countries as the United States and Germany.

It was explained that without the assurance by neutral countries that they would cut off their exportation of these commodities to Italy, a League-declared embargo would be futile.

This point was covered in an official communique which said: "The committee prepared its first list of products on which it might be possible to place an immediate embargo on exports to Italy and also a second list of commodities, an embargo on which would be delayed so long as the attitude of certain non-members of the League is not known."

Three Equalization Questions.

The sub-Committee for Mutual Assistance also continued its discussion for equalizing sacrifices by League States in enforcement of economic sanctions. An official communique said questions raised during the equalization discussion so far include:

(1) Should not commercial exchanges between countries applying economic sanctions be intensified?

(2) Should not commercial exchanges be encouraged between these countries to the detriment of
